Addresses Editors

BY JOHN HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator, tonight signalized a broadcast invitation to critics of the NRA to come to Washington and be heard, by including in it one of the bitterest attacks on critics of the NRA which he has yet delivered.

Chief target was The Washington Post, a traditionally Republican newspaper. Its publisher, Eugene Meyer, who was governor of the federal reserve board during the Hoover administration; and the anonymous author of "The New Dealers," a series of articles now running in the Post, purporting to characterize and analyze the chief figures in the Roosevelt administration.

In his invitation to complainants to come and voice their grievances at the hearings to be held here beginning Feb. 27, the NRA head termed The Post a "moribund institution," its publisher a heartless reactionary, and the author of "The New Dealers," in almost so many words, "a rat."

Reply Made by Editor.

Late tonight the editors of the Post followed an earlier word of thanks to Gen. Johnson "for the advertising" by issuing the following statement:

"Gen. Johnson, in a nation-wide broadcast, without calling it by name, characterized the Washington Post as a 'dying newspaper.'

"In fairness to the Post, it must be stated that since it passed under its present management, June 12, 1933, its circulation has increased 37 per cent and its increase in advertising lineage for the six months ended Dec. 31, 1933, was the third largest for the entire country.

"The Post is publishing in serial form a book called 'The New Dealers,' and in each issue has stated that the views expressed do not necessarily represent the opinions of the Post.

"The Post has a high regard for the ability, energy and devotion to the public interest of Gen. Johnson. It is a matter of regret that it cannot also admire his self-control or temperance in public utterance."

Used as an Example.

Gen. Johnson used the Post and its articles as an example of what he termed "scurrilous and personal" attacks on officials.

"We have sought and entreated criticism of our methods and results," Gen. Johnson said. "Much of it has been useful and has borne fruit, but a greater part has sped dying and fallen dead. Of late, lacking little of substance—at least little that could be proved or demonstrated—professional criticism has degenerated into scurrilous and personal appraisements of and assaults on officials.

"A conspicuous recent instance is by a writer who dared not sign his name to his strictures and advanced as a reason the astonishing statement that these men are his friends and that if they knew that it was he who is assailing their reputations he might lose their regard.

"With a little less than libel, a trifle more than backstairs gossip—this writer, in whose veins there must flow something more than a trace of rodent blood, exalts some who are weak and throws mud at some who are strong for no other apparent reason than to provide salable copy.

Dead Sea Apples.

"All this is published by a dying newspaper, recently purchased at auction by an Old Dealer—a cold blooded reactionary—who was one of the principal guides along the road to the disaster of 1929. And the object of its purchase must have been nothing less than what it is doing now—to attack men for the purpose of destroying measures.

"'By their fruits ye shall know them'—and these are the Dead sea apples for envy, futility, and frustration. They are financed and procured by sharpshooting interests of the old school, who never used the cream, shrewdly skimmed from the efforts of other men, to produce results constructive for the general good.

"They are produced at this behest and for these shekels by some mercenary character — assassin firing

Form New Union to End Coal Strike

CHIEFS PLEDGE MEN'S RETURN TO JOBS TOMORROW

A definite move toward driving out the present management of the Chicago Coal Teamsters' union No. 704, the strike of which has tied up the city's deliveries of coal for the last two days, was made last night. Cooperating in the campaign against the officers of this outlaw union are State's Attorney Courtney, the police, and a group of experienced union leaders who claim the support of the American Federation of Labor.

The action was taken last night at a meeting in the Capitol building. Some 300 teamsters belonging to the striking union met there under police protection and voted to withdraw from the organization and join a new union to be known as the Coal Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Hikers, and Helpers' union No. 704, the word Chicago having been eliminated from the title.

Promises to End Strike.

Al Weber and James Lynch, veterans of the union movement in Chicago, were elected president and secretary-treasurer respectively of the new union. They assured their new members that the approval of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters would be forthcoming at once, that a new wage scale with the employers would be negotiated in a day or two and that all could go back to work tomorrow.

Chief of Detectives Schoemaker, who was present, added the city's assurance that the new union would have the entire police force to protect them against any violence that might be attempted by the old union.

Courtney Tells His Stand.

Approximately an hour later State's Attorney Courtney, speaking at the annual banquet of the Chicago Coal Merchants' association in the Stevens hotel, told 1,900 hearers in vigorous fashion of his intention to compel the present officers of the Chicago Coal Teamsters' union to retire. The merchants, following his advice, had refused during the last two days to deal with the old union.

"This strike," Prosecutor Courtney averred, "was called Sunday afternoon at 184 West Washington street by the notorious Marcus [Studdy] Looney, Mickey Galvin, David Reese and Milton Booth Jr. They are the outstanding representatives of the underworld in Chicago's labor field today.

"The voice of the honest union working man and the employer was not heard in the discussion on calling the strike. We know what has been taking place in this situation. For the last 30 days I have been talking to dealers and to the working union men and their wives. The men have been fearful for their lives. Their wives have asked me to help so that their husbands may work and earn a living.

Promises to Oust Racketeers.

"The workers had no quarrel with the wage scale nor with the working conditions. They should not be forced to accept the domination of racketeers. If you men here will continue to give your cooperation I promise to see that the racket element is put out of this union and forced to stay out.

"For the benefit of the union itself this must be done. The officers keep no books. No accounting is made of the dues paid in. The money paid in for sick benefits has disappeared, and no one knows where.

"By telephone the international headquarters of the legitimate teamsters' union in Indianapolis informed me today that a charter for the new union will go through as soon as it has local approval. We expect that charter tomorrow. Such an affiliation will be of lasting benefit to the workers. The men will know where their money goes."

Mayor Kelly Pledges Aid.

Mayor Kelly, in a brief speech, complimented Mr. Courtney on his stand and assured the coal dealers that full cooperation would be given by the police force. He praised the state's attorney's efforts to drive out racketeers and asked for more of a "booster spirit" in the city.

Representatives of the dealers, who handle about 75 per cent of the Chicago retail coal supply, said after the meeting that it was expected the new

MOTHER-IN-LAW DAY CELEBRATION FOR TEXAS TOWN

Amarillo, Texas, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Mother-in-law's day is the latest addition to the calendar. It will be observed here March 5.

The slogan is:

"A mother-in-law is a mother who has made good."

Some of Amarillo's prominent matrons, encouraged by Gene A. Howe, newspaper publisher, have organized the mother-in-law's day club of Texas.

"We mothers-in-law too long have borne the brunt of harsh jokes and misleading insinuations," Mrs. N. S. Griggs, the club's president, declared today. "It is time the public paid us some respect."

Amarillo will honor them in a big way. The mayor will issue a proclamation calling for city-wide observance. There will be flowers, a free show at the leading theaters, favors from business houses, and prizes for the oldest and youngest, the prettiest, and the one with the most married children.

WHITE HOUSE WINE GLASSES STAY PACKED

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—(AP)—The 1,800 White House wine glasses that were packed away in the Hoover régime haven't come out of hiding yet, perhaps won't until autumn, but certainly will when occasion arises.

This information came from Mrs. Roosevelt today in response to press conference questioning.

Some one suggested the scheduled visit of the King of Siam might prove a likely occasion. Mrs. Roosevelt admitted that it might, but said the visit might be postponed until fall. She added that only the number of wine glasses that were really needed would be unpacked.

EXECUTION OF 3 AT BOSTON HELD UP BY BLIZZARD

Hogsett because Robert Elliott, the executioner, was snowbound somewhere between New York and Boston. They are Herman Snyder of Boston, John A. Donnellon of Los Angeles, and Harry C. Bull of Brooklyn.

Disown Prince of Sweden for Actress' Match

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

BERLIN, Feb. 20.—Prince Sigvard, 26 second son of Crown Prince Gustav Adolf of Sweden, was disowned by the Swedish royal house tonight. He aroused the anger of King Gustav and his father by refusing to break his engagement to Erika Patzek, a movie extra, whom he met in Berlin film studios.

Fraulein Patzek is understood to be the daughter of a Berlin business man who owns several stands in the central market here. She is described by friends as a beautiful blonde, diminutive, and in her early twenties.

Royal Statement Issued.

"The Swedish News agency has been authorized to state that Prince Sigvard arrived at London recently and there made preparations to marry a woman of German nationality. The prince took this step against the expressed will of the king and the crown prince."

The prince is a brother of Princess Astrid, who, as consort of Crown Prince Leopold, will become queen of Belgium Friday. He became an assistant director in the Neubabelsberg studios of the UFA film concern in 1932. He was then studying costume designing and decorative art at Munich under an assumed name.

Another "Love Match" Reported.

Sigvard has been reported in love or engaged on several occasions.

In 1929 a "love match" was reported between him and Princess Maria, youngest daughter of the king and queen of Italy. In July, 1930, his father officially denied an Amsterdam report of the betrothal of Sigvard and Princess Juliana, only daughter of Queen Wilhelmina of Holland. The rumors were revived five months later.

Prince Sigvard's marriage would be the second between a member of the Swedish royal family and a commoner. Prince Lennart, son of Prince William, the second son of King Gustav, married Karin Nissvandt, daughter of a Stockholm industrialist, in March, 1932.

Lennart too incurred the royal anger and was shorn of his title and his right to inherit the crown. He became plain "Mr. Bernadotte." King Gustav, however, withdrew his objections after a short time and was instrumental in effecting a reconciliation between Lennart and his father.

Sweden Surprised.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Feb. 20.—(AP)—There was great surprise here tonight at the announcement of the engagement of Prince Sigvard, son of the crown prince, to an actress.

It was understood that the prince is now in London. Count Folke Bernadotte, cousin of the crown prince, went to London Saturday by plane to appeal to Sigvard to respect the wishes of his family and abandon the intended marriage.

The crown prince, it was understood, wanted to go himself, but he was unable because he is acting regent in the absence of the king, who is in France.

LA GUARDIA CONSIDERS FIXING LEGAL SABBATH OF JEWS ON SATURDAY

New York, Feb. 20.—[Special.]—Mayor F. H. La Guardia disclosed today the possibility of amending the state kosher law to establish Saturday as the Sabbath in all parts of the city where Jews predominated.

The mayor has discussed the matter with Rabbi George Conowitz, president of the Union of Orthodox Rabbis of the United States and Canada, Magistrate Jonah J. Goldstein and other leaders. If Saturday became a holy day they told the mayor, they would like stores open on Sunday.

Practice of this nature, the mayor said, would have to operate by local option, with different regulations applying to different parts of the city. He has asked Corporation Counsel Paul Windels for a report on the laws covering the matter.

Alton, Ill., Feb. 20.—(AP)—Robert Wadlow, Alton schoolboy giant, 16 on Thursday, now is 7 feet 10½ inches tall. He weighs 365 pounds, having grown 2 inches and gained 25 pounds in the last year. In the preceding year he grew 3½ inches and gained 39 pounds.

A year ago Robert said he hoped to be a lawyer, but now he thinks he might do better in the advertising branch of the shoe industry. A student in the Alton high school, he makes good grades. He does not participate in sports.

Price of Milk Cut a Cent by 3 Big Dairies

Three of Chicago's largest dairy companies yesterday announced that, beginning Friday morning, their price for milk delivered to the consumer's doorstep will be 9 cents a quart, a reduction of 1 cent.

The first to slash was the Borden's Farm Products company. A short while after the Borden decision was made known representatives of the Wieland and Wanzer dairies announced they would meet the price. Other dairies, according to reports last night, will announce a similar act today.

Move Is a Surprise.

It was said the move of the local Borden company, which is part of a company operating a national chain of dairies, came as a surprise to other units of the industry. The company asserted it had already sacrificed all its profits in milk distribution and was lowering the consumer price to "increase consumption, maintain employment, and assist in the stabilization of the Chicago milk market."

The Chicago Milk Dealers' association, composed of a number of the smaller dealers who deliver, will undoubtedly meet the price cut, according to Otto Black, business agent of the organization. He added that a meeting will be called tonight to take action on this matter and on negotiations for a new pay scale for union milk wagon drivers.

The entire cut will have to be absorbed by the dairies and their labor, the government having licensed all the dealers and pledged its resources in enforcing the present price paid to the farmers for their milk. This farm price, for milk sold as a fluid, is $1.75 a hundred pounds, or about 3.7 cents a quart.

Dairies Seek Wage Cut.

Whether the dairies will be able to force the union labor to accept lower pay is problematical. Several offers of a $35 a week scale instead of the present $40 were made by the dairymen and have been vigorously rejected by the drivers. However, it has been rumored that some of the smaller dairies have made unofficial deals with their employés and are already paying them less than the standard scale.

It is expected that the cash and carry price of milk in the chain stores, under the new arrangement, will be 8 or 8½ cents a quart. Cut rate stores, which have taken a great deal of business from the dairy companies, are now selling at 7½ cents a quart, but require deposits on their bottles.

Steps to Enforce License.

The Agricultural Adjustment administration in Washington yesterday took steps to enforce the new government milk license recently invoked here. An order was issued against the Peoples Dairy Company, Inc., 2410 South 56th street, Cicero, and Lloyd V. Shissler of Lombard, requiring that they show cause why their licenses to operate should not be revoked as a result of alleged violations of the federal license which arbitrarily binds all distributors in the Chicago milk shed.

It was charged that the two dealers had purchased milk from Wisconsin producers at a flat price of $1.40 per hundredweight despite the terms of the license, which stipulates a farm price for fluid milk in this area of $1.75 per hundredweight.

PART IN FACTOR RANSOM IS TOLD BY HENRICHSEN

Story Takes Defense by Surprise.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

A second courtroom confession, unexpected and staggering to the defense, came yesterday afternoon from the lips of a Touhy gangster on the witness stand in Judge Michael Feinberg's court.

Roger Touhy and two of his gang who are on trial for the kidnaping last July 1 of John Factor, wealthy stock speculator, listened in open dismay as W. A. [Buck] Henrichsen, their former confederate, revealed to the jury that he had helped collect the $70,000 ransom which was paid for Factor's release on July 12.

Follows Costner's Lead.

Henrichsen was the second follower of Touhy to turn state's evidence in two days. Isaac Costner, one of the kidnapers, made a complete avowal of his guilt from the witness stand on Monday and definitly linked the defendants, as did Henrichsen, with the crime.

The second confession added to the almost overwhelming mass of evidence which the state has accumulated against Touhy and his co-defendants, Albert Kator and Gus Schaefer, in this second trial. The first trial, at which the two confessions were not presented, ended in a disagreement of the jury.

Revelations Kept Secret.

The revelations which Henrichsen made on the stand yesterday were kept a secret until he testified. Only First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert F. Crowley and Capt. Daniel Gilbert, chief investigator for the state's attorney, knew what Henrichsen was going to say.

At the first trial Henrichsen had merely identified himself as one of the Touhy gang and had denied all knowledge of the kidnaping of Factor. On cross-examination at that time he aided Defense Attorney William Scott Stewart by his ready admissions, so that he was considered as valuable a witness for the defense as for the state.

Enmeshed by Costner.

But Costner's confession to the state's attorney's investigators had named Henrichsen as one of those who collected the ransom, and when Henrichsen was confronted with this information he broke down, it was revealed. He told his full story last Sunday night, but it was kept secret until yesterday. In order that there might be no slip-up Costner did not mention Henrichsen's part in the ransom collection when he [Costner] was on the witness stand.

Henrichsen's confession, as it came from his own lips, was thus all the more startling to the defense. Touhy's composure was broken for the first time. He gulped, made a strangling noise and, it was learned later, had swallowed his gum.

Forced to Help, He Says.

Henrichsen, who forsook a job as a county highway policeman to join the Touhy gang as a beer truck driver at $100 a week and who was later demoted to be the bodyguard of Roger Touhy's children at $40 a week, asserted that he was forced to help collect the ransom money.

"I was made to do it because the rest of the boys were suspicious I knew something," he said. "Willie Sharkey [Touhy gangster who later committed suicide in the St. Paul jail] told me: 'The rest of the boys are afraid you know too much and they're going to dirty you up.'"

The "dirtying up" process consisted of making Henrichsen drive an automobile along 22d street on the afternoon of July 12, he testified, and stopping a taxicab in which was riding Dr. Herman M. Soloway, Factor's physician, with the $70,000 ransom. Jim Tribbles, another Touhy gangster, was with him. Henrichsen testified, and took a suitcase containing the money from Dr. Soloway. Tribbles was later slain in a labor brawl.

Adds to Silvers Evidence.

Henrichsen also strengthened the evidence indicating that Joe Silvers "put the finger" on Factor as a victim for the abduction. He told of several meetings between Silvers and the Touhy gang while Factor was still a captive.

Silvers was said to be in control of the gambling privileges at the Dells roadhouse in Morton Grove at the time Factor was kidnaped. Costner, in his testimony on Monday, said that while Factor was a guest at the roadhouse on the night of June 30 Silvers twice left the place and conferred with Roger Touhy, who was waiting with

Henrichsen Starts Story.

The beginning of Henrichsen's testimony was similar to his evidence at the first trial. He told of the gathering of the Touhy gangsters at James Wagner's roadhouse on the River road, north of Des Plaines, on the afternoon of June 30, a few hours before Factor was seized, but said he did not accompany the men that night and knew nothing of what they did.

On July 5, and again on July 7, he said, he picked up Silvers at the Dells on orders of Roger Touhy and took Silvers to a roadhouse known as the Commercial club, where Silvers conferred at length with Touhy and several other members of the gang.

Without haste Prosecutor Crowley led the witness through a day by day story of the doings of the gangsters while the defendants, Touhy, Kator, and Schaefer, listened complacently. They had heard all this before and they could visualize Henrichsen furnishing the same glib assistance to their defense which he had offered at the former trial.

His New Evidence Begins.

"Now, on July 12 [the day the ransom was paid] what did you do?" asked the prosecutor.

"I went out to 22d street and Wolf road with Jimmy Tribbles," he answered.

This was something new and the defendants sat up in their seats while Defense Attorney Stewart moved to a chair where he could watch the witness intently.

"Whom did you see out there?" Henrichsen was asked.

"A man I didn't know," was the answer. "I've never seen him since. I think, however, it was Dr. Soloway."

Tribbles Gets Suitcase.

"Tribbles got a suitcase from the man," continued Henrichsen. "We took it to the Glenview house. All the boys were gathered there." [Factor has identified a house at Fern and Elm streets, Glenview, as the place where he was kept the first day of his captivity, and it was presumably to this place that Henrichsen referred.]

Q.—Did you know what you were going to do when you went out to 22d street? A.—Tribbles said it was to collect the ransom for Factor.

Q.—Did any one else talk to you? A.—Sharkey told me to be careful.

Q.—What else? A.—I asked who had Factor, and Sharkey told me that if I didn't know I ought to.

Q.—Did Sharkey tell you anything else? A.—He said the boys were afraid I knew too much and they were going to dirty me up a bit.

Goes Out with Sharkey.

The night of July 12, Henrichsen said, he was out with Sharkey, but left his companion when the latter got drunk. The following day, he said, he visited the "boys" at one of their meeting places in Park Ridge and they were all drinking beer.

"On July 14," he testified, "Roger gave me $1,000 in tens and twenties and told me to buy a new car. I went home and told my wife. It was my little girl's birthday."

On July 15, the witness declared, he was warned that all the Touhys had left town, so he and Andy McFadden, a member of the gang and a son of Edward [Father Tom] McFadden, who was freed as a kidnaping defendant at the first trial, went to Minnesota.

Henrichsen detailed other trips about the country. He finally returned to Chicago, where he was arrested by Capt. Gilbert.

UNDER CROSS-EXAMINATION

Attorney Stewart's cross-examination was particularly searching. Henrichsen perspired vastly as he was badgered by the defense lawyer, but did not waver in his story.

Q.—You testified at the last trial under oath? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—You said then that you had never heard about any kidnaping? A.—Yes.

Q.—What you're telling now is all new? A.—Yes.

Q.—When did you first tell this new story? A.—Last Sunday night. Capt. Gilbert told me that Costner had confessed and named me and I told him Costner was right.

Q.—So you said you'd go along with the state? A.—I said I'd tell the truth.

Q.—Well, you didn't tell the truth last time, did you? A.—I was trying to shield myself.

In his questioning of the witness Attorney Stewart brought out more details of the collection of the ransom.

"There were three cars altogether," Henrichsen said. "The one in front was driven by Sharkey. Then came the car with Tribbles and me, me driving. In back of us was another car driven by Kator.

"We drove along 22d street west until we saw a Checker cab. Tribbles directed me to swing in back of the cab and it stopped. A man came back to us. Tribbles had a machine gun between his knees. The man said: 'Where's Jack [Factor]?' Tribbles said: 'Where's the money?'

"The man went back and got a suitcase and gave it to Tribbles. Tribbles said: 'Jack will be out by 9 o'clock tonight.'

"Then," concluded Henrichsen simply, "Tribbles said, 'Let's duck,' and we did."

Factor was released late that night in La Grange.

Questioning Is Resumed.

Q.—[By Stewart]—Everything must be fine and friendly now between you and the state. Have you been promised anything for this testimony? A.—No.

Q.—The state has been supporting your family, hasn't it? A.—I don't know. My wife's not complaining.

Q.—You took a couple of girls with you up into Minnesota on that trip, didn't you? A.—No.

Q.—Where did you stay? A.—I refuse to answer on the ground that I might incriminate myself.

A state objection to this last question was sustained by Judge Feinberg.

Q.—Isn't Bernice Vanderpool, your former wife, a friend now of Terry Druggan? A. [appealing to the judge] —Do I have to answer that?"

KATOR'S CAPTOR HEARD

This concluded the questioning of Henrichsen. Three other witnesses followed him to the stand before the afternoon session of court adjourned. The first was Policeman Frank Furst who told of arresting the defendant Kator last November in a north side apartment. Kator was the last of the defendants at the present trial to be taken into custody. Touhy and Schaefer both were captured last July 19 with other members of the gang when they had an automobile accident near Elkhorn, Wis.

The next witness was Charles De Camio, an automobile salesman. De Camio told of selling to Charles [Ice Wagon] Connors, a member of the Touhy gang still at large, the automobile which was used on July 15 in an effort to collect an additional $50,000 ransom from Factor. The car was abandoned in the forest preserve near La Grange by two gangsters who escaped a trap set by more than 200 policemen after taking a decoy package containing $500 from two policemen disguised as a cab driver and a telegraph messenger. The two gangsters are believed to have been Connors and Basil Banghart, who was captured with Costner in Baltimore on Feb. 11.

The last witness of the day was Mrs. Rella Factor, wife of Factor. Her story of the kidnaping of her husband near the Dells roadhouse was the same as the one she told at the first trial. She identified a picture of Sharkey as that of one of the kidnapers.

WAGNER'S TESTIMONY

Of the ten witnesses placed on the stand at the morning session, only one had not testified at the first trial. He is James Wagner, owner of the River road tavern frequented by the Touhy gang. He vanished while waiting to be heard as a witness at the former trial. Wagner's appearance yesterday was a surprise, since the state had kept his return a secret. His disappearance had been followed by rumors that he had been threatened by a member of the Touhy gang who is still at large.

He declared that he had worked as a beer truck driver for Roger Touhy for six years. Last May he opened a roadhouse on the River road two and one-half miles north of Des Plaines and about 600 feet south of Touhy's home, he testified. He was acquainted with most of the members of the Touhy gang and named them, including the three defendants.

Kator Refuses to Stand.

When Wagner was asked if he knew Kator, Defense Attorney Stewart said: "Stand up so that he can see you, Kator."

Kator mumbled something and remained hunched in his seat. Schaefer also refused to stand when similarly directed, but Touhy arose when his turn came.

"About the middle of May, Roger Touhy and his boys began to frequent my place," said the witness, a chunky, bald headed man of about fifty years. "They used to come in three or four times a week."

"Directing your attention to the afternoon of June 30," said Assistant State's Attorney Marshall Kearney, what happened that afternoon?"

"A number of the boys were in my place," said Wagner.

He named Touhy, Kator, Schaefer, Henrichsen, Sharkey, Porky Dillon, Connors, and Banghart as being present. They held a meeting in the roadhouse from 3 p. m. until about 6:30 p. m., and then left and did not return, Wagner declared.

The state's contention is that the Factor kidnaping was planned at this meeting. Defense Attorney Stewart immediately began to attack this theory upon cross-examination.

"Name some other patrons of your place," he ordered Wagner.

The witness did so, naming a number of Des Plaines business men. Stewart brought out that these men were all acquaintances of Touhy.

Q.—Did you hear any of the defendants talk about kidnaping Factor that afternoon? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Did you hear anything about kidnaping at all? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Was Roger Touhy home for some time after July 1? A.—Yes, he was.

A number of questions intended to show that Wagner had been harassed by government men, police, and state's attorney's investigators were objected to by the state, and the objections were sustained by Judge Feinberg.

Q.—You feared the prosecution authorities, didn't you? A.—In a way I did.

Wants to Avoid Trouble.

Q.—Are you unfriendly to Roger Touhy? A.—No.

Q.—You just want to avoid trouble with the prosecution? A.—I want to avoid trouble with anybody.

On redirect examination Prosecutor Crowley tried to show that Wagner had failed to appear to testify at the first trial, but Stewart's objections to this line of questioning were upheld by the judge.

"What's he trying to do, judge?" inquired Stewart, with a hurt air.

"I'm just trying to show who he [Wagner] is really afraid of," retorted Crowley. The judge put an end to further argument.

Mrs. James Wagner, wife of the witness, corroborated her husband's testimony when she was placed on the stand.

EIGHT OTHER WITNESSES

Three of the other eight witnesses testified briefly that they had seen several members of the Touhy gang about the Touhy headquarters at 304 Center street, Park Ridge. These witnesses were Mrs. Margaret McCoy, landlady; Fred Zilchner, janitor, and Frank Posan, a tenant.

The five other witnesses told of the arrest of Touhy, Schaefer, Sharkey, and Edward [Father Tom] McFadden near Elkhorn. The four loaded revolvers and rifle found in the automobile in which the gangsters were riding when an unarmed Elkhorn policeman took them into custody were introduced into evidence.

These five witnesses were Policeman Harry Ward, who made the actual arrest of the Touhys after their car had struck a telegraph pole near Elkhorn; H. C. Squires of Elkhorn, who saw the accident; Sheriff George O'Brien of Walworth county, Wis.; Deputy Sheriff Joseph A. Dorr, and George Wiswell, a resident of Elkhorn, who searched the car and found the guns.

Tells of Finding Money.

Sheriff O'Brien told of finding $1,271 on Touhy, mostly in tens and twenties. He also found bills of similar denomination amounting to $160 and $190 respectively on Sharkey and Schaefer, he said. [Factor's ransom was paid in $10 and $20 bills.]

A square of muslin and a length of rope, alleged to have been found in the Touhy gangsters' car and produced by the state at the first trial, were not presented to the jury this time. The contention at the former trial was that these might have been used to blindfold and tie kidnaping victims.

In all, fourteen witnesses testified for the state yesterday. This makes a total of thirty-one state witnesses who have been on the stand in three days of evidence taking. The prosecution still has a few other witnesses, including Factor.

TOUHY EMPLOYES SEIZED

Thomas Meehan and Stanley Chidley, caretaker and night watchman, respectively, at Roger Touhy's home, north of Des Plaines, were locked in cells at the detective bureau last night after they visited a room in the Hotel Sherman, where Sergt. Stephen Leddy of the state's attorney's office was guarding Rudy Benitez, a Filipino, who testified for the state Monday in the kidnaping trial.

Sergt. Leddy expressed the belief that Meehan and Chidley had intended to take the witness from him, but both Meehan and Chidley denied it. They said they were looking for Attorney Stewart.

Benitez, a bellboy in the Copeland hotel, was a minor witness Monday. His testimony concerned a part of the Factor ransom negotiations between Dr. Soloway and the Factor kidnapers. He identified Sharkey as the man who had brought Factor's ring to the hotel and asked that it be delivered to the Soloway apartment there.

Auto Tail Light Is Revealed as Cause of New Touhy Woes

The failure of two Touhy gangsters to observe a minor traffic regulation in Baltimore—that of keeping the tail-light burning on a car parked at night—was revealed yesterday as the slip which started a train of circumstances resulting in an ever-increasing mountain of evidence against Roger Touhy and two of his gang in their trial for the kidnaping of John Factor.

State's attorney's investigators disclosed yesterday what had led to the arrest of the two Touhy gangsters, Isaac Costner and Basil Banghart in Baltimore last Feb. 11. Previous dispatches had indicated that government operatives had trailed the gangsters from Chicago to Kentucky to North Carolina to Maryland.

A Policeman's Curiosity.

But it was an inquisitive Baltimore policeman who caused their arrest, it was learned. The policeman noticed Banghart's and Costner's automobile parked outside their apartment with an unlit tail light. He made inquiries concerning the owners of the car and was informed by a woman caretaker that they had been acting suspiciously during their occupancy of the apartment.

They insisted on being present while the apartment was being cleaned, she said, and wouldn't let her look into the closets. The policeman reported these circumstances to his superiors. A raid on the apartment followed, the two gangsters were arrested and guns and $12,495 loot from a Charlotte, N. C., mail robbery were discovered.

If Costner and Banghart had not forgotten to keep the tail-light burning, they might still be at large, one investgator pointed out last night.

If Costner had not been arrested, the investigator reasoned, he would not have made the confession which put such a different complexion on the state's case against Touhy and his co-defendants, Albert Kator and Gus Schaefer. Costner made a complete confession and positively identified Touhy, Kator and Schaefer as the kidnapers of Factor.

If Costner had not confessed, it was said, W. A. [Buck] Henrichsen, another Touhy gangster, would probably have kept to his story told at the first trial and not confessed, as he did yesterday, that he had helped collect the $70,000 ransom for Factor.

What It Means to State.

In fact, the investigator argued, the infraction of that minor Baltimore regulation means all the difference between the mistrial which followed the disagreement of the jury in the first case, and the conviction and heavy penalty which the state is confident will be the result of the second trial.

Costner, Banghart, Ludwig Schmidt and Charles [Ice Wagon] Connors, the last two being fugitives, were indicted yesterday by a federal grand jury in Asheville, N. C., on the charge that they robbed a mail truck of $105,000 in Charlotte last November.

EIGHT JURORS CHOSEN TO TRY DR. WYNEKOOP

Predict Taking of Evidence Will Start Today.

BY GEORGE WRIGHT.

The jury which is expected to decide the fate of Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop in her second trial for the murder of her daughter-in-law, Rheta Gardner Wynekoop, will be completed within an hour after the opening of Judge Harry B. Miller's court this morning. This prediction was made by the judge and by attorneys in the case last evening as court adjourned with eight jurors sworn in and two others tentatively accepted by both state and defense.

Peremptory challenges, the means by which attorneys get rid of undesirable veniremen against whom there is no legal objection, were practically exhausted as the second day of the trial ended. The defense had used up 19 challenges and the prosecution had exhausted 18. Each side is allowed 20 peremptory challenges in a murder case.

The eight jurors so far chosen are all pledged to inflict the death penalty if the evidence warrants.

Start Evidence Today.

Unless Dr. Wynekoop, who is 63 years old, again experiences the same sort of heart collapse which halted her first trial, the present case will be pushed to conclusion as swiftly as possible, Judge Miller indicated last night. Taking of evidence, according to this plan, will be started this afternoon. Opening statements by the state and defense attorneys are expected to be made before the noon recess, the judge said.

The defendant complained of her physical condition last night in her county jail cell. "I ache in every bone in my body," she said. Earlier in the day she had said she "felt terribly tired," but she made no complaint of the overtime afternoon session of court held by Judge Miller in a vain effort to complete the jury.

Dr. Wynekoop has been a prisoner in the jail since a few days after Nov. 21 when the body of the slain Rheta was found on an operating table in the basement of the Wynekoop home at 3406 Monroe street.

Rival Attorneys Become Wary.

The eight jurors sworn yesterday were selected during the morning session of court. The rapidity with which these men were chosen gave rise to the hope that the jury would be completed in the afternoon. The attorneys on both sides, however, suddenly became wary about accepting a final panel of four jurors and peremptory challenges were used frequently.

Dr. Wynekoop eyed each venireman carefully as he was questioned for jury service. Often she leaned from her chair beside the counsel table to ask her attorney, W. W. Smith, to excuse some venireman. She was insistent in her demand that Venireman John A. Banning, 8722 Harper avenue, a retired decorator, be excused. He is 69 years old. A challenge finally removed him to the apparent relief of Dr. Wynekoop.

Of the eight jurors selected, only two are more than 40 years old. One of these is 63 and the other is 41. All the other six are well under the 40 year mark. Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty and Defense Attorney Smith both seemed anxious to have young men on the jury.

Laughs Enliven the Task.

The monotonous task of jury selection was brightened now and then by the remarks of a venireman. Dr. Wynekoop, who seemed alert to everything about her, joined in the laughter, particularly when Venireman Joseph E. Strachan, 1415 Larrabee street, was questioned. He is 62 years old and a public accountant.

"I had an opinion, but I put it aside after I came into the courtroom and heard the judge give instructions," Strachan said. "I will say, however, that my opinion is different from that of my wife. We fought like cats and dogs over this case."

He was excused, as was every other venireman who indicated that he had discussed the case with his wife. The defense was particularly active in excusing veniremen who admitted having talked over the case with women of their families.

Two Children In Court.

Throughout the day Dr. Wynekoop's daughter, Dr. Catherine Wynekoop, sat on one side of the courtroom with her brother, Walker. Earle Wynekoop, the other son of Dr. Alice, husband of the slain Rheta, was not in court.

Walker Wynekoop was allowed to bring in lunch for his mother during the noon recess. She ate in an anteroom with Walker and Dr. Catherine.

Judge Miller permitted this on the plea that it would conserve the defendant's strength and save her the long trip through the tunnel from the Criminal Courts building to the jail and back again to the courtroom.

'KIDNAP FARM' CLEW FAILS; FACTOR CAN'T IDENTIFY THE HOUSE

Reports that investigators had discovered the farmhouse in which John Factor was kept by his kidnapers during most of his 12 day's captivity last July caused a flurry yesterday in the Criminal courts building where Roger Touhy and two of his gangsters are on trial for the kidnaping.

Factor and Isaac Costner, Touhy gangster who confessed on the witness stand Monday that he had been one of Factor's keepers, were taken at once to the farmhouse described in the reports. It is a mile and a half west of Wauconda in Lake county and is owned by Mr. and Mrs. John Butler. After examining the Butler dwelling, however, both Factor and Costner said it bore no resemblance to the place where Factor had been a prisoner.

The Butlers were not present when the examination was made. Peter Williams, 50 years old, caretaker of the farmhouse, had been seized by state's attorney's police before the visit of Factor and Costner on the suspicion that he knew something about the kidnaping. The investigators said later that he would be released.

Factor has testified that during the first day of his captivity he was held in the house in Glenview and then was taken that night to a farmhouse where he was kept until he was ransomed. The Glenview house has been identified, but the farmhouse has never been found.

WISCONSIN MAY GET 'FATHER TOM' TODAY FOR TRIAL

Edward [Father Tom] McFadden, Touhy gangster who was dismissed by the state as a defendant at the first Factor kidnaping trial, is expected to be turned over to Wisconsin authorities today for trial in Elkhorn on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. The police said yesterday that extradition papers had been signed and would be presented today in Judge Frederick W. Elliott's court.

McFadden was arrested and held for extradition after the Factor kidnaping charge against him had been nol prossed. The gun charge grew out of his arrest with other Touhy gangsters last July 19 near Elkhorn.

WAGNER HOLDS ONLY U. S. CAN STOP LYNCHING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—The only way to stop lynching is to implement the federal government with anti-lynching legislation, thus divorcing enforcement from local passion, declares Senator Wagner [Dem., N. Y.] who, with Senator Costigan [Dem., Colo.], has drawn an anti-lynching bill.

Dieterich Objects to Penalty.

The bill provides penalties not exceeding a $5,000 fine, and/or five years imprisonment for any state or local officer whose negligence on duty contributes toward a lynching, or whose indifference hampers capture and prosecution of the lynchers. And if he conspires with the mob he may go to jail for life.

Senator Dieterich [Dem., Ill.] attacked a clause to impose an absolute liability of $10,000 on any county in which a lynching occurs. He held this provision unfair to the taxpayers and to officers who do their duty.

More Restaurant Unrest.

Attorney Arthur Garfield Hayes, appearing for the Civil Liberties union, doubted that only the riff-raff of a community showed mob pyschology.

It is reported that as those at the hearing surged into the senate office building restaurant, a woman, one of several Negroes at the proceedings, accompanied them.

Restaurant officials will not admit telling her all the vacant tables were "reserved for senators," then, when she refused to leave, summoning police to bundle her downstairs.

NEW YORK AND EAST IN GRIP OF STORM; 29 DEAD

Ships in Distress; Trains Stuck in Snowdrifts.

New York, Feb. 20.—[Special.]—New York and New England have spent the last 24 hours in the grip of the worst snow blizzard since the historic storms of 1888.

Rail, suburban, and city transportation lines are paralyzed and service suspended in many areas. Thousands of commuters were marooned throughout the day, and those who reached the metropolitan areas had extreme difficulty in getting home at night. Hotels were crowded with stranded persons.

Ships are caught in ice jams, schools suspended, streets are choked with snow drifts, automobile traffic is confined to main arteries, and a coating of ice makes traffic of any sort hazardous.

Ice, Sleet Add to Havoc.

While the snowfall in the New York and Boston areas ranged below 12 inches, and the temperature hovered around 9 degrees, the havoc created was intensified by a mixture of sleet, ice, and gale.

Suffering was general, but the number of deaths attributed to the storm in the metropolitan area was held to the surprisingly low figure of 13. Nine were reported dead in New England, one in Westchester, and six in Pennsylvania, making a day's total of 29.

Train service between New York and Boston was virtually suspended all day and tonight, although some of the commuting trains to lower New England and to New Jersey were able to push through snow drifts this evening with homeward bound travelers. It was estimated that at least 500,000 commuters were unable to get into New York, and many of them were stranded for hours on trains stuck in snowdrifts.

Subway Carries On.

All forms of transportation, within the city and connecting it with its suburbs and other parts of the country, were stopped or badly delayed except the subway lines. Railroads, buses, ships, airplanes, trolley cars, elevated trains, and taxicabs all were tied up at one time or another because of icy streets, snow covered tracks, frozen switches, blown down wires, or great drifts.

Communication systems suffered heavily, especially the telephone service in outlying sections.

A combination of transportation and communication difficulties seriously increased the city's normal fire hazards and caused both Mayor F. H. La Guardia and Fire Commissioner McElligott to appeal to the public to take special care of their fires and to telephone notice of fire to borough fire headquarters besides ringing the regular fire alarms.

This was because several hundred fire alarm boxes were put out of commission.

Stock Exchange Opening Delayed.

Hundreds of thousands of business men and their employés were unable to reach their places of business on time and some were cut off altogether from their work. Because brokers were delayed the New York Stock exchange had to delay its opening an hour and other exchanges in the city also were forced to open later than usual.

Banks, stores, corporations, business enterprises, and institutions of all kinds were affected in the same way. Throngs of children stayed away from school and so did many teachers.

Certain villages on the fringe of the metropolitan area were described as isolated from the rest of the world, except for the telephone and telegraph, and those not always working at their best.

Despite the sufferings, discomforts, and losses resulting from the storm, provisions for homeless and needy persons were more than adequate, city officials announcing that they had plenty of beds and food for all who were expected to apply.

The snow also brought jobs to 30,000 who began digging the city out.

Queens, Brooklyn and adjacent parts of Long Island suffered most of all the metropolitan district. Long Island was virtually cut off from New York City at one time. Throughout the day, its transportation and communication service with the city was far below normal. Some Long Island communities beyond Jamaica had no railroad connections until late in the afternoon, some none at all.

New England Lashed by Gale.

The entire New England coast was lashed by a 60 mile gale. The storm extended inland as far as the Adirondacks and south to the eastern shore of Maryland, although with less severity, and an accompanying cold wave reached clear to Florida.

Shipping was in distress all along the nation's northeastern sea board. At least 80 lives were imperiled, although tonight it appeared that in every case the valiant coast guardsmen and other rescue forces were winning their battles with the storm. Numerous ships were towed to port in the Boston area.

Scores of New England communities were isolated by the storm. Street car, bus and automobile traffic through Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island were demoralized by the drifts; telephone wires were down and in some places the electric power lines also failed.

2,500 MOTORISTS ARRESTED; TAG DRIVE IS TO GO ON

Required to Post Bail at Police Stations.

BY HAL FOUST.

Approximately 2,500 motorists were arrested yesterday for failure to display 1934 state and city licenses as the police opened a drive to collect the taxes. Commissioner Allman said the campaign will continue until all cars are equipped with this year's plates and windshield stickers.

Secretary of State Hughes said only about half of the 1,200,000 passenger car owners in Illinois have paid their 1934 registration fees, which were due under the statute on Jan. 1. Chicagoland has about 50 per cent of the state's automobiles.

Required to Post Bail.

The arrested motorists were taken to district police stations and required to post $10 bail in each case. In other words, $20 bond was required of the violator with neither a state nor a city license. The cases were set for next Tuesday.

Capt. David Flynn, head of the police traffic division, said that prosecution will be dropped if the defendants appear in court at the appointed time with their plates and stickers, but that the judges will be asked to fine those who do not pay their taxes during the week.

Commissioner Allman's office said no one unable to post bail would be locked in jail if he were able to identify himself satisfactorily as a permanent resident of Chicago or a permanent employé in Chicago. However, there were reports from outlying police stations of desk sergeants who were detaining defendants in license cases.

CWA Trucks Are Offenders.

The county highway police were caught with 1933 plates, but so far as could be learned none was arrested. These patrolmen have not received any pay from the county in eight months, but they have been patroling the roads, buying their own gasoline and furnishing their own automobiles.

Civil works administration trucks were also found to be offenders, but so far as could be learned none was arrested.

"These trucks," said Lieut. Col. Dan. I. Sultan, U. S. E. C., head of the Cook county CWA, "are subject to the same state regulations that apply to other trucks, but we're not trying to enforce a state law against them. It's not a very serious offense. Many are now earning their first money with which they might buy licenses. Besides, they'll be through with this government job by May 1. We are working about a thousand trucks."

Chiefs of Police George Kummero of Elmhurst and Carl Burg of Western Springs, suburbs frequented by the CWA trucks, announced that the drivers will be arrested if still operating on 1933 plates after March 1.

License Offices Crowded.

The Chicago police enforcement campaign overloaded the city collector's office in the city hall and Secretary Hughes' Cook county office at 120 South Ashland avenue with delinquents scrambling to get their plates and stickers. At the state automobile bureau the crowds waited outside for from thirty minutes to an hour before joining the lines inside the building.

At the joint offices of City Collector Kaindl and City Clerk Brady payments for city vehicle stickers jumped yesterday to $250,605. On the previous day 15,792 automobile owners paid in $182,447.

Promises Quick Deliveries.

The mails to the Springfield office of the secretary of state were swollen but J. J. Nash, head of the automobile license department, promised that deliveries could be made within three or four days after the receipt of payments. THE TRIBUNE Public Service offices at Dearborn and Madison streets and in The Tribune Tower aided hundreds in filling application blanks.

School teachers and employés of the board of education started the purchase of licenses through assignments of wages due them. Several hundred teachers came to the offices of the board to make applictaions. Last year 2,000 took advantage of this plan.

CAPITAL GREENHOUSE COSTS TAXPAYERS OF U.S. $114,000 A YEAR

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—(AP)—A congressional committee was told today by an uncle of President Roosevelt that an amount equal to $200 a year for each member of congress was being spent out of the public funds to supply house members with plants and flowers.

Frederic A. Delano called the botanic garden "the capitol greenhouse" and said congress was spending $114,000 a year on it.

"Better flowers can be supplied by competent horticulturists for less than this amount," he said.

He was testifying in favor of a bill of Democratic Leader Robinson of the senate to transfer the garden to the agriculture department and was addressing the joint library committee of the senate and house which controls the botanic garden.

Delano said the botanic garden under the agriculture department could be conducted at a minimum of expense and with the most expert supervision.

JARECKI DEMURS TO CWA OFFER TO PAY FOR RECOUNT

The civil works administration has approved a request that it pay $45,000 of the cost of a recount of the Nov. 8, 1932, general election in Cook county, it was declared yesterday by Joseph W. Badenoch, head of a committee of citizens who are seeking the recount. Mr. Badenoch, speaking before the Rotary club in the Hotel Sherman, told of some of the election frauds recently uncovered.

Mr. Badenoch said it would be necessary for County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki to join in the request for government funds to pay for the clerical labor. Judge Jarecki last night charged that the committee was apparently sidestepping its promise to pay all of the cost of the recount.

"I ordered the recount on the committee's representations that it would not cost the taxpayers a cent," Judge Jarecki said. "Even if the money comes through the CWA, it is from the pockets of the taxpayers. Mr. Badenoch first said the committee members had put up the funds, later that all they had were promises to pay."

The recount is being held up at present by an intervening petition filed before Judge James J. Kelly of the Superior court on behalf of a taxpayer.

Mr. Badenoch told the Rotarians that there are 200,000 names of persons who have died or moved away on the registration lists, and that these have been voted "for years." Judge Jarecki said last night that this statement was grossly in error.

NEW POSTS GIVEN TO 21 PROMOTED POLICE OFFICERS

Twenty-one of the twenty-four police sergeants who won a two year legal battle Monday when they were promoted to the rank of lieutenant, were assigned to new posts of duty in an order issued from the office of Police Commissioner Allman late yesterday. Eleven of the men were formally sworn to their new rank by Secretary of Police James McSweeney immediately after the transfer order was issued.

The active duty of the new lieutenants may be brief, however, according to city hall authorities. They pointed out that in the 1934 police budget provision has been made for only 127 police lieutenants, the number on the force prior to the new appointments.

SAFFORD QUITS DRY LEAGUE HERE FOR JOB IN EAST

He Sees Turn Against Repeal.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Dr. George Brigham Safford, 67 years old, superintendent of the Illinois Anti-Saloon league, has resigned and the resignation has been accepted by the state executive committee of the league, it was learned yesterday. The resignation, he said, will be effective "on or before April 1." Dr. and Mrs. Safford will leave their Wilmette home for Providence, R. I., where Dr. Safford will become superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league of that state.

"There's plenty of work to do in any state, and I'm going to let some younger man take this heavy and complex burden in Illinois," said Dr. Safford.

Sees Turn Against Repeal.

He said repeal only made him "scrappier than ever" and predicted that the sentiment would turn against repeal within five years. He said with some sharpness that he was "as optimistic as ever" about the dry cause.

"My chin's still up," he said, "and I'll say this. We dry workers are not going to take so many socks on the chin hereafter. We'll give a few."

As to the future of the Anti-Saloon league, Dr. Safford said that a conference of Protestant church leaders would be held in Washington late this month at the request of the league "to determine whether there should be any change in policy or change in name."

"We want to keep at topnotch efficiency," the veteran dry worker said. "We will be more at hand-to-hand grips with the liquor traffic than during prohibition. We may have less educational and political campaign work to do."

May Change League's Name.

Dr. Safford said he thought the name of the league might be changed to something like the "Anti-Alcohol league." The league and the "fundamental purpose which brought victory once and will bring victory again" will remain unchanged, he said.

"The only difference in the saloons now and the old ones is the women at the bars," Dr. Safford remarked sadly. "Formerly some reckless girls went in the side entrances, but none drank at the bars."

A reporter seeking Dr. Safford found that the old spacious quarters of the Anti-Saloon league at 510 North Dearborn street were abandoned and that smaller quarters had been taken on the eighth floor of the same building. An air of neglect and gloom hung about the new quarters despite the sunshine and the conversation of two elderly employés who chatted until Dr. Safford came in.

Dr. Safford has been superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league here for the last eight years, and he was superintendent of the league in Minnesota for 12 years before that. He was secretary of the Illinois executive committee of the league from 1905 to 1913.

Fire Causes $10,000 Loss to Freighting Company

Damage estimated at about $10,000 was caused early today by a fire in the three story building at 923-7 South Western avenue, occupied by the American Transportation company, a freight forwarding firm. Twenty trucks were in the place and crews who were busy shifting cargoes took these to safety. The blaze was attributed to overheating of a furnace.

White House Crash

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—(AP)—The 400 pound $1,000 colonial lantern on the front portico of the White House for 22 years crashed last night in a gale to the porch floor and was broken to pieces.

FIVE BANDITS ROB JEWELRY STORE, USE TEAR BOMBS

Five robbers yesterday afternoon made a spectacular raid on the Cousins jewelry store at 11147 South Michigan avenue and escaped with articles valued at between $500 and $1,000.

When the car in which the bandits rode drew up at the curb two men ran to the door. One carried a shotgun and the other two tear gas bombs, which he tossed into the store, blinding four persons who were inside. Two others of the gang then smashed the front window and scooped up rings, watches, and other jewelry on display.

Those in the store were F. C. Jeths, optometrist; Henry Gentry, credit manager; E. R. Goldman, manager, and Miss Louise Gibbons, a clerk.

Wilmette and Winnetka Pass Anti-Liquor Laws

The village councils of Winnetka and Wilmette last night passed ordinances prohibiting the sale of liquors containing more than one-half of 1 per cent alcohol in either community. The action is not final, however, as it is anticipated that efforts will be made to have voters ballot on whether sales of beer and stronger drink will be allowed. Both towns have been dry for many years.

BROTHERS HELD AS ROBBERS.

Frank Ruffolo, 20 years old, 3130 Princeton avenue, and his brother, Emil, 19 years old, were held to the grand jury in bond of $15,000 each yesterday by Judge Gibson E. Gorman on a robbery charge.

CAROL MARMON TO WED PRINCE FROM GEORGIA

Father's Fortune Won with Autos.

Pasadena, Cal., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—"Father never has met Nicky, but I am sure he will approve of him when he does," said Miss Carol Marmon of Pasadena, New York, and North Carolina today. Thus she confirmed published reports of her engagement to Prince Nicholas Tchkotoua, slim, mustached member of the nobility of Georgia in the Caucus.

The date for her marriage has not been set. Her father is Howard C. Marmon, automobile manufacturer. He is at his estate near Pineola, N. C., Miss Marmon said.

Would Wed Anyway.

"I had hoped to keep news of my engagement secret until after hearing from father," Miss Marmon said, "but we are so completely in love that I guess we couldn't conceal it. I want Nicky so much I would marry him even if he were a ditch digger."

The betrothal was announced at a luncheon given in their honor by Mrs. Charles Huebench (Princess Nina M'Divani), wife of a New York attorney, and attended by the Princes David and Serge M'Divani, who are awaiting their retrial in Los Angeles superior court on charges growing out of their venture in American methods by founding a Los Angeles oil company. The new prince is said to be related to them.

Arrives from Paris.

Prince Tchkotoua, now 26, came to this country from Paris last summer. While staying in Hollywood he said he has been busy writing a novel about his native land. Miss Marmon is 26. She was educated in Switzerland and Miss Finch's school in New York. He escaped from Russia after the war, his family having been killed.

Came from Indiana.

Indianapolis, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Miss Carol Marmon, who has announced in Pasadena, Cal., her intention to wed Prince Nicolas Tchkotous, is the daughter of Howard C. Marmon, formerly of Indianapolis, and a niece of Walter C. Marmon of this city. Her mother is Mrs. Florence Myers Marmon, who is now on Majorca island.

THOS. HAMMOND OPERATED ON IN HARVEY HOSPITAL

Thomas Hammond, brigadier general of militia, of Flossmoor, underwent an operation for appendicitis yesterday morning in the Ingalls Memorial hospital of Harvey.

Dr. Charles B. Alexander, who performed the operation, said last night that Gen. Hammond was in good condition. Gen. Hammond commands one of the infantry brigades of the Illinois National Guard and is president of the Whiting corporation of Harvey, manufacturers of cranes, foundry equipment and railway specialties.

WALLACE QUOTA PLAN FOR SUGAR STIRS UPRISING

President Steps In to Calm Protests.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace's proposals to snuff out artificial industries are stirring up all kinds of trouble for the administration.

There was an explosion in the senate this afternoon over the recent testimony of A. J. S. Weaver of the department of agriculture before the house agriculture committee that the gradual extinction of sugar production in this country is aimed at by the administration.

So exercised were sugar state members over the Weaver testimony that Senator Alva B. Adams [Dem., Col.], and Representatives Edward T. Taylor [Dem., Col.], and J. W. Robinson [Dem., Utah], rushed to the White House to interview the President.

Issue Statement After Session.

Afterward they joined in this statement:

"The President made it clear to us that any inference that might have been drawn from the testimony of Mr. Weaver of the department of agriculture before the house committee on agriculture that the administration was hostile to the beet sugar industry were without foundation. He assured us that Mr. Weaver did not express his sentiment and that only he, the President, and the secretary of agriculture were authorized to define administration policies.

"The President displayed a sympathetic attitude toward the sugar states, and at the conclusion of our conference personally telephoned to the department of agriculture suggestion for modifications of the pending legislation designed to meet some of the conditions which we described. Amendments to the pending legislation will be drafted after conference between representatives of the sugar producing states and the secretary of agriculture, which we are hopeful will meet the problem that confronts us."

Vandenberg Starts Uprising.

The ruction started when Republican Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan, leading sugar beet producing state, read the colloquy between Mr. Weaver, the department of agriculture spokesman, and two congressmen at the house committee hearing:

"There, of course, is a desire, on the part of the administration," said Mr. Weaver, "to reduce the cost of living and to reduce the excessive cost of sugar to the population of the United States. In this emergency situation it is not possible to do everything at once, but now speaking from the point of view of long time policy if further expansion is continued the United States will be saddled possibly forever with a high cost industry which is not a fair thing to contemplate for consumers."

"Well, then in other words, the policy is to start in eliminating the industry before it gets any bigger," Representative C. R. Hope [Rep., Kas.] interposed. "Am I correct in that assumption?"

"Yes, I think that is a reasonable statement," Mr. Weaver replied.

"Is it reasonable to say that the object of this bill is to give us a kind of a shot in the arm and slide us out of business while we are partly unconscious?" asked Representative Fred Cummings [Dem., Colo.].

Vanderberg Assails Theory.

"Yes," said Mr. Weaver.

Having read this testimony Senator Vanderberg said:

"That is a very frank confession of what is in the mind of the department of agriculture."

"The views expressed by Mr. Weaver are the views which have long been entertained by the secretary of agriculture and he has made no concealment of his views," observed Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho]. "While I think it a most unwise policy, nevertheless it is not a new policy."

"I think the senator from Idaho is at least partially justified in his interpolation," Mr. Vanderberg continued. "The secretary of agriculture while he was still the editor of Wallace's Farmer in the state of Iowa ran a signed editorial on June 14, 1929, in which he very frankly indicated his belief that the sugar beet industry at least should not be permitted to expand.

"I am not clear that he definitly used language which invited the construction suggested by the senator from Idaho, but it is plain that he was thinking in terms of advantage for crops of agricultural commodities of a different nature and in which Iowa had a larger interest because he emphasized the fact—and I am quoting from his editorial of June 14, 1929—that 'it must be remembered that Cuba furnishes a better market for corn belt pork products than do the sugar beet farmers of Utah and Colorado.'

Power Goes to Wallace.

"Under the terms of this measure which is waiting in the finance committee for a hearing, the complete power to decide what shall happen to the industry is to be transferred to the secretary of agriculture. Congress is not going to decide what shall happen to it. We are asked merely to let the secretary of agriculture decide whether it shall live or die."

"I was wondering," said Senator Lynn J. Frazier [Rep., N. D.], "if Mr. Weaver gave any intimation of what is to be done with the land that is now being cultivated for sugar beets and sugar cane? The department of agriculture has advocated the cutting down of the wheat crop and the corn crop and several other crops, and I am at a loss to know what is going to be done with the land if they cut out sugar beets and sugar cane also?"

"A witness appearing before the committee today gave very specific information on that subject," Senator Borah answered. "He said they would have to find some other product which they could raise."

Whereat the senate laughed.

LA GUARDIA DECLINES CREDIT; WOLF SLINKS FROM CITY HALL DOOR

New York, Feb. 20.—[Special.] Mayor F. H. LaGuardia was asked tonight whether he had anything to do with moving a bronze statue of a wolf from its position just inside the city hall doors to a spot well inside the building.

When it was suggested that the administration was literally keeping the wolf from the door he laughed heartily and said:

"Oh, no, that's one big, bad wolf that we don't have to worry about."

The statue is a copy of one in Rome and portrays Romulus and Remus being suckled by the wolf. It was given to former mayor Walker by the governor of Rome when the mayor visited that city several years ago.

Mayor LaGuardia expressed the opinion that the art work was somewhat out of place in the city hall and suggested that it might better be placed in a museum.

Harbor Tug Freed from Ice at Hyde Park Crib

The Chicago Harbor tug No. 4 was freed from the grip of an ice pack early yesterday after being held at Hyde Park crib all Monday night. The tug was frozen into the pack while delivering supplies to the crib on Monday afternoon. She was freed by the ice breaker Escanaba of the United States Coast Guard service. The Escanaba, stationed at Grand Haven, Mich., steamed to Chicago on Monday night to do the job.

JOHNSON USES RADIO HOOKUP TO BANG PRESS

Invites Critics of NRA to Washington.

masked from ambush without the courage common to 90 per cent of men to step out into the open and meet his adversary eye to eye."

Why the Anonymity.

The reference to the unknown writer's preference for anonymity was to a foreword printed at the time of the first article's publication, Feb. 11. The writer stated that those who he was attempting to criticize included many friends; he believed in what they are trying to do.

"Yet, in a world ruled by ingrained endocrinology, it is impossible to write candidly of even your best friend without losing him," he said, "and I have no desire to lose the friendship or cooperation of the New Dealers."

The articles which followed have been breezy and unsparing as they took up one by one and weighed the merits and faults, the virtues and the weaknesses of the protagonists of the New Deal from President Roosevelt down. Their catch line has been "the lowdown on the higherups." Though dependent on analysis rather than anecdote, as were "The Merry Go Round" books of the Hoover administration, they have sought as ambitiously as the authors (also originally anonymous) of those tart volumes to give a backstage—sometimes a dressing room—view of the characters on the Washington stage.

"Red Apple on Desk."

In the article on Johnson the general was likened to a red apple laid on the President's desk by Bernard Baruch and was labeled one whose bark was worse than his bite. He was accused of "having made a fool of himself in the Ford case." He was called "loud mouthed, aggressiv , and a mischievous small boy." It was noted th t bigger industries "were getting away with murder," while the general "cracked down" on an insignificant Gary, Ind., restaurant keeper.

Mention was made of the general's reply, "Boys, you're hitting below the belt," when newspapers headlined Miss Frances Robinson, the general's secretary, as "more than a stenographer." But the article also called the general "a magnificent leader of business into new fields." He was described as a man who holds the affection of his friends, as an indefatigable worker, as an elemental force, and an artist.

Concedes Many Errors.

Less bombastic, but equally pointed, was Gen. Johnson's reference to those "who pick up some highly perfumed conjecture of some pundit who never did anything in his life but read some books and write others and who assert that the codes are all wrong."

In building up the codes and integrating American industry plenty of mistakes had been made, Gen. Johnson admitted.

"We expect to answer for them to the American people," he said, "but we are not very much concerned with the canned generalized comment of professional critics who have nothing to assert but second or third hand comment about matters in which they have no part, about which they know next to nothing, and from which they stand as far remote in practice as a mail order and correspondence school cowboy from the sweat and effort of a Wyoming roundup."

"Most Important Message."

The general proclaimed his invitation to the coming gathering of selected critics "the most important message from NRA since the announcement of the Blue Eagle." The hearings, he said, together with the conferences, beginning March 5, of the code authorities of the 500 code industries, will mark a new departure in the history of American government.

"We think," Gen. Johnson said, "that there is precedent for neither of these meetings."

No great governmental administration had ever before, he declared, voluntarily exposed itself to public review; never before in any country, he said, had it been possible to hold such a congress of the representatives of industry, acting in partnership with and under the ultimate control of the government.

Tells of Triple Duty.

Pungent was the general's description of the NRA's triple duty and some of its results.

"It is to see that industry does not hornswoggle labor; that labor does not bullyrag industry; that neither separately nor both in concert shall exploit the consuming public.

"Thus we sit always in the white heat of controversy. Industry accuses labor, labor accuses industry, and the consumers accuse both. All these make the welkin ring with their complaints against everybody but themselves.

"Under the conditions of haste in which NRA had to act to save American industry from economic anarchy," Gen. Johnson observed, "it was inevitable that some of the codes do not go with other codes.

"There are," he said, "many discrepancies, mistakes, and outright blunders to be corrected."

But that, he asserted, was not the important thing.

"The important thing is that 3 million people have been put to work, that 3 billion dollars has been added to their purchasing power, and that if we had sat around like Buddhist lamas contemplating a lily bud to attain perfection by conjecture before action, none of these results would have been achieved."

ICKES DEFENDS MULLEN FROM BRYAN'S WRATH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes today found himself in the position of defending one of the political lawyers, whom President Roosevelt has attacked, against the attack of Charles W. Bryan, Democratic governor of Nebraska. The governor is a brother of the late William Jennings Bryan.

Arthur Mullen, Democratic Rajah of Nebraska is the only member of the Democratic national committee who persists in his Washington law practice. He does so in the face of President Roosevelt's disapproval of such political-legal hybrids. Mullen is the center of the storm.

Nebraska has been given two huge easy money loans aggregating almost fifteen million dollars for the construction of irrigation and power systems Gov. Bryan has telegraphed to Secretary Ickes and other federal officials that in drawing the contracts for these loans, the federal government should write in safeguards against exorbitant lawyers' and engineers' fees.

Gov. Bryan also declares that, although Mr. Mullen denies it, the Democratic national committeeman is counsel for the two districts getting the easy money loans. The governor's telegrams have been broad hints that Mr. Mullen may get more than the normal legal fee for having arranged the easy money loans.

Professing his willingness to recall the whole 15 million dollars if any one can demonstrate wrongdoing by Mr Mullen, Secretary Ickes has thus far sided with the politician lawyer against the governor. Mr. Mullen, Mr. Ickes says, has made a clean breast of his legal connections and they impress Mr. Ickes as proper.

Edward Halperin, Producer, Former Chicagoan, Weds

RICHBERG AIMS HUMOROUS DARTS AT U. S. EDITORS

Tells Publishers Fears Are Groundless.

Donald R. Richberg, general counsel for the National Recovery administration, told members of the Inland Daily Press association yesterday that "the ancient liberties of the press have been once more affirmed, doubly guaranteed, and re-engraved upon the tablets of the law."

Speaking at a luncheon in the Hotel Morrison attended by 150 editors and publishers of newspapers in the central states, he poked fun at those who have opposed the drafting of code regulations for the licensing of daily papers.

Defends the NRA.

Having dealt with this as the opening of an address he read from manuscript, he spoke for another half hour in defense of the NRA, referring to this new governmental force as being in the midst of a "great adventure."

"For many months," he said in taking up the subject of chief direct interest to his listeners, "the National Recovery administration has been suffering from the accusation that it might suddenly loose its collective mind and attempt to strangle the free press of America.

"No one in the administration had ever even dreamed of such a wholesale suffocation of the daily educators of the nation, although possibly now and then an individual public official may have been seized with a desire to choke, bruise, smash, maim, or otherwise impede some member of the press who was exercising his constitutional freedom to pursue and to destroy happiness.

Tells Press Its Duties.

"But, in this day when mental hygiene is only an infant science, a few diseased minds may easily start epidemics of suspicion which spread until hosts of otherwise sane persons are infected with an hallucination which must be exorcised before normal life can be resumed.

"When an era of witch hunting starts it really becomes the duty of an enlightened press to use all its powers of exposure, invective and ridicule to discourage the spread of insanity. But when the press itself becomes infected, then witch hunting becomes a popular pastime with regrettable results.

"It is not the least of the achievements of the NRA that we have been able to assure the newspapers of the nation that the constitutional guarantees of a free press are not menaced—so that great editors and publishers can now sleep soundly at night and—in the formal but official language of reassurance—'stop seeing things under the bed.'

Asks for Fairness.

"Once again we shall be able to discuss the NRA with the newspapers in an atmosphere of mutual trust. You know that the NRA is not going to take away your freedom and we know that, relieved of your temporary obsession, it will be much easier for you to apply to the recovery administration the long established standards of fairness and accuracy in the news columns.

"Of course these standards will not impose any restriction upon the publication of comic strips, cartoons, gossip columns, editorials and other humorous contributions, or upon special signed articles or reprints of anonymous books. But we do feel hopeful that there will be developed a new cooperation between the newspapers and the NRA in protecting the interests of the consumer.

"Editors should be able to realize that the mere publication of blanket charges that the NRA is permitting or aiding a rise in prices does not help the consumer but definitly impedes our efforts to protect consumer interests. On the other hand, informing the public concerning the operations of those who are actually charging unfair prices or who are actually misrepresenting quality or using other tricks to exploit the consumer would have a very helpful effect and meet a long accepted obligation of the press.

How to Protect Consumer.

"If such informative articles were published as pure reading matter alongside the questionable advertisments of some of the guilty parties the maximum protection would be afforded the consumers."

In closing, following his discussion of the record and problems of the recovery administration, Mr. Richberg again referred to the press.

"In the days ahead," he said, "we believe that an increase of criticism will be inevitable because of the necessity of adopting and administering many debatable policies. But at the same time we hope that the National Recovery administration may also merit an increased credit for its demonstrated success in advancing the general welfare."

Mr. Richberg hastened his speech in order to catch an early afternoon train back to Washington.

Later members of the association determined they would not sign the recently approved graphic arts code until after a code conference to be held in New York tomorrow. Following a three hour executive session, President C. R. Butler of Mankato, Minn., said apprehension was expressed over the possibility of a change in the carrier clause.

Verne E. Joy, publisher of the Centralia [Ill.] Sentinel, was elected president of the association to succeed Mr. Butler. Linwood I. Noyes, publisher of the Ironwood [Mich.] Globe was elected vice president.

Temporary organization of a Daily Newspaper League of Illinois was completed by representatives of 50 publishers attending the convention. Temporary officers, consisting of A. W. Shipton of the Springfield State Journal, as president, and Joe Bunting of the Bloomington Pantagraph, were named and committees chosen to report back at a meeting in March on permanent organization.

The first line of defense against exposure

is good resistance

Many people think they are taking all the necessary precautions against winter if they wear their rubbers and carry an umbrella. But important as these protectives are, they only take care of you outside.

The inner forces you need must be built! And the time to build them is not after you're sick, but while you are well. This is the new idea of prevention which is taking hold among sensible people.

It is an idea they have found no trouble putting into practice. Every day they add to their reserve forces with the aid of Squibb Adex tablets!

Squibb Adex are a concentrate of the important vitamins of halibut and cod-liver oils with Viosterol. They have the same building-up effect as the oils, but are easy, pleasant to take.

Why not let Adex tablets aid in building your general resistance? This is the time of year to start with them. Now at any reliable drug store. And insist on Squibb Adex tablets. Made by E. R. Squibb & Sons, manufacturing chemists since 1858.

Dead Doctor Heals Stomach Ailments

A weird story is told of a well-known specialist reaching from the grave to curb stomach suffering. Years ago this doctor created a prescription for acid stomach, gas pains, heartburn, indigestion, bloating, belching and other symptoms when caused by excess acid. Then the good doctor died. But his name brought fame after death as one user told another of his wonderful prescription. In the past six years, 54,169 grateful persons have written letters telling of their recoveries. This prescription is now known to hundreds of thousands as the Udga Treatment. All stomach sufferers may have a free sample by writing to Udga, Suite B, Foot-Schulze Bldg., St. Paul, Minn. The seven-day trial box of Udga Tablets is sold under a money-back guarantee of satisfaction by all good druggists.

Flush Poison and Acid From Kidneys

Stop Getting Up Nights

When kidneys are clogged they become weak—the bladder is irritated—often passage is scanty and smarts and burns—sleep is restless and nightly visits to the bathroom are frequent. The right and inexpensive way to stop this trouble and restore healthy action to kidneys and bladder is to get from any druggist a 35 cent box of Gold Medal Haarlem Oil Capsules and take as directed—you won't be disappointed—but be sure and get GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules—the original and genuine—a grand kidney stimulant and diuretic right from Haarlem, Holland.

CHARGE INJURY TO FURNITURE IN U. S. FACTORY

Michigan Makers Fight Mrs. Roosevelt Idea.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—Leaders of the furniture industry here today denounced Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt's furniture factory as unwarranted governmental encroachment on private business. The plan to erect a government factory at a cost of $504,000 on the subsistance farm at Reedsville, W. Va., is a phase of the new deal, sponsored by Mrs. Roosevelt, which was approved by the senate after stormy debate yesterday.

Robert W. Irwin, chairman of the national furniture code authority and chairman of the committee which drafted the code, declared the project to be the most unfair and unjust thing government ever has done to industry. The erection of the factory will be a setback to an industry which was beginning to be encouraged by prospects of general improvement, he said.

Opposes Federal Factory.

"Why should the government build a new half million dollar factory when thousands of existing factories are idle and when those now working are operating on reduced scales?" he asked. "The industry at present is not doing 20 per cent of its capacity business. Yet the government is entering into competition with an industry which has been harder hit than any other by the depression."

F. Stuart Foote, president of the Imperial Furniture company and a member of the committee which drafted the code, said the administration, by the West Virginia scheme, is violating the code in a manner which would bring swift punishment on private industry. Under the code no manufacturer can build a new plant or add to his present plant.

Recalls Prison Competition.

Frederick H. Mueller, president of the Furniture Manufacturers' association of Grand Rapids, said Mrs. Roosevelt's factory presents a similar problem to manufacturers as did prison made furniture. Prison made furniture offered the same government competition with private industry as the subsistence farm factory will present, he said. Interstate sales of prison furniture are prohibited by federal law.

J. M. Brower, president of the Brower Furniture company, said he voiced the protests of his employés in declaring himself against the federal factory. The operation of Mrs. Roosevelt's factory, he said, will throw furniture workers out of employment and keep existing plants idle. He revealed he had conferred with his workers and found them opposed to the scheme.

Attacked in Wisconsin.

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—Wisconsin furniture manufacturers characterized Mrs. Roosevelt's proposed federal furniture factory at Reedsville, W. Va., as "dangerously socialistic." Government competition through the factory was heralded as a last straw on the back of an industry staggered by the depression and buffeted by prison competition within states.

H. C. Gowran, secretary of the Hamilton Manufacturing company of Two Rivers, said this phase of the New Deal is a succeeding step toward economic socialism which is bound to progress into other industries. He revealed that his company had been active in attempting to create congressional sentiment against Mrs. Roosevelt's factory. He was indignant at Senator LaFollette's vote for the program in the senate yesterday.

William F. Pfefferkorn, secretary of the Wisconsin Furniture Manufacturing company of Milwaukee, said factories can turn out far more furniture than is demanded at present. Government competition with that of prisons, can only further curtail the industry and injure workers, he said.

Manufacturers in Sheboygan, one of the largest furniture centers of the country, were united in condemnation of the project.

Rockford Makers Protest.

Rockford, Ill., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—Criticism of the senate's approval of Mrs. Roosevelt's furniture factory project on the subsistence farm at Reedsville, W. Va., was voiced here today by manufacturers in the state's chief furniture center. All joined in labeling the scheme as a step toward socialism which will injure industry.

"I can't understand why the government should appropriate $500,000 for a government furniture factory when private enterprises are badly in need of business," said Amos Stockhus, president of the Rockford Furniture Manufacturers' association as spokesman of the industry. "The senate has placed the government in competition with us."

Labor Protests Likely.

Naperville, Ill., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—Labor groups here will meet to consider drafting a protest to congress against Mrs. Roosevelt's furniture factory, Clarence Gilchrist, president of the Naperville branch of the Upholsterers' union, said today. Workers feel the entrance of the government into the furniture business as a competitor to private interests will reduce employment, he said.

Officials of the Kroehler Manufacturing company, one of the largest furniture companies of the state, refused to comment on the West Virginia subsistence farm factory in the absence of Peter Kroehler, president of the company, who is in Canada. They said, however, they were sure Mr. Kroehler is opposed to the invasion of private enterprise by the government.

PROTEST IN CHICAGO.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt's plan to erect a government furniture manufacturing plant at Reedsville, W. Va., was termed a dangerous precedent by the policy committee of the Illinois Manufacturers' association, who went on record at a meeting held last night at the Union League club as being unanimously opposed to the project.

The association has appealed to each member of congress from Illinois to oppose the appropriation of $504,000 voted for construction of the plant. In a statement issued the association denounced the use of public funds for promoting public enterprises which are calculated to compete with private industry as being "unsound in principle and inconsistent with the best interests of all elements in our economic and social life."

"There is some evidence of improvement in the furniture manufacturing industry," the statement read. "This effort to launch the government in the industry will not only discourage the investment of private funds in the business but will tend to displace workmen who are now dependent upon the welfare of the industry for a livelihood."

Plan Celebrations

In commemoration of the birthday of the first President of the United States more than 200 years ago, Chicago civic and church organizations will hold appropriate celebrations tomorrow. Schools and various business concerns will be closed for the holiday.

Episcopalian men and boys will pay tribute to Washington in a special communion service in the old St. James Episcopal church, Wabash and Huron streets, at 8 a. m. The Rt. Rev. Frank A. McElwain, bishop of Minnesota, will be the celebrant. He will be assisted by the Rev. J. R. Pickells, rector of Trinity church; the Rev. T. J. M. Van Duyne, assistant at St. James, and the Rev. E. S. White, rector of the Church of the Redeemer.

The Chicago Historical society will observe the birthday of Washington with an exhibition of a motion picture depicting incidents in Washington's life. This picture, made with the coöperation of the George Washington bicentennial committee, will be shown at 2 and 4 o'clock in the society's auditorium at the south end of Lincoln park.

Because of the legal holiday there will be no mail delivery tomorrow, it was announced by Postmaster Ernest J. Kruetgen.

DEFY PRESIDENT TO FORCE VOTE ON VETS' BONUS

145 in House Ignore His Veto Threat.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—In sudden defiance of President Roosevelt and its majority leadership, the house of representatives today resurrected the soldiers' bonus bugaboo and laid it squarely on the doorstep of the administration.

Heedless of an official White House pronunciamento condemning all bonus legislation at this time, nineteen congressmen stalked with unaccustomed bravado to the clerk's desk and affixed their signatures to a discharge petition forcing the Patman bonus inflation bill to a vote on the floor of the house on Monday, March 12.

Ignore Veto Threat.

The nineteen names, which filled the quota of 145 required to make the petition effective, were appended to the document within less than an hour after Speaker Henry T. Rainey delivered the following dictum:

"I am authorized by the President to say that this is not the time to pay the bonus and that he cannot approve any legislation to that effect."

When Mr. Rainey made his announcement there were 131 names on the petition—enough to alarm the administration but still sufficiently few to permit the President to bring the full weight of his influence against it.

For once, however, his influence was unavailing. Within fifty minutes Representative Roy E. Ayers [Dem., Mont.] signed his name to the petition—the 145th signature—and the administration applecart went tumbling.

House Passage Likely.

The bonus revolt places the administration in an extremely delicate position.

House leaders made no bones about admitting that the Patman bill will probably pass the lower body. Although the senate has defeated one bonus plan this session, sentiment in favor of immediate payment of veterans' adjusted service certificates has been growing steadily in the higher body, and administration spokesmen, usually confident of their power, are wary of the outcome of a new senate roll call on the issue.

Unless the administration's control over congress surprises its own leaders, indications are that Mr. Roosevelt will eventually find himself in the extremely embarrassing position of having to choose between approval of a measure he has already denounced or its veto with its consequent serious political effect on the veterans' vote.

The strength of bonus sentiment among members of the President's own party on Capitol hill was clearly reflected in the party breakdown of those who signed the petition. Of the 145, ninety-seven were Democrats, forty-three were Republicans, and five were Farmer-Laborites.

It was Representative Wright Patman [Dem., Tex.], arch-champion of the veterans, who launched the uprising today with his old argument that payment of the bonus with new currency is the most effective way to inflate.

The measure, he told the house, will provide the administration with a mechanism for carrying out the inflationary program it has already embraced. Moreover, he asserted, it will save billions of dollars in interest which the government would otherwise have to pay on its bonds.

Hardly had he finished when Speaker Rainey summoned newspaper men to his office and delivered the White House pronouncement in the vain hope of preventing the impending disaster to the administration program.

Mr. Rainey, usually reticent and mild, was plainly perturbed. Asked whether the leadership would seek the removal of signatures from the petition, the speaker testily replied:

"No, we're going to let the house do just as it damn pleases."

Byrns Keeps Silent.

Majority Floor Leader Joe Byrns [Dem., Tenn.], ardent supporter of the administration, maintained a surprising silence in the face of the bonus revolt, and there were reports that Mr. Byrns himself is in favor of the bonus legislation, though his allegiance to the White House forbids his open espousal of the veterans' cause.

But neither Mr. Rainey nor Mr. Byrns entertained any illusions as to the probable outcome of the forthcoming vote on the issue. Powerless to prevent the roll call, they frankly admitted that the Patman bill stands likely to meet with overwhelming approval on Monday, March 12. They recalled the vote of 211 to 176 which passed a similar bill in the last session, when circumstances were not nearly so favorable for its enactment.

The administration forces, it was indicated, will be concentrated on the senate, which once before, with thousands of agitated veterans outside its doors, voted down the bonus payment, 18 to 62.

WARNS AGAINST U. S. ENCROACHMENTS ON RIGHTS OF STATES

In commenting yesterday on Attorney General Cummings' request to congress for 12 new laws against crime, Frank J. Loesch, president of the Chicago Crime commission, warned against further encroachment by the government on the powers and duties of the states.

Mr. Loesch praised the intent of the attorney general in seeking to strengthen laws against crime, and he approved some of the specific measures.

"The gangster always gets guns anyway," was his comment on the proposed federal regulation of the sale of firearms. He frankly disapproved of a proposed bill to provide punishment in federal courts for robbing national banks and member banks of the federal reserve system.

"Here it looks as if the government is encroaching upon the state's rights," said Mr. Loesch. "I don't believe in relieving the state of the duty of apprehending and punishing bank bandits. The tendency here would plainly be to weaken the position of the states in our system of government, and at the same time not strengthen the federal government."

Mr. Loesch agreed that a bill to protect interstate trade and commerce against the violence of the professional racketeer might prove useful in some cases. A measure to fix federal penalties for taking stolen property across state lines would be a weapon against hijacking of merchandise, he said.

MAY INFLATE U. S. CURRENCY: FRANCES PERKINS

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—Resort to the "printing presses" as a way out of monetary difficulties is to be "avoided if possible," but "not to be dodged if necessary," in the opinion of Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins.

Answering a question from the floor while she was addressing the Contemporary club here last night, she declared, "The printing press technique is not needed yet," adding that she hoped it would not be. She is not the only one in the administration who feels that way, she asserted.

"We are realizing," she said, "that one of the most important things in industrial progress is the keeping up of mass purchasing power on a basis comparable with mass production."

Discussing the NRA, Secretary Perkins declared it is presenting to labor a new opportunity.

"It makes it possible," she said, "for the government to bring together every class in a great coöperative movement. Wage earners and farmers received a total income of 22 billion dollars in 1929. This was reduced to 10 billion dollars last year. If this 12 billion dollars in lost purchasing power can be restored we will see our way out of the depression."

BROWN ADMITS HAND IN LETTING AIR MAIL JOBS

But Keeps Free of Hint of Illegality.

BY JOHN HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—Former Postmaster General [High Hat] Brown may have been technically correct when he said only three air mail contracts were let while he was in office.

But the fact was that every air mail operator who was flying up to a few days ago, was operating on a contract, an extension, or a route certificate granted during the Brown administration.

With satisfaction, Chairman Hugo L. Black [Dem., Ala.], of the special senate investigating committee brought this out today as the former Hoover cabinet officer took the witness stand again for further inquisition. On this second day, as on the first—and as it promises to be tomorrow, when Mr. Brown goes on for a third day of questioning—the political flavor of the proceedings was distinct.

South American Angle.

Senator Black sought to show that President Hoover had personally intervened to give a mail contract to a favored company. It was hinted that the reason lay in the fact that Herbert Hoover Jr., was an engineer in that company's employ.

And much was made of the fact that the postoffice department had sought Secretary of State Stimson's aid in lending diplomatic assistance to Pan-American Airways in its effort to land concessions in South and Central America.

Mr. Brown was accused by the Democratic prosecutor of having timed the expiration of contracts so they would expire just before the next Republican convention.

And the Democratic chairman displayed considerable irritation at the fact that the Hoover postmaster general had extended every route he possibly could shortly before going out of office, thus leaving no air line negotiations for the Democratic postmaster general, Jim Farley, to play with.

Witness Adroit in Replies.

But as far as digging out of the witness any proof to justify Mr. Farley's recent cancellation of all air contracts, or any admission to substantiate the charge that the contracts were the result of "fraud and collusion," Mr. Brown refused to yield any pay dirt.

He was again an example of what every good witness ought to be. He was unhurried and complacent. He became testy enough at just the right times. He never missed a chance to slip in a word about the zeal for public service that had animated the Brown régime. He dodged embarrassing questions without getting flustered. He refused to let Prosecutor Black put words in his mouth.

That last qualification was put to the test when those troublesome conferences of mail operators in May and June, 1930, once more came up for discussion.

The McNary-Watres air mail act had just been passed. The operators were called together, Mr. Brown explained, with no intention to divide up the lines in violation of the law.

"The purpose," he said, "was to try to find a way under the Watres act to give contracts to commercial operators who were starving."

The plan, he explained, was for mail operators to sublet extensions or certificates without competitive bidding. And since the Watres act required that such allocations of routes be made with due regard to the equities of pioneer operators, the conference was intended to ascertain the operators' ideas as to what companies had what equity on what routes.

"The purpose then was to agree who got the line," said Senator Black.

"It was to see who had the equity," retorted Mr. Brown.

"Why determine the equity if that wasn't going to determine who had the line?" insisted Senator Black.

But the witness refused to admit the identity of "fixing the equity" and "getting the line."

"Isn't it true," demanded Senator Black, "that the air mail operators who were flying two weeks ago were, each and every one of them, operating under contracts, extensions of route certificates granted by your administration?"

Seek Evidence About Hoover.

"Yes," replied the witness, then added, "granted by me according to law."

"And every contract, every extension was granted in accordance with the recommendations made at the conference?" inquired the senator.

"Oh, no," snapped Mr. Brown.

The committee chairman thought he saw ex-President Hoover's hand in the allotment of the central transcontinental route to Transcontinental Air Transport and Western Air Express, with the latter of which young Hoover was connected.

Though it submitted a lower bid, the United Avigation company composed of three small concerns was ruled out as not being qualified. It was the senator's view that the cards were purposely stacked against this company and its somewhat disconcerting bid.

Senator Black suggested that ex-President Hoover had ordered the Avigation company bid sent to the attorney general in order that legal reasons for its disqualification might be found. In proof, he offered a letter written to W. Irvin Glover, former second assistant postmaster general in charge of air mail, by his assistant, Chase C. Gove. Mr. Brown was then in Halifax.

At White House Behest.

"I was motoring," he said, then explained hastily, "in my own car."

Mr. Gove wrote his chief, who was on his way to the Pacific coast, that Arch Coleman, former first assistant postmaster general, had asked for all the bids submitted because they were to be sent to the attorney general.

"I asked him," the letter went on, "by whose direction it was being done as I happened to know that you had been in touch with the White House and the postmaster general. He stated that he had just come from the White House and that this was being done at the direction of someone at the White House."

All the bids were later returned, Gove wrote, with the single exception of the United Avigation company bid which was sent to Assistant Attorney General O'Brien.

"I asked him (Coleman)," the letter continued, "if he had any objections to my wiring you and he said not to do it, as he was afraid it might leak out some way and that no one was to know anything about it except that he was to write to the postmaster general and yourself."

Mr. Brown said President Hoover had discussed the cross-country contract with him only once and then merely to advise him to go into the case carefully and personally.

Prosecutor Scores Point.

"Did you discuss it with Mr. Herbert Hoover Jr.?" Senator Black inquired.

"I never did," answered the witness. "He wrote me a letter saying he had resigned from Western Air Express. It was waiting for me when I returned to Washington."

Mr. Brown, confronted by letters, had to reverse his testimony that he had never discussed with Secretary Stimson the Pan-American Airways' concessions in Latin America.

Then he sought to explain that since Pan-American already held a mail contract, it was only right that it should be helped to get extensions, even as against some other American competitor.

The domestic contracts made by Mr. Brown had all been written to expire simultaneously in early April, 1936.

"In other words, about two months before the next Republican national convention," Senator Black observed.

"I wasn't thinking about any conventions," Mr. Brown complained. "O, I'll admit that the convention comes in June and April comes two months before June. But the real reason was so that they would all terminate at the same time and congress could review the situation with regard to the contracts in its entirety."

Wrath Twice Over.

"I thought," and Mr. Brown managed to inject a note of wistfulness into his voice, "that I was doing a fine public service."

None of these things burned Senator Black up, however, the way two other matters did. Mr. Brown, it seemed, had assured Senator Joe T. Robinson of Arkansas, senate Democratic leader, on Feb. 3, 1933, that he would let no more contracts during the remaining month of his term.

And then he had let about half a dozen extensions to companies who wanted to abandon portions of their operations. That affront to the incoming Democracy was enough. But more personal and more insulting was Mr. Brown's remark in telling why he hadn't seen fit to give a contract to the Delta Air Line.

"I wanted a passenger service that started some place and that got some place," said Mr. Brown.

CLEAR VETERAN WHO QUIT MARINES TO GET TO WAR WITH ARMY

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—(AP)—The senate decided today that Miles T. Barrett did not desert the marine corps in 1918 when he quit to join the army so that he could get to France to fight.

It passed a bill to pay the Bridgeville, Pa., veteran $175 for pay due him for the three and a half months he was in the army while listed as a deserter from the marine corps. He had a distinguished war record and received citations from the French and American armies.

The senate was told that Barrett joined the marines with the understanding he would be sent to France. Instead he was sent to Philadelphia. He obtained a furlough, joined the army and went to France. He was discharged honorably and the marine corps has cleared him of the charge of desertion.

Army Pilots Speed Delayed Air Mail Cargoes to West

The Chicago airport became a concentration point yesterday for air mail bound from the east to the west when more than 1,200 pounds of letters arrived in army planes from Cleveland, to where it had been shipped by train from New York. The train shipment had been made because mail planes in the east were kept on the ground by fog. The mail was sorted and sent west last night in two army planes bound for Cheyenne, and one bound for Dallas.

Despite the fact that they had no sleep on Monday night when the army mail organization took over its duties from commercial operators, the army officers in charge of the Chicago headquarters kept the mail shipments running smoothly. Lieut. Col. Horace M. Hickam, zone commander, was assisted by Capt. C. C. Chauncey, zone operations officer, and Lieut. Walter L. Wheeler, airport control officer.

Planes Grounded in West.

Fog enveloping the Newark airport lifted yesterday afternoon long enough to allow the first mail to be flown west toward Chicago. Weather conditions in the Rocky mountains around Salt Lake City, headquarters of the western army mail zone, continued to be unfit for flying and all mail planes stayed on the ground. Between Cleveland and Cheyenne, on the transcontinental route, the mail continued to move.

Flying conditions on the Chicago-Dallas route were reported to be all right when the mail left here last night and weather along the Chicago-Jacksonville route was reported to be "flyable." The first through mail from New York to Chicago was due to arrive here about midnight. Mail receipts from the west continued to be small because of the bad weather in the mountains.

R. S. Brauer, division superintendent of the air mail service for the postoffice department, spent the day at the airport postal station supervising the change from commercial to army operations. He was enthusiastic over the rapidity with which the army personnel had adapted itself to the unfamiliar and exacting job of carrying the mails.

On the Commercial Lines.

As the army took a better hold on its new job commercial air lines operating out of the airport continued on their usual runs without showing much outward evidence of the loss of the mail contracts. United Air Lines and American Airways are operating all their schedules. Transcontinental and Western Air Lines discontinued its round trip between Chicago and Columbus, O., yesterday and Northwest Airways reduced its schedules to two trips daily between the Twin Cities and Chicago.

FRICK OFFICIALS SIGN PAY PACT AT COAL MINES

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 20.—(AP)—Declaring, "Gentlemen, the long drawn-out battle is over," Thomas Moses, president of the H. C. Frick Coke company today announced an agreement with heads of the United Mine Workers of America, acting as individuals.

The pact, although not a regular union contract, grants the checkoff of union dues—long a source of conflict in southwestern Pennsylvania's coal fields—insures an "open shop" and immediately affects about 5,000 diggers at nine "captive" pits.

Philip Murray, international vice president of the union who with John L. Lewis and other U. M. W. chiefs was elected by a minority of the Frick miners to represent them as collective bargaining agents, hailed the treaty as "a signal victory."

The agreement contains the same wage rates as the Appalachian coal code and expires with the termination of the coal code on March 31. Murray expressed hope a similar contract would be renewed at that time.

"An eight hour day, the five day week, 40 hour week, shall prevail," the agreement specifies.

N. Y. Gets Gypsy "King" in Kidnaping of Girl, 14

Boston, Mass., Feb. 20.—(AP)—Ten Bimbo, who declared himself king of the gypsies, was turned over to New York police today, charged with kidnaping a 14 year old gypsy girl. Washington officers sought him on a charge of larceny. He was arrested here for assault and battery.

This brilliant idol-smasher points out that every revolution of the past was preceded by a "Brain Trust"—hated by Tories because it would take wealth from them, and by radicals because it stole their thunder. Will the New Deal actually succeed in redistributing our national wealth? Are we to have revolution? Mencken shows in past history startling parallels with today.

A wise old Chinese philosopher—the center of a tangled web of intrigue and mystery in Manila. A group of "Navy people"—detached from the taboos and inhibitions of home—fighting against tropical madness, boredom . . . and drink. A woman of fiery beauty, young, vital, pure, and overpoweringly desirable to men, eating out her throbbing heart in these strange surroundings.

It can be compared only to Kipling at his best. But not even Kipling ever achieved such vivid, unconventional romance, such deeply-etched character studies. 75,000 BELGIANS FILE PAST BIER OF KING ALBERT

High and Low Pay Final Homage to Ruler.

BY ANN SOMERS HOUSE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRUSSELS, Feb. 20.—Grief stricken Belgium paid homage today at the bier of its beloved king, Albert I., who was killed Saturday in a fall from a cliff.

Between 75,000 and 100,000 persons—men, women and children—are estimated to have filed past the open coffin of their ruler, lying in state in the small reception room of the Brussels palace. On the grand marble staircase, which for once was open to the lowest as well as the highest of the population, the crowds advanced inch by inch, two persons at a time to enter the black hung door to the room where the body of the king lay covered by a Belgian flag.

Floor Strewn with Lilacs.

A black panoply was draped over the coffin and the floor was strewn with white lilacs, picked by Queen Elizabeth's own hands in the Laeken palace hothouses.

Laborers and business men, women and school children, people from all walks of life made the sign of the cross, bowing in front of the coffin in the mere second allowed each to catch a glimpse of the dead monarch. Some had waited since 4 o'clock in the morning to be first when the gates opened at 8 o'clock.

The procession of mourners continued throughout the day. Tonight at 7 o'clock, when it had been planned to shut the doors of the palace, a long line of people still stood outside. It was decided to keep the body on public view throughout the night.

Three Kings To Attend Burial.

Meanwhile general disappointment was felt in Brussels today when the official list of royal visitors showed that only three kings will attend the funeral services for Albert Thursday. Numerous minor members of royalty will be present.

King Boris of Bulgaria, who belongs to the same Saxe-Coburg-Gotha family as did King Albert, will arrive Thursday morning. King Prajadhipok of Siam, who was to visit Albert alive Thursday, is now coming to the latter's funeral. King Christian of Denmark will arrive tomorrow from Cannes, where he has been on a vacation. He is a relative of Albert by marriage.

Deep disappointment was felt in army circles, and even among personalities surrounding the court that kings of the former allied countries are not coming. Of these King George had been expected with certainty.

Scandinavians To Be Absent.

King Haakon of Norway and King Gustav of Sweden—the latter the father in law of the new Belgian king, Leopold—disappointed the populace by sending only their son and grandson, respectively, to the funeral.

The absence of former King Alfonso of Spain is fully understood by the initiated. It is generally agreed that he does not wish to take part in the funeral pageant in which he must walk behind three minor, but still ruling, kings who will be present.

Unusual preparations are being made by the police for the reception of Prince Humbert of Italy, who is due here tomorrow morning. He was shot at the last time he visited here on the occasion of his engagement to Albert's daughter, Marie Jose. The latter is not coming from Italy. She is awaiting the birth of a baby.

It is understood that all well known anti-Fascists living in Brussels will be arrested and held during Humbert's stay. Count Sforza, foremost of them, left for Paris this morning.

Embassies Are Guarded.

The Austrian, German, Italian, and Hungarian embassies are heavily guarded. Princely guests from such Fascist or semi-Fascist countries will be watched over particularly well to prevent attempts on their lives.

American Ambassador Dave H. Morris, who today was invited to head the official delegation of foreign diplomats to the funeral, was requested by President Roosevelt to send a wreath in his name.

This afternoon the late king's two sisters arrived—the Duchess de Vendome, who lives in France, and Princess Josephine Hohenzollern from Germany. This is the first time a member of former Kaiser Wilhelm's family has been in Belgium since the World war.

The funeral will take place at 10 a. m. Thursday after 20,000 war veterans have filed past the closed coffin.

The funeral procession, starting from the royal palace, will proceed to the Cathedral of St. Gudule. Cardinal Van Roey, successor to Cardinal Mercier, will officiate at the services there. Only men will take part in the funeral procession. Queen Elizabeth, Albert's widow, and Princess Astrid, the new queen, will be present at the cathedral.

After the mass the procession will pass the tomb of the unknown soldier and then proceed three miles to the royal crypt at Laeken on the outskirts of Brussels. There foreign princes and delegations will file past the coffin, which will then be sealed in a tomb near the king's ancestors.

On Friday, after taking the oath of office before both houses of parliament, Crown Prince Leopold will be vested with the dignity and responsibilities of the kingship in succession of his father. In the meantime constitutional powers are vested with the council of ministers.

Precinct Captain Ends Year's Term in Bridewell

Samuel Koppel, former employé of the city street department and a Democratic precinct captain, was discharged from the bridewell yesterday after serving his term on a sentence of one year for conspiracy to obstruct justice. He served 10 months and 24 days, the full time required by law with time off for good behavior. Koppel was convicted in April, 1932, of trying to bribe and intimidate a state's witness in a robbery case. He was at liberty for almost a year until complaints were made to the Chicago Crime commission and then Sheriff Meyering ordered his deputies to search for the precinct captain.

FLYING OF MAILS TO LESSEN LIFE OF ARMY PLANES

Combat Uses Lowered by Added Strain.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—Because the army is flying the air mail the nation's air defenses will deteriorate at about twice the normal rate, inquiry disclosed today.

As yet unable to estimate the full burden which President Roosevelt placed on them by scrapping private air mail contracts, army officials today said carrying the mails roughly would double the flying and wear and tear for their planes.

Bombers, pursuit planes, and every available type of aircraft owned by the army were being pushed into service as the war department today for the second day flew the mails.

Already the army's depots for overhauling planes and motors are taxed to the limit. As additional routes are added to the army's itinerary emergency overhauling stations will have to be set up in order to keep the planes from being ground to pieces.

What the carrying of the mails means to the future condition of the nation's air defenses officers refuse to say beyond pointing out that their work has been doubled.

Although private air mail planes have been kept in service five years or longer, three years is the average life of a plane, according to private operators. In addition, motors are good on the average for only about 3,000 hours of flying. After every 400 hours of service they must be completely torn down and overhauled.

By the end of five years little of the original plane is left, except the fuselage and most of the rigid structural members, according to army and private engineers. Because they have already seen long service, many of the army's planes do not have another five years of life before them.

FRENCH CABINET FIGHTS MOVE TO INFLATE FRANC

Chamber Considers Stiff Tax on Foreigners.

PARIS, Feb. 20.—(AP)—The weight of the government was thrown today against the theory that devaluation of the franc is the best road out of the French economic muddle.

Because devaluation has been so frequently discussed recently, Louis Germain-Martin, minister of finance, went before the chamber of deputies which is struggling to balance the 1934 budget, to oppose devaluation publicity.

"Devaluation alone will never adjust interior and exterior prices," he said. He insisted that economy "is the only way."

Discuss Tax on Foreigners.

Discussion of a special tax of 10 per cent on foreigners' wages was heard in the finance committee, while consideration of an anti-double taxation treaty, signed with the United States in 1932 but never ratified, may be revived.

During debate on the budget, Paul Reynaud, a former minister of finance, said that even with the budget balanced the fundamental problem of putting French commerce on a sound basis still remains.

"There could be but one solution on a basis of the report of the finance committee," he said, "which is devaluation."

Jacquier, budget reporter, admitted a decrease in taxes was impossible without an improvement in foreign trade, which is now diminishing.

Want Yanks to Pay Debts.

The tax on foreigners' wages was abandoned in December, when it was defeated in the senate. It is designed primarily to drive out foreign labor, but would also take 10 per cent of the income of foreign professional men.

Premier Doumergue, it was understood, will ask soon that the anti-double taxation treaty either be ratified or an attempt made to collect the $97,500,000 said to be due France by American firms operating here in back taxes.

American houses have been taxed 16 to 18 per cent on their dividends ascribed to French operations in addition to regular taxes, but many have not paid the tax, pending results of the treaty.

U. S. Threatens Reprisals.

Under that pact, signed when Walter E. Edge was American ambassador and Andre Tardieu was premier, France agreed to abolish its tax on the dividends of American parent corporations, with branches in France.

The United States embassy, in objecting recently to the double taxation system, pointed out the reprisal tax bill in Washington authorizing an increase in income taxes of French concerns operating in the United States to 50 per cent of their total income.

STRIKING PARIS CAB DRIVERS TOSS EFFIGY OF POLITICIAN IN SEINE

PARIS, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Striking Paris taxi drivers today "drowned" a two headed effigy clad in a black frock coat and a flowing tie as a symbol of their hatred of politicians responsible for the increase in the price of gasoline. First they tried to burn the figure but when it failed to catch fire they tossed it into the Seine.

A crowd of about 7,000 listened to communist speeches and observed a minute of silence in memory of the taxi driver killed recently during disorders growing from the strike. Police then dispersed the gathering.

Strikers, who were offered a reduction in the taxes against which they struck, are now holding out for a collective wage agreement as the strike closes its third week. There are frequent clashes now and a strikebreaking taxi is burned occasionally.

Commits Robbery to Get Funds for His Schooling

Charles Slaght, 22 years old, who says he is a student at the Chicago Technical college, 118 East 26th street, and Robert Spaulding, 28 years old, were arrested by the Cottage Grove avenue police last night. They confessed that earlier in the day they had robbed Peter Gutierrez, 603 Woodland Park. They were seized at 2825 Prairie avenue, where they both live. Slaght, whose home is in New York state, said he participated in the robbery, in which only $2 was obtained, to get money to pay school expenses.

1,000 Workers to Get $2 Each from Estate of Boss

HULL, Que., Feb. 20.—(AP)—By the will of Sturgis S. Cushman, entered for probate today, 1,100 employés of the E. B. Eddy company, of which he was a director, will each receive $2 "as a slight token of good will" from the man who started as a day laborer and rose to vice president. The estate was valued at $934,511. Six grandchildren are the chief beneficiaries.

BELGIANS HONOR KING TOMORROW IN SERVICE HERE

A memorial service for King Albert of Belgium, who was killed while mountain climbing Saturday, will be held at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning in the Holy Name cathedral, State and Superior streets. The service will be under the auspices of E. Rosier, acting Belgian consul general in Chicago.

The Rev. L. P. Hurkmans, pastor of the Belgian parish, St. John Berchmans church, knight of the order of the Crown of Belgium, will deliver the sermon. Mass will be sung by the Very Rev. Msgr. Philip F. Mahoney, rector of the Quigley Preparatory seminary.

Gov. Horner, Mayor Kelly, Admiral Wat T. Cluverius, and the consular corps of Chicago have been invited to attend. A company of the United States army, Belgian war veterans, the American Legion, and war veterans of former allies of Belgium also will be represented.

HOUSE TO PASS ADMINISTRATION TAX BILL TODAY

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—The house will close tomorrow a week of desultory debate by passing the administration's 258 million dollar tax revision bill.

Aside from a few "clarifying amendments," to be offered by the ways and means committee, the measure will receive final approval in substantially the form in which it came into the house a week ago. Individual members, under a special gag rule, have no opportunity to alter it.

Debate has revealed considerable dissatisfaction with several of its provisions, but administration leaders are confident of more than enough votes to insure an easy passage.

RECALLS BELGIAN KING BORROWED HIS FLYING SUIT

A world war incident in which Albert, king of the Belgians, played a part was recalled yesterday by John F. Moffett, 120 South La Salle street, investment broker who was a lieutenant of the American air forces in Belgium in 1918.

"I was with a British squadron on the Belgian coast," said Mr. Moffett. "One day in September we were notified that the king would come out and wanted to take a trip over the lines in a plane. Less than an hour later he arrived. Efforts had been made to dissuade him, but he was insistent, so we placed him in a ship with a Canadian flyer named Robinson.

"King Albert had brought no equipment and I let him have my flying suit and gloves. The suit was too small for him, but he squeezed into it. I also lent him my cap, and when he put it on hind side frontwards I changed it for him. He laughed about that. His trip was without particular incident, although German batteries fired on the plane while he was aloft. When he got back he insisted on taking photographs and sent us copies of the pictures later."

BRITISH ENVOY PAVES WAY FOR PACT ON ARMS

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 20.—Europe will soon reach a compromise on disarmament. This was the opinion of diplomats of various nations in Berlin today after Capt. Anthony Eden, British lord privy seal, had spent a whole day conferring, lunching, and dining with German officials, including Chancellor Hitler.

An official communique issued tonight, as well as private talks with diplomats, stressed the "very friendly spirit of the conversations."

German officials had feared that France would turn down the British arms proposals in conversations with Capt. Eden in Paris yesterday. But this was not the case.

"All Doors Open."

Diplomats said that "all doors are open for negotiations." The British and German arms suggestions are being used as the basis for the present conversations.

Only the questions of disarmament and the possibility of reconciling the French and German views on Germany's storm troops, which France demands be classed as part of the German army, were discussed at the Anglo-German meeting. The tender subject of Austria was not touched.

The German public is extremely pleased at Air Minister Wilhelm Goering's demand for an air force equaling 40 per cent of the combined air fleets of France, Belgium, Czechoslovakia, and Poland, Germany's strongest neighbors.

Fear Air Raids.

Fear of the possibility of a foreign air raid, especially over Berlin, has grown to nightmarish proportions in Germany. Despite the friendship agreement reached between Germany and Poland, Germans point out that the Polish border is less than 100 miles from Berlin.

In an interview published in the entire German press today, Goering also referred to the Bulgarian communist leader, Georgi Dimitrov, who is still held in jail despite his acquittal by the German Supreme court, last December on charges of arson in connection with the reichstag fire. Goering said Dimitrov would continue to be held in jail.

This statement was in open contradiction to Chancellor Hitler's own formal statement last Friday that the rulings of the court in the reichstag case would be respected.

Nazis Continue Arrests.

Today's toll of arrests for violation of various aspects of the Nazi "new deal" included representatives of all walks of life. Among them was the owner of a feudal estate at Sassen, Herr Faehser, who was arrested for failing to provide adequate living conditions for his farm hands and for slandering the local Nazi chief.

The mayor of Bamberg, Dr. Weegeman, was arrested for making disparaging remarks about a high Nazi official.

The Rev. Mr. Berkmeier of Grosskarolingen was arrested for allowing publication of an article which authorities claim insulted the reputation of old army officers.

H. Pfeifer of Burscheid was arrested for manufacturing a poor quality of shoes for winter relief purposes.

EXPORT OF NITRATE FOR EUROPE SHOWS A SHARP INCREASE

CRISTOBAL, C. Z., Feb. 20.—(AP)—A sharp increase in the number of the ships passing through the Panama canal carrying nitrate from Chile to Europe aroused comment today among marine officials because of the tense European situation.

The total tonnage of nitrate—useable in the manufacture of explosives—to pass through the canal this month reached 93,604 when the twelfth ship of the month passed through today.

Half of the shipments were consigned to the Azores for orders. Shipping officials said the cargoes will be rerouted from those islands to England and Russia. France also was said to be buying large amounts of nitrate.

On the other hand, vessels in transit from the United States to Japan almost daily carry scrap iron, steel, lead, and cotton—commodities which also can be used for making munitions. Large shipments of nitrates are also going to the west coast of the United States and thence to Japan.

Find Norwegian Ship Sunk in Baltic; Crew of 14 Dead

FREE CITY OF DANZIG, Feb. 20.—(AP)—A topmast emerging from the Baltic sea near Hela today was established by divers to be that of the Norwegian collier Hardy, missing during a recent gale. The entire crew of 14 perished. The small vessel was bound for Ireland from Gdynia, Poland.

HITLER RETRACTS NAZI ULTIMATUM TO AUSTRIANS

Vienna Buries 50 Civil War Victims in One Grave.

BERLIN, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Chancellor Hitler today defiated Theodore Habicht's ultimatum to the government of Austria. He personally punctured the exiled Austrian Nazi leader's hopes of starting a political war with Chancellor Englebert Dollfuss.

Circumstantial evidence, augmented by reports in official circles, showed that Hitler was highly displeased because Habicht not only acted without the chancellor's authority, but evidently exceeded it.

Habicht, speaking by radio from Munich last night, demanded that his party be taken into the Dollfuss government and gave the five-foot dictator eight days to take the necessary steps.

Publication Is Suppressed.

A broad hint from a person high up in Nazi councils halted publication in the German press of the Habicht ultimatum. Most of the newspaper offices had picked up the speech on their own radio sets.

Responsible officials, when asked for an interpretation of the order, merely shrugged their shoulders. Privately, these officials said the Austrian exile had acted without instructions.

While the German press has minced no words in denouncing the Dollfuss dictatorship as one of terror which must inevitably give way to a Nazi régime, Hitler's policy obviously is one of watchful waiting. He prefers to let time work in his favor, it was said.

Well informed persons said tonight that it was safe to predict that Habicht would never again make an impassioned party declaration without consulting someone higher up in party councils.

SEARCH TWO STATES FOR GINGER ROGERS, MISSING THREE DAYS

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 20.—(AP)—The sheriff's missing persons' bureau searched two states tonight for Ginger Rogers, titian haired movie actress, who vanished Saturday, presumably to go by airplane to a ranch "somewhere in either Arizona or Southern California."

In asking aid of authorities, the actress' mother, Mrs. Lela Rogers, said there is no alarming mystery concerning her daughter's disappearance. She said she wanted to locate Miss Rogers because a film studio is urgently in need of her for film work.

"Ginger left home Saturday night, telling me she was tired and needed a rest," the mother related. "She didn't announce her destination as she said she wanted a complete rest, having made eight pictures in succession."

BURY 50 VICTIMS

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Feb. 20.—The bodies of fifty soldiers, members of the Fascist heimwehr (home guards) and policemen, victims of last week's civil warfare in which the Socialists were driven from Vienna and a Fascist state set up, were buried in a single grave in the Central cemetery today.

Funeral services were held before the city hall, with the coffins of the dead arranged before an altar in the open air. A funeral mass was conducted by Cardinal Innitzer, who then walked in the two miles long funeral procession to the cemetery, accompanied by 200 clergymen and monks.

President Wilhelm Miklas, Chancellor Dollfuss, and other members of the government attended the services before the city hall and also followed the cortège on foot.

A Strong Military Display.

Preceded by strong detachments of police, militia, soldiers, and four companies of artillery, each coffin was borne on a separate auto truck, beside which walked an escort of six soldiers or police, corresponding to the service to which the dead man belonged.

Detachments of regular soldiers, commanded by Maj. Emil Fey, vice chancellor and Fascist leader, led the procession. Afterward came another heimwehr division which it was noticed was wearing Italian helmets. All along the route troops were planted, standing about twenty feet apart. All soldiers in the procession were heavily armed.

Members of the Socialist schutzbund are being interred also, but their funerals are being held at night and without ostentation. George Weissel, executed Socialist leader, was buried last night. Only his widow and a dozen intimate friends were permitted by the government to attend.

After the mass today President Miklas, Dollfuss, and others spoke. Dollfuss said that the "feeling of revenge must now cease. The blood lost in last week's fighting should insure peace for all and should knit us all the more closely together."

Vice Chancellor Fey sought to justify the killing of hundreds of Socialists by saying this ruthless action had "saved" the peace of Europe.

THE END OF HIS "NERVES"

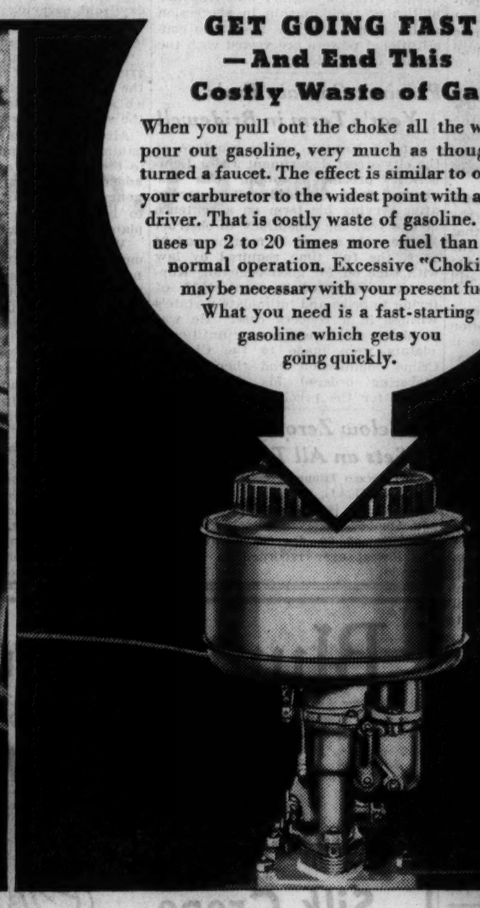
GET GOING FAST —And End This Costly Waste of Gas

When you pull out the choke all the way you pour out gasoline, very much as though you turned a faucet. The effect is similar to opening your carburetor to the widest point with a screwdriver. That is costly waste of gasoline. For it uses up 2 to 20 times more fuel than does normal operation. Excessive "Choking" may be necessary with your present fuel. What you need is a fast-starting gasoline which gets you going quickly.



STANDARD'S 1934 WINTER GASOLINE

REDUCES AMOUNT OF FUEL USED IN STARTING, 30% TO 50%

IMPORTANT!
Not even gasoline as fast starting as Quick-Fire Superfuel can overcome the talon-grip of oil made heavy and sticky by sub-zero cold. Here's the way to cut down your engine's work tremendously with real savings:
NEW WINTER GRADE ISO-VIS "D"
The Anti-Sludge Motor Oil,
10-W Pours at 20° Below Zero
20-W Pours at 5° Below Zero

Starts Cold Engines Faster . . . Catches hold almost immediately when you punch the starter—cuts down chance of flooded carburetor—saves costly grinding-down of battery.

Develops Full Driving Power Quickly . . . Holds that fast start—sends the power evenly into every cylinder from the very jump-off—lets you go into gear and away without waiting, and with minimum use of choke.

Gives You More Miles For Your Money . . . No excessive waste of gasoline in starting—no unnecessary burning of fuel to warm up the motor. That means practically all the gasoline you buy is converted into actual mileage.

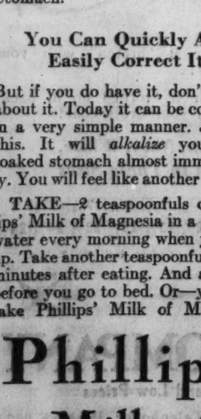
How to Find Out If You Have Acid Stomach

And Quick, Easy Way to Correct It

The Signs of Acid Stomach

Nervousness	Neuralgia	Indigestion
Auto-intoxication		Nausea
Frequent Headaches		Sleeplessness
Feeling of Weakness		Mouth Acidity
Loss of Appetite		Sour Stomach



WHAT TO DO FOR IT

TAKE—2 teaspoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water every morning when you get up. Take another teaspoonful thirty minutes after eating. And another before you go to bed.

OR—Take the new Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets—one tablet for each teaspoonful as directed above.

Some 80% of the people of today have Acid Stomach, according to many authorities! This because so many foods, comprising the modern diet, are acid forming foods.

Headaches, stomach pains after eating, "gas," "upsets," "biliousness," are the usual indications. So you can easily tell if you have Acid Stomach.

You Can Quickly And Easily Correct It

But if you do have it, don't worry about it. Today it can be corrected in a very simple manner. Just do this. It will alkalize your acid soaked stomach almost immediately. You will feel like another person.

TAKE—2 teaspoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water every morning when you get up. Take another teaspoonful thirty minutes after eating. And another before you go to bed. Or—you can take Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets: one tablet for each teaspoonful of the liquid.

What This Does

That's all you do. But do it regularly. EVERY DAY.

This acts to neutralize the stomach acids that foster your "upset" stomach, that invite headaches and that feeling of lassitude and lost energy you feel.

Everywhere people are doing this—doctors advocating it. Try it. Results will amaze you. Your head will be clear. You'll forget you have a stomach.

BUT—be careful that you get REAL milk of magnesia when you buy; genuine PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia. See that the name "Phillips'" is stamped clearly on the label.

ALSO IN TABLET FORM

CHICAGO SCHOOL BILLS ADVANCED IN LOWER HOUSE

500 Downstate Teachers Present Plea.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—The program of Mayor Kelly and the board of education to bolster up the credit of the Chicago schools and pave the way for payment of back salaries to teachers moved steadily ahead today in the third special session of the legislature.

Seven bills that will save the Chicago schools from closing their doors, according to the sponsors, went into second reading in the house without opposition. The entire program is now half way toward passage.

After the representatives had cleared the decks of the Chicago measures in the forenoon the house resolved itself in a committee of the whole in order to hear the pleas of downstate school officials. The galleries were crowded with more than 500 teachers from Williamson and Franklin counties and the applause was frequent.

Blair Tells Schools' Plight.

The plight of public education throughout Illinois was pictured first of all by Francis G. Blair, state superintendent of schools. Dr. Blair asserted that the Illinois school system was less adequately financed than half the states of the union. He declared that 32 million dollars had been cut from school expenditures in the state during the last two years.

"But in spite of these heroic attempts to kep the cost of education within the available state and local school revenues," said Dr. Blair, "thousands of teachers are now unpaid and school officers from districts scattered throughout the state are reporting to me that unless some immediate financial aid is furnished to them they will have to close their schools."

It was announced that the hearing would continue tomorrow. Among the proposals advanced by the downstate teachers are a tax of one-eighth of a cent on each bushel of grain futures, a tax of 2 per cent income for individuals, and a tax of 3 per cent on the net incomes of corporations.

Bills Meet No Opposition.

Advancement of the Chicago school board's legislative program, which was passed by the senate last week, to second reading in the house was accomplished without a struggle. A new measure, the so-called pegged levy bill, was introduced by Representative Benjamin S. Adamowski [Dem., Chicago] and was sent to second reading without reference to a committee.

Adamowski told house members that the bill would provide $8,500,000 in additional revenue which is needed if the school board is to balance its 1934 budget.

The levy for the educational or operating fund of the board will be pegged at 44 million dollars for 1933 and 43 million dollars for 1934, according to the terms of the bill. The fixed levies will be substituted for the tax rates of $1.54 for 1933 and $1.60 for 1934.

Cannot Balance Budget.

Ralph Condee, assistant attorney for the board, who brought the measure to Springfield last night, declared that it would be a hopeless task to balance the budget under the existing tax rates for the two years and the greatly reduced assessed valuation of property in Chicago.

At the senate session in the afternoon the pegged levy bill was introduced by Senator Harold G. Ward [Dem., Chicago] and advanced to second reading without comment.

The pegged levy bill has been approved by John O. Rees, director of the citizens' committee on public expenditures, and Douglas Sutherland, executive secretary of the civic federation and bureau of public efficiency. The two men came to Springfield to watch the progress of the bill and lend assistance.

Seven Bills Pending.

In all, there are seven bills pending before the house that Chicago has asked in order to bolster up the financially crippled school system.

Of these measures, the most important and the only one that will give immediate relief to the Chicago teachers, who have not been paid for seven months, is that embodying Mayor Kelly's plan for selling the $40,000,000 school bond issue to the federal government.

This bill was sent forward to second reading without debate, as were the others. By it the Chicago school board would be able to pledge its school property, unused for school purposes, to Uncle Sam as additional security for the purchase of the bonds.

Other Chicago school measures pushed along would give the board authority to issue refunding bonds in exchange for outstanding warrants and bonds when the collection of taxes for their payment has been delayed.

Sanitary Bills Also Advanced.

The Sanitary district's bills, consisting solely of legislation requested by Public Works Administrator Harold L. Ickes, when $42,000,000 worth of PWA funds were released for sewage disposal construction in Chicago, were also sent to second reading. No opposition has developed, and the bills may go to third reading tomorrow.

The most important of the district's measures will give the Sanitary board the power to charge for treating "factory and industrial waste" in Chicago. It will also give the district authority to compel industries to install proper equipment so that waste may be measured.

The other measures will enable the district to pledge all judgments rendered in its favor against municipalities for sale of electrical energy. The money thus obtained would be pledged to the government as additional security for the payment of bonds sold to the PWA.

M'CAHEY FIGHTS PLAN TO CLOSE LIBRARIES IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

In a communication sent yesterday to Mayor Kelly, James B. McCahey, president of the school board, protested against the public library board's threat to close the school libraries in 30 of the city's high schools because the board of education is in arrears approximately $95,000 owed to the public library for the payment of salaries to 49 school librarians.

Carl D. Roden, librarian, declared that the school libraries will be closed March 1 unless some arrangement is made by the school board to reimburse the public library for the salaries paid to the librarians. "The library board cannot afford to carry the load any longer," he said.

Mr. McCahey in his letter to the mayor said that the branches now being maintained in the schools are more economical than the branches being maintained by the library in other locations.

He informed the mayor that should the library board demand payment of the money it could be arranged only by taking a considerable portion of the funds which the school board is trying to accumulate for the payment of long overdue teachers' salaries.

The school libraries have been in service for more than 13 years. William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools, termed the school libraries "one of the most valuable features of our school system."

Mayor Kelly said he would take the matter under consideration.

DROP MANDAMUS SUIT ATTACKING SKARDA TAX ACT

A mandamus suit filed two months ago seeking to compel County Judge Jarecki to expunge an order to appoint a tax receiver for the Graemere hotel, 113 North Homan avenue, was dismissed in the state Supreme court in Springfield yesterday as the result of an agreement between the complainant, Oscar Weiner, and County Tax Attorney Hayden N. Bell, representing State's Attorney Courtney. The Graemere hotel was in process of foreclosure with Weiner as receiver when on May 23, 1933, County Treasurer McDonough was appointed receiver under the Kerner-Skarda act to collect $81,716 in taxes. Attorney Bell yesterday said that the mandamus was dropped by Weiner after county authorities had agreed to allow him to continue as receiver, applying net income from the hotel on delinquent taxes.

Miss Gertrude Siers, 30 years old, who has been suffering with a mysterious blood malady since Feb. 5 at the Holy Cross hospital, was reported definitly on the road to recovery yesterday. The bleeding from her eyes, ears, nose, and mouth has stopped, according to Dr. F. P. Kraft, interne at the hospital. Miss Siers is said to have contracted the disease, which is known as thrombocytopenic purpura, as a result of a cold.

TEST IN HOUSE FACES WORLD'S FAIR MEASURES

Negroes May Battle for Equality Clause.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—The way was paved in the Illinois house today for passage early Thursday of the World's Fair enabling legislation. Bills allowing A Century of Progress to release contracts totaling five million dollars went to second reading. Since the senate has passed them, only house approval remains as a procedural hurdle.

Although not a member raised a voice against the bills today, tomorrow will provide a better test of strength. Last Friday 106 members told THE TRIBUNE that they would remain here Wednesday for a post midnight roll call so that the legislation could be passed and presented to Gov. Horner when he returns Sunday from Arizona.

A dozen members who could not be reached Friday said today that they were also whole heartedly for the bills, so passage seemed a certainty. But tomorrow on second reading an attempt may be made to amend them.

Negro Issue Slows Progress.

Any sort of amendment, if adopted, would delay enactment, for it would necessitate sending the bills back to the senate for concurrence. Concurrence requires 34 votes and the chances of holding 34 senators here for such action Thursday or Friday were considered tonight not so good.

Tonight it appeared that one amendment might be offered. Negro representatives from Chicago who succeeded last week in holding the senate bills on first reading, when the Fair backers wished them pushed to second, seek assurance from the Fair authorities that members of their race will have equal rights at the exposition next summer.

Representative Charles F. Jenkins [Rep., Chicago] took a course of action this afternoon which may obviate the presentation of an amendment.

Would Give Hearing.

He introduced a bill calling for the appointment of a committee of five members to investigate "any violations of national or state laws at A Century of Progress." The bill did not mention the complaints of the Negroes but the committee would be empowered to subpena witnesses and give a $1,000 appropriation.

It was pointed out that presentation of the bill would give the Negro members the opportunity they seek of presenting the question of equal rights before the assembly without delaying the progress of the bill.

However, it had not been definitly decided that no amendment would be offered tomorrow.

It is the plan to advance the bills to third reading tomorrow and to pass them after midnight Thursday. If no amendments are adopted this can be accomplished and by next week A Century of Progress will start to work rebuilding the Exposition.

Protest Economy Measures.

The bills are being handled in the house by Representative Benjamin S. Adamowski [Dem., Chi.], and they have the additional support of Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg [Rep., Chicago], the minority leader.

While no objections were offered to advancement of the Fair bills, Representative James T. Burns [Dem., Kankakee] ran into a storm of words when he introduced five bills which he claimed would reduce the cost of state government by about $600,000 annually.

It was not a popular cause which Representative Burns injected into the session. Realizing it, he informed the house that it "hadn't given much attention to the experiment of reducing the costs of government." "You talk about economy," he declared, "but you don't do anything about it."

This, of course, was bound to react and when Burns tried to send his first bill, a measure to abolish the state's share of maintaining city courts, to second reading without reference to a committee, objections popped up from all parts of the floor.

"It would save the state $100,000 annually," Burns explained, but upon a rising vote he was defeated. Most of his support came from the Republican side of the floor.

The other bills fared likewise. They would abolish the offices of township treasurers, township assessors, and county veterinarians and surveyors.

A young robber who wore a skullcap held up Miss Frances Guerin, 30 years old, 6738 South Sangamon street, a bookkeeper, as she walked in front of 6646 South Morgan street last night and took her purse containing $35.

BEG YOUR PARDON

In yesterday's TRIBUNE it was erroneously stated that the aquarium might be closed for the summer if the amendment excluding it from the Fair grounds is added to the enabling act. The aquarium has never been included in the Fair grounds. The proposed amendment is in relation to the planetarium on northerly island. Officials of the aquarium yesterday said that the aquarium would continue to remain outside the Fair grounds this summer, and would continue to give the same high grade exhibition that it has presented in the past.

ASKS LIST OF ALL STATE EMPLOYES BE MADE PUBLIC

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—Representative Leroy M. Green [Rep., Rockford] introduced a resolution in the house today which may provoke a sizeable political row tomorrow.

He asked that the state's attorney of Sangamon county proceed in enforcing the law providing for the publication by Jan. 31, each year, of a complete list of employés in all state departments.

Green's resolution declared that the list was not yet available. He asked that the house pass the resolution immediately and Majority Leader Thomas P. Sinnett of Rock Island objected. A few parliamentary sparrings led to decision to consider the resolution tomorrow. It was indicated that the Democratic majority would not be friendly to the plan of publishing the names of all the persons they sponsored in office. Conferences tonight made decide the course of action.

COURT ORDERS POST RESTORED TO DR. U. J. GRIM

A writ of mandamus directing the state department of public welfare, and members of the state civil service commission to restore Dr. Ulysses J. Grim, professor of oto-laryngology at Loyola university, to his post on the staff of the Illinois Eye and Ear infirmary, was issued yesterday by Superior Judge James J. Kelly. The infirmary is a state institution and staff members serve without pay.

Dr. Grim through his counsel, Charles Leviton, informed Judge Kelly that on last July 1 some thirty physicians who had been on the staff of the infirmary for many years, were summarily discharged by the state civil service commission. Dr. Grim had served on the infirmary staff for thirty years, the lawyer said, and his dismissal was considered a reflection upon his prestige. The lawyer charged that all the dismissals were a result of "politics" and "action of the spoils system."

After the writ was issued Assistant Attorney General William Clausen announced that he would appeal the ruling.

Kills Himself at Foot of Soldiers' Monument

Stephen Angell, 69 years old, 3304 Schubert avenue, shot and fatally wounded himself last night at the foot of the soldiers' monument at Logan boulevard and Kedzie avenue. He was taken to the Lutheran Memorial hospital, where he died early today. Friends said that Angell had been despondent over ill health.

A TRUE STORY
By A GIRL of 19
who has found the secret of popularity
"A LOT of the happiness of my life," writes Miss Ruth Linton, of 977 Goodrich Avenue, St. Paul, Minnesota, "I owe to my mother. When I was a little girl she made a discovery about how to keep me well, which has certainly made a lot of difference in my life.
"I do not suppose that any mother would fail to give her family the priceless joy of health, once she learned, as my mother did, the economy and simplicity of just keeping a big bottle of Nujol within reach.
"Once a mother makes this important discovery of the friendly aid offered by Nujol, all the strong, distasteful, and possibly harmful laxatives are cast aside in favor of this mild and natural method.
"Almost all my life I have been using Nujol. I do not have to take it every day. Sometimes I need it only once or twice a week. There is certainly no doubt about the fact that if you want to be as vivacious as you need to be for modern activities you have to have a clean system.
"I think success in school, society, and business depends one hundred per cent on good health, and so far as I am concerned I find that Nujol is the best way of assuring it."
We are glad to publish this letter from a popular nineteen-year-old girl, because the simple secret it tells of securing popularity and happiness may bring success and joy to thousands of other girls who are just starting in on the big adventure of life.
Follow Miss Linton's example. Try Nujol yourself. See what it will do for you—and later on—when you have babies of your own to worry about—remember how this girl's wise mother brought her up the Nujol way to be regular as clockwork.
You can get Nujol at any drug store, now in two forms—plain, and Cream of Nujol, the latter flavored and often preferred by children.
What is your Nujol story? If you have been using Nujol for ten years or more, if you are bringing up your children on it, tell us. Address Stanco Incorporated, 2 Park Avenue, New York City.

WITNESS TELLS OF VIOLENCE IN LAUNDRY STRIFE

Union Attorney Accused of Threats.

"Violence and threats of bloodshed during the organization in 1932 of the Cook County Hand Laundry association were described yesterday in the racket conspiracy trial before Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan of the Criminal court. The trial is the outgrowth of troubles in the cleaning and dyeing, laundry, and carbonated beverage industries in Chicago in which Murray Humphreys, a fugitive defendant, and other Capone hoodlums allegedly participated with union officials and trade association leaders.

The stories of yesterday's witnesses continued in general the picture which the prosecution started to unfold to the jury on Monday regarding the reorganization of trade practices and union wage agreements which took place in the laundry industry as a whole after the employment of Attorney Aaron Sapiro, one of the defendants in this trial, as counselor for the Chicago Laudry Owners' association.

On Monday it was testified that when members of the laundry association negotiated a preferential wage agreement with local 712 of the Laundry and Dye House Drivers union, one of the provisions was that they should pay $1 a week for each of their trucks. The money was to be used through the union for organization of the hand laundry owners as a means of stopping price cutting by the hand laundries.

Tells Organization Moves.

These organization efforts were described by Max Sherman, owner of the Temple Hand laundry, 5232 North Clark street. Sherman was vice president of another organization in his business, the North Side Hand Laundry Owners' club. He testified under questioning by Prosecutor Thomas Bugan that in January, 1932, he and other officers of that club were summoned to two meetings at 1600 West Madison street.

George Knott, vice president of the drivers' union; Charles Goldstein, business agent of that union, and Marshall Rose, field secretary of the Cook County Hand Laundry association, were among those present, he said. These three men are defendants.

At the second meeting, Sherman said, he urged that a general meeting of all hand laundry owners be called, and that they be permitted to organize and choose their own officers. Goldstein replied, he said, that if the officers of the north side club would resign and join the Hand Laundry association the other members of the club would follow.

Orders Laundries to Sign Up.

Then, according to Sherman, Rose told him: "You boys mustn't forget that this is Chicago. We elected the city officials and the state's attorney. If you don't sign up bloodshed will follow:

Two or three weeks later, Sherman testified, he received a telephone call and went to an address in the 5200 block on North Paulina street to pick up a laundry bundle. He could not find the name he had been given on the mail boxes in the entrance, and while he was looking for it, he said, a man whom he did not know removed his hat and knocked him unconscious with some blunt instrument.

Sherman proved a belligerent witness on cross-examination by Attorney William Rodriguez, counsel for Rose and the various drivers' union officials. He was unable to fix dates of any of the matters about which Attorney Rodriguez questioned him, explaining that he had no memory for dates, but asserted that his memory as to the occurrences he had described was clear.

Earlier in the day Morris I. Kaplan, who was attorney for the Chicago Laundry Owners' association, and who is a defendant, was quoted by a witness as saying that "minor" violence would be used, if necessary, to organize the hand laundrymen. The witness was Charles E. Blake, a reporter for an afternoon newspaper.

Blake testified that he interviewed Kaplan on May 25, 1932, in connection with a series of stories he was writing on Chicago rackets.

"Kaplan said," testified Blake, "that if the hand laundries didn't join, the union would picket them, or report them to the police or health department for violations of the tenement law, which he said existed in many hand laundries. He said that in some cases, if hand laundries wouldn't join, they would resort to minor violence."

On cross-examination by Attorney Benjamin Short, representing Kaplan, Blake said Kaplan had mentioned window smashing as one type of "minor violence."

Report Perjury Indictment.

The grand jury was reported yesterday to have voted a true bill charging Harold Johnson, a witness who testified in the racket case ten days ago, with perjury. Johnson, who was formerly manager of the Lexington hotel at 22d street and Michigan avenue, first gave testimony indicating that Morris Becker, operator of a chain of cleaning and dyeing shops, had paid part of Al Capone's rent when Capone live in the hotel in 1931.

He later changed his testimony and admitted that he got the rent payment, not in a Becker shop, but in a cigar store next door, and from one of Capone's followers.

COURT GETS CHARGES NAMING OFFICERS OF INDIANAPOLIS BANK

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—A finding that there is ample evidence in records of the Meyer-Kiser bank for prosecution of Sol Meyer, Fred S. Meyer, J. J. Kiser and Melville S. Cohn on felony charges and much other evidence obtainable by a grand jury, was formally reported today by his special investigator to Judge Earl R. Cox in Circuit court.

The report, prepared by Alvah S. Rucker, former court prosecuting attorney and pertaining only to the Meyer-Kiser bank failure, is in conformity with instructions given by Judge Cox for an investigation of all bank failures here which have resulted in appointments of receivers in Circuit court.

Accompanying the report was affidavits charging the four bank officers with conspiracy to embezzle bank deposits. These affidavits were prepared for use of the Criminal court and await approval of Herbert E. Wilson, county prosecutor, which is necessary to their filing in the Criminal court. Wilson tonight had not decided what he will do.

FORM NEW UNION TO END STRIKE OF COAL DRIVERS

Promise Men Will Return to Work Tomorrow.

union would be sufficiently organized to start negotiations today.

The flow of deliveries continued effectively in many sections of the city yesterday, but independent coal dealers outside the Chicago Coal Merchants association announced they were hauling coal because their workers own and operate their own trucks.

It was disclosed yesterday at the offices of the regional labor board that complaints had been made by the old outlaw union that the employers were violating parts of the national recovery act code dealing with collective bargaining. E. H. Bell, mediator in the office, said that the NRA officials probably would call an election of the workers to determine whether David Reese, president of the union, actually is the chosen representative of the organization.

Reese was one of those indicted in connection with the Trucking and Transportation exchange racket, which State's Attorney Courtney forced out more than a year ago. At one time the T-N-T had a strangle hold on the local coal industry. It was led by Looney, George [Red] Barker, gangster since slain; William [Three Fingered Jack] White, who was slain recently; Murray Humphreys, William [Klondike] O'Donnell, and James [Fur] Sammons.

Union Official Ousted.

This combination, it is alleged, drove James Lynch out of his place as secretary-treasurer of the Chicago Coal Teamsters' union in 1928. Later he was wounded, supposedly by gangsters. His return to power with the help of Mr. Courtney and the police would assure a strong anti-Looney administration.

The T-N-T forced truck owners to join and pay dues and to negotiate with the union through the T-N-T. By the power of its gangsters the T-N-T also dictated to the coal teamsters' union, which Barker at one time controlled, and the union made its agreements with the T-N-T rather than the employers. In this way the gangsters had contracts help with the employers and the employes, and were able to dictate prices, wages, and working conditions.

State's Attorney Courtney effectively broke up the T-N-T by having the truck owners, including coal dealers, drop their membership. Then he secured the indictment of the T-N-T principals, including Reese. His next move was to try to induce the members of Reese's union to join the regular or Federation of Labor teamsters' union and drop their membership in the so-called outlaw union.

Thirty Pickets Arrested.

Throughout Monday night and yesterday morning 30 union pickets were arrested. The arrest of Reese was ordered, but he was not found. Milton Booth and Edward McDermott were among those held. Writs of habeas corpus were obtained for all the union men and by the day they were released.

The strike was also in progress in the north shore suburbs of Chicago and deliveries were also being made there. The strike spread to the western suburbs after a vote was taken by members of local 703, which has the territory in part of the west side and the western portion of the county, with headquarters in Maywood. These members struck in sympathy with the Chicago union.

PEER CONDEMNS HITLER RULE AT MASSMEETING

Lord Dudley Marley, vice chairman of the British house of lords and chairman of the World Committee to Aid Victims of German Facism, was the principal speaker at a massmeeting in the Masonic temple last night. Before a capacity audience Lord Marley denounced the Hitler regime.

"Our world committee is a nonpolitical body with a nonpolitical task," he explained. "We are determined to present a united front against the horrors being perpetuated in the name of government on the Jewish people in Germany."

GUNMEN HOLD UP WAREHOUSE; GET 'BRINKS PACKAGE'

Four gunmen who apparently knew that the Brinks Express money truck arrived each afternoon at 3 o'clock, walked into the warehouse office of the Charles Valentine company, liquor importers and distributors at 7732 Stony Island avenue, at 2:45 p. m. yesterday. One of the men, carrying a sawed off shotgun, went to the office of A. J. Weber, treasurer of the company, on the second floor, and ordered him to open the vault on the first floor. After the vault had been opened the robber said: "Give me the Brinks money package." Taking the bundle of bills amounting to $2,000, he and his three companions walked to an automobile in which a fifth man was seated at the wheel and were driven away.

THANKS TO KEEPING MY STOMACH IN ORDER

Now—Keep Breath Sweet All Day

You know what close contact with a person whose stomach is upset means in bad breath. Excess acids ferment foods, form unpleasant gases that rise and cause embarrassment. If the offending person realizes it.

As a well-bred person what you want is not covering up the odor with rinse or gargle, BUT ABSOLUTE SECURITY.

The way to get this is to make sure the STOMACH is always sweet. Your own doctor will tell you what to do: Take a teaspoonful of BiSoDoL in water morning and night.

This discovery—a blend of digestive remedies—is safeguarding thousands. It neutralizes excess acids at once. Keeps your stomach settled. You wake up with a clean pleasant taste in your mouth—no trace of faulty digestion—your mind completely at ease on the score of conspicuous breath.

Begin using BiSoDoL now. Take it, also, for gas, heartburn, or any stomach discomfort—the improved quick, new-day remedy doctors everywhere prescribe. At all druggists for only 25c a package.

"INSTEAD OF POKING FIRES"

An interview with Mr. Andrew Lino and family, 3127 Parkside Ave., Chicago

"LOOK FOR YOURSELF AND SEE WHY WE'RE SOLD ON GAS HEAT"

The Lino family: Mr. and Mrs. Lino, Joseph, Lorraine and Beatrice. Gas heat has brought new happiness to their home!

"INSTEAD of poking fires, chopping kindling, and messing around with dirty ashes, we now have plenty of leisure in a clean, sootless, dirtless house," so Mr. Andrew Lino sums up what he and his family think of gas heat. "It's a fact," he says, "we didn't know what comfort was until we got gas heat. It makes all the difference in the world."

But Mr. Lino's experience is little different from that of 20,000 families who are now enjoying the luxury of gas heat. Gas heat means so much to any home. All furnace worries, all furnace bother is banished when gas heat is installed. No watching, no waiting for heat to come up. With gas heat you just set the thermostat on the wall for the heat you want. Every hour, day and night it is automatically regulated for the correct temperature. Walls and drapes stay clean much longer. Basement dirt is not tracked upstairs because you never have to go downstairs to even look at the furnace.

GAS HEATING RATES ARE DOWN

With rates for gas heat now one-half of what they were during the 1930-31 heating season it is no wonder so many thousands have changed to this modern heating method. Why not try gas heat in your home? Here is our special offer. We will install a burner in your present furnace or boiler at our expense. You pay only the rental on the equipment, which amounts to $3 a month in the average home. The charge is included with the bill for the gas you use. You try it for a month, two months, a year. And if within the year you find that you are not completely satisfied with gas, we will take it out at our expense and replace your former heating equipment in good workmanlike order. But—if you decide to keep gas heat—as we think you will—the rental you have paid applies on the purchase price of the equipment.

ACT TODAY!

Don't delay! Think what gas heat will mean in greater comfort, better health and convenience for the entire family. With rates for heating with gas so low, it is pure folly not to investigate this liberal offer. Call your local gas company for full information.

The Lino home at 3127 Parkside Ave. One of the 20,000 homes in the Chicago area now equipped for gas heat.

"It's really astonishing how long things stay clean all through the house," says Mrs. Lino. "The drapes and curtains don't show any soil from one month to the next."

"It's such a relief, too," says Mr. Andrew Lino, "not to be constantly worrying about the furnace and about fuel."

GAS CUSTOMER GETS BIG PENNY'S WORTH

Gas is the modern, magic fuel. Turn a valve and it's at your service, in any quantity you wish, at any hour of the day or night.

And cheap! Here's what one cent's worth of gas will do, in any one of Chicago's 796,000 homes:

Make 48 cups of coffee, or broil two pounds of steak, or fry 16 eggs, or bake a pie. It's a big penny's worth!

Peoples Gas is one of Chicago's oldest business institutions . . . for 83 years it has served the city.

 What Others Say About New Low Cost Gas Heat

"Don't know of anything finer. Just perfect."
Mrs. W. H. Coventry
700 East 90th Place, Chicago

"Considering all conditions, including the cleanliness of gas heat, thus reducing cleaning and redecorating expense, I consider gas heat the most satisfactory for my home."
R. S. Jackson
9145 So. Paulina St., Chicago

"I am well satisfied with gas heat . . . With our little seven month girl and the work it saves my wife I would never be without gas heat as long as I could afford any kind of heat."
Dr. R. E. Willie
9210 So. Ashland Ave., Chicago

"Always before my children had severe colds all winter. This winter not one cold, thanks to gas heat."
Charles F. Seehausen
21 Linden St., Crete, Ill.

"Gas heat is wonderful. I don't know what we could do without it. Our friends who visit us marvel at the uniformly warm temperature."
A. S. Silverman
11419 Indiana Ave., Chicago

STARTLING TRIAL OFFER!

To prove that every home can afford to heat with gas, we'll install it at our expense . . . and remove it at our expense, if you don't like it.

YOU INVEST NOTHING!

Without ONE CENT of investment by you, we install the most modern burner in your furnace or boiler. If you are satisfied, it stays. If not—and you are the sole judge—out it comes and your former heating system is reinstalled—AT OUR EXPENSE. We make this offer because of our confidence in the perfection of gas heat.

"Besides giving perfect comfort gas heat has given us an extra room in the house which is such a pleasure," Mrs. Lino reminds us. "And it's just as clean as any room in the house." The Lino's entertain their friends here, and very often get together for a family card game.

SPAIN MENACED BY REVOLUTION FROM 3 SOURCES

Catalonia Hands Vigorous Warning to Madrid.

BY HAROLD ETTLINGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BARCELONA, Spain, Feb. 20.—President Luis Companys of Catalonia went to Madrid tonight to warn President Alcala Zamora of Spain and to lay a vigorous protest before Premier Alejandro Lerroux.

Companys will tell the president, THE TRIBUNE is reliably informed, that if the coup d'état of the rightists, which is persistently rumored to be in the offing, takes place, Catalonia will make trouble. He will tell Lerroux that the Catalans insist on having all the autonomy promised them and will not tolerate obstruction of their coveted home rule even by a government admittedly hostile to it.

Socialists Preach Revolution.

The warning by the Catalans against the advent of a right government, which would be headed by the Catholic leader, Gil Robles, adds new complications to the already delicate situation.

Spain now presents a picture of the Socialists and the extreme left openly preaching revolution; the moderate left threatening violence, and the center government, supported by right elements whose republicanism is not very deep and who are seriously considering throwing out the government and taking over the reins themselves.

Fear Open Break.

Companys' demand for more autonomy is serious enough alone, for a showdown is momentarily impending and may lead to an open break. The immediate difficulty is the taking over by the government of water rights to the Ebro river, which Catalonia insists belong to her.

The importance, as seen here, is not so much in the value of the rights, but in the government's general attitude. For this incident, it is feared, will be the beginning of a series of concrete indications by the present government that since the leftists lost power, Madrid has changed its mind about autonomy.

GEN. RUSSELL NAMED HEAD OF MARINE CORPS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—(AP)—The soldier-diplomat of the marine corps—Maj. Gen. John H. Russell—is to be its next commandant.

President Roosevelt today sent to the senate for confirmation the name of Gen. Russell as the next head of the corps to succeed Maj. Gen. Ben H. Fuller, who will be retired next month by age.

A native of California, Russell has actively commanded at numerous stations since his appointment as a second lieutenant in the corps in 1894. His strategy earned him a reputation as a diplomat and brought him repeated thanks from the highest officials of the American government.

The only marine officer to hold such a rank, Russell in 1922 was appointed American high commissioner to Haiti with the title of ambassador extraordinary to represent the President of the United States in the republic. He was designated to coördinate the work of officials functioning under the American treaty with the republic. Eight years later when he was detached from the duty after readjusting the republic's finances, education and economic structure, President Hoover and the then Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson praised his work highly.

Two Killed, 20 Wounded in Political Riot in Brazil

SULLIVAN AND HOLLY CONFIRMED BY SENATE AS FEDERAL JUDGES

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—The senate late today confirmed the nomination of Philip L. Sullivan and William H. Holly, both of Chicago, to be federal judges for the northern Illinois judicial district.

They were appointed by President Roosevelt several months ago. The senate's approval was granted in executive session late today without a roll call.

Judge Sullivan, who has served on the bench of the Circuit Court of Appeals, is a regular Democrat and his nomination to the higher position was supported by the regular Democratic organization in Illinois. Judge Holly, till now a Chicago attorney, was indorsed by Senator James Hamilton Lewis although he is rated as a progressive. Secretary of the Interior Ickes, it was understood, advocated Holly's appointment.

CUBA SEIZES 68 EX-ARMY HEADS FOR REVOLT PLOT

Acts to Nip Formation of Opposition Force.

BY GUSTAVO RENO.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Feb. 20.—A conspiracy by communists and former officers of the army to overthrow President Carlos Mendieta's provisional government was charged today by Col. Fulgenico Batista, army chief of staff. His charges followed the arrest of 68 of the 460 former army officers released recently from prison under Mendieta's amnesty law.

Batista said he has received many anonymous letters and telephone calls announcing that he and ten of his staff officers had been sentenced to immediate death.

Charges Students with Plot.

Batista said he is convinced that former members of the student directory are authors of the threats. Supporters of former President Grau charge that these men betrayed Grau and caused the elevation of Mendieta to the presidency on Jan. 18.

Investigations revealed, Batista said, that many of the former army officers are, with the aid of students, organizing unemployed men and communists with the objective of attacking the government.

Their plans are said to include a reign of terror in Cuba after he and his staff are assassinated.

A general strike throughout Oriente province is scheduled for tomorrow as a protest against the rule maintained by Batista's forces. Batista's men are charged with killing, persecuting, and jailing workers in an effort to break up the many strikes.

Racial Trouble Looms.

Reports from Camaguey indicate that labor and racial conditions are becoming more acute. A general strike is also expected in this province.

The racial problem in Santa Clara and Matanzas provinces is reported to be serious. Negroes are demanding social and political equality and are theatening to eject white officials.

The possibility that $2,000,000 revenue will be lost from the sugar grinding season as a result of the labor conflicts was reported by Secretary of the Treasury Martinez Saenz. Sixty-six mills are now grinding, as compared with 115 on the same date in 1933.

British Minister Grant Watson today demanded that Mendieta protect British subjects employed in the mills and cane fields of Oriente and Camaguey provinces.

London Police Prepare for Demonstration by Idle

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 20.—Various contingents of unemployed marchers, drawn from all parts of the country, who plan to demonstrate in London over the week-end against the government's new unemployment bill, are gradually nearing their destination. Tonight they surround the capital in a wide circle about 20 miles out. Scotland Yard is taking the greatest precaution to maintain order.

IRISH FREE STATE RECRUITS 15,000 MEN IN NEW ARMY

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

DUBLIN, Feb. 20.—The recruiting of a new territorial force of 15,000 men will begin throughout the Free State tomorrow.

According to a communique issued by the department of defense tonight the territorials will be modeled along the lines of British territorial units. Armories will be erected throughout the country for training recruits.

The De Valera government, the statement adds, hopes the creation of this force will go far to heal the bitterness which has retarded national progress in the last few years. The force, it is emphasized, will be strictly nonpolitical.

Catskill Hotel Keepers Want Nudists Banished

New York, Feb. 20.—[Special.]—A movement to oust all nudists from Sullivan county, New York, was started last night by the hotel men. They say the various nudists' camps in the Catskills and other sections of Sullivan county are decreasing their business.

RUSSIA AND JAPAN NEAR CRISIS ON FISHING RIGHTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Feb. 20.—The Japanese government is filing a stiff protest with the soviet union, charging that the Russian decision yesterday to double the ruble rate on fishery leases is a breach of an international agreement, a foreign office spokesman said today.

The matter came to a head at the annual fisheries auctions yesterday in Vladivostok. All Japanese bids were thrown out because of a dispute over the exchange rate of the ruble, which the Russians suddenly boosted.

This is another of many disputes which have caused Russo-Japanese friction in the last generation over the north Pacific fishing grounds which the soviets claim. The Portsmouth treaty of 1905 allowed Japanese to participate in fisheries in Russian far eastern waters under certain conditions. An agreement of 1925 reaffirmed these rights. The exchange rate for the ruble for fishing contracts was fixed by a further agreement in 1931.

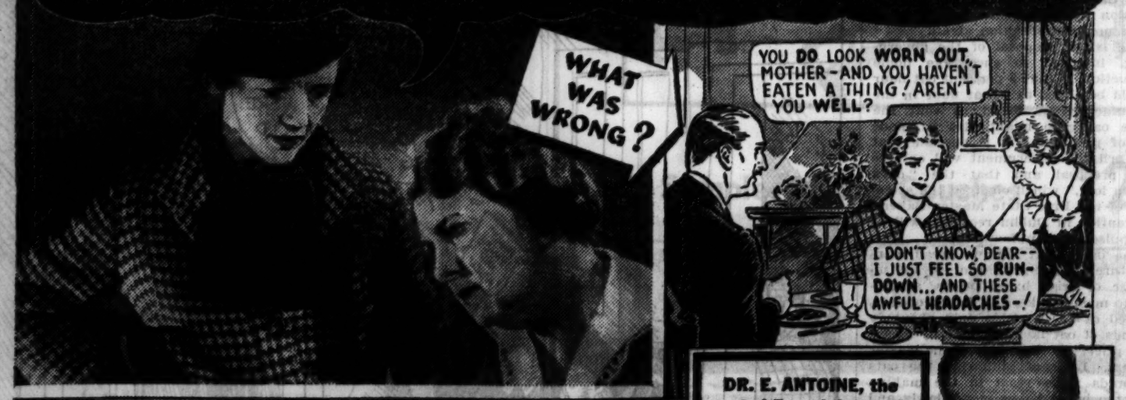
"MOTHER! You look terribly tired!"



WHAT WAS WRONG?
I DON'T KNOW, DEAR—I JUST FEEL SO RUN-DOWN... AND THESE AWFUL HEADACHES—!

REALLY, MRS. GRAY, SO MANY OF MY CUSTOMERS EAT FLEISCHMANN'S YEAST! THEY SAY IT'S WONDERFUL FOR A 'RUN-DOWN' CONDITION.
MY DAUGHTER SHOWED ME WHAT THE DOCTORS SAY ABOUT IT IN THE MAGAZINES. I GUESS I'LL TRY IT!
5 WEEKS LATER
YES, SIR! I JUST FELT SO ENERGETIC I DECIDED TO PAINT OVER ALL THE PORCH FURNITURE. AND AFTER DINNER WE'RE ALL GOING TO THE MOVIES... THAT'S HOW I FEEL!
WHY, MOTHER! YOU'RE GETTING JUST LIKE YOUR OLD SELF. IT MUST BE THAT FLEISCHMANN'S YEAST YOU'VE BEEN EATING SO FAITHFULLY.

DR. E. ANTOINE, the noted French internal specialist, says:—
"Headaches, indigestion, loss of energy, warn that poisons are being absorbed from intestines . . . In my opinion the most effective way to correct constipation is to eat yeast."

JUST EAT 3 CAKES of Fleischmann's Yeast (rich in vitamins B, G, D) daily, as directed on the label. That "tired feeling" goes so soon when intestines start to function regularly, carrying off poisons. Won't you try it—starting this very day?

FLEISCHMANN'S YEAST for Health

Warning! When you buy yeast be sure you ask for FLEISCHMANN'S, because—
2 It's the yeast famous doctors advise.
3 For 45 years it has been known as the best for all purposes.

"Let it be impressed upon your minds, let it be instilled into your children, that the liberty of the press is the palladium of all civil, political, and religious rights of freemen." —"Junius."

THE PRESIDENT AND THE NEWSPAPERS.

President Roosevelt, in accepting the newspaper code, expressed his suspicion or disapproval of it in several particulars. He says he is not satisfied with the child labor provisions and he has asked Gen. Johnson for a special report on conditions within sixty days. He also requests the larger newspapers to establish a five day, forty hour week for their reporters and writers. He discussed the freedom of the press reservation impatiently, saying that it was pure surplusage and had no more place in the code than any other recitation from the constitution or the ten commandments would have.

The President added to these comments the statement that "the freedom guaranteed by the constitution is freedom of expression and that will be scrupulously respected—but it is not freedom to work children or do business in a fire trap or violate the laws against obscenity, libel, and lewdness."

Many publishers cannot pretend fully to understand the attitude of the President and his administrators toward the newspapers of the country. They note a persistent effort to convey to the public the impression that the production of newspapers is a sweated industry which should disturb the conscience of the publishers and horrify the decent minded people of the land. They have noted the persistent reluctance of the administration to accept the code and the further fact that it is now accepted conditionally, with explanations which would increase the public suspicion that particularly bad labor conditions prevail in the great newspaper plants.

The publishers do not recall that any other industry in the country has had attributed to it, even by implication, such qualities as lewdness, obscenity, and indifference to physical hazards of employment, or the desire to exploit children, even the industries concerning which controversy has waged many years with respect to labor conditions. Such industries as steel, southern cotton fabrication, coal mining, New York garment making, etc., have escaped such severity of administration statement, although in these industries there is even now, in spite of the codes, acute labor difficulty which the administrators have been unable to conciliate.

No such conditions prevail in any large scale newspaper production. In the newspaper industry labor has been treated fairly, with satisfactory contracts. Conditions as to health and security are carefully safeguarded and are superior to any to be found in other great industries. The newspapers are not lewd and they avoid libel with all the care which can be exercised by conscientious men.

The Tribune building is not a fire trap, as is well known, particularly by the million or more people who have been shown through the plant. For ten years the plant has been partly air conditioned and this year the building is being completely brought within the system, giving its occupants and the Tribune employés in all departments healthful surroundings and comforts which are known in Washington only in the White House. In every newspaper community there are laws safeguarding buildings, laws against libel and lewdness, and laws protecting not only children but other employés. In fact, in every particular to which the President pointed the finger of suspicion there are laws covering the case and these laws are obeyed by the newspapers.

The publishers, finding that they are singled out among the industrialists for special suspicion and for special condemnation, naturally look about to discover if they can the ungiven reasons for this. The term "child labor" is one which can be used to arouse the indignation of humane people if they do not understand what is meant by it. THE TRIBUNE has said before and repeats that it does not use child labor. Distributors, who are merchants, may employ boys to deliver the newspapers. This need not be, and probably in all instances is not, labor at all injurious to the youngster employed. It is within his physical strength, it is a job in which he can be self-respecting, it does not hurt his morals, and it does not interfere with his education. Before anybody can put a blanket condemnation on a practice which has been of benefit to a generation of grown men it would be necessary to conclude that work in itself is an evil to be postponed, regardless of all other factors, as long as possible and then to be done as little as possible. A boy of sixteen who is helping to pay his own way by the not exhausting or dangerous or bad labor of delivering newspapers is not being imposed upon. If in any particular case he is, that case stands on its own demerits and can be avoided.

Many publishers feel that an odium is being undeservedly directed against them for purposes not revealed in the complaint. It is a part of ancient strategy to make a thing obnoxious in order that it may be handled in accordance with a predetermined purpose. If there are to be surmises as to what this purpose really is there is no need to go abroad to the governments of Mussolini, Hitler, and Stalin, Dollfuss, or even Doumergue to discover symptoms. There the symptoms are in full development and effect. In the United States indications would be sought in the frequent utterances of Gen. Johnson, the NRA administrator, and in incidents which have attended the enforcement of the recovery program. In New England a tailor who printed a caustic comment on the NRA in an advertisment lost his Blue Eagle by action of the compliance board, indorsed by the board in Washington. In Alabama an editor was warned by an NRA agent that he must cease criticism of the codes under penalty. In Washington Gen. Johnson permanently excluded a reporter from his conferences because he did not like what the reporter wrote.

Objection which every administrator in Washington from the President down has made to the freedom of the press reservation is further indication of its paramount need of restatement as a stipulation and pledge. The publishers do not understand the attitude of the administration to them. They know that the charges made against the newspaper industry, explicitly or by implication, are unjust, and they are left puzzled to understand the full intent of the administration toward the free press of this country in a time of revolutionary changes affecting all old principles of personal and property rights. In the light of all that has transpired they are fully justified in entertaining many serious doubts.

SUPERHIGHWAYS.

Ald. Massen, who has made himself an authority on our highway problems, asserts in his report on traffic accidents in Chicago that of 900 fatal accidents during 1933 only 17 would have occurred if the city had elevated highways. This is not a mere guess, but the result of a careful study of the police reports on traffic casualties. Truly enough, Ald. Massen holds that a failure to include superhighways in any Chicago program of highway development would be "not only improvident but a neglect of tragic consequence."

But this truth does not apply to Chicago alone or especially. It should govern the policy of the government in this period of lavish expenditure. The country road network is vastly overdeveloped. It will take years for traffic to overtake it. Many miles of country roads will never have traffic to justify them in an economic sense. Main city thoroughfares, on the other hand, are largely crowded and deadly. This is not a condition which affects city dwellers only. It affects all those who on business or pleasure visit the cities. The neglect by government to develop safe and quick egress and ingress to the cities and metropolitan areas tends to concentrate population unwholesomely and shut it off from resources which are profitable in every way. It prevents or discourages people from living where they want to live, from getting in or getting out of where they want to go and ought to be able safely and easily to go. The right policy would assist people to live where they choose to live.

Public money spent upon superhighways would be constructively spent, both socially and financially. Elevated main highways in cities would pay for themselves in gas taxes and auto licenses. They would save lives and the enormous loss of accidents. Their construction would not only provide direct employment but would increase employment in the automobile industry, for they would mean more use of motor vehicles by reason of the greater safety, comfort and profit of motoring.

FALSE ECONOMY.

There has been a proposal to postpone the election to six Superior court judgeships from the regular judicial election of June 4 to the November general elections. This would save, it is argued, the expense of the separate election, a substantial sum. It would necessitate legislation and the subject is not in the call for the special sessions. Whether the plan is practicable has not yet been determined, but in THE TRIBUNE'S opinion it should be dropped. THE TRIBUNE is as favorable to sound economies as the proponents of the plan, but this is not sound economy. The saving, we think, would come too high. Throwing the selection of six judges into the general election would complicate the problem of the voter unnecessarily and injuriously. Our system of judicial selection is now too much involved in politics and it is important to remove the selection of the judges now included in general elections to a special judicial election rather than to put six more back into the general hopper. Nothing, in fact, is more important than to disentangle the judiciary from the vicissitudes of party contest, and the plan proposed is a bad precedent and a step backward.

Editorial of the Day

LINCOLN FORGERIES.

[Rock Island Argus.]

Very deceptive Abraham Lincoln forgeries have appeared recently in New York, New England, and Chicago. Spurious documents were offered to dealers by a man who may be either the forger himself or a salesman.

Thus far the Lincoln forgeries appear to have been confined to legal documents, supposedly drawn up and signed by Lincoln in his own name or in that of one of his law firms. A feature of the documents is their length. One of the fake papers extended to some 700 words and contained three forged Lincoln signatures.

Thomas F. Madigan, authority on autographs and Lincolniana, was called in consultation, and when he examined the documents he pronounced them to be exceptionally clever forgeries. He said that one would almost think that Robert Spring, the notorious forger of Washington autographs about the time of the civil war, had come back to life and turned his attention to Lincoln. The present forger, this expert said, extracted sheets from old ledgers bearing watermarks prior to the dates of the documents he faked. There is nothing about the paper, therefore, to arouse suspicion, except that it is slightly heavier than that usually employed by Lincoln, and is not ruled. Lincoln generally used ruled paper.

There is no sign of oxidation of the ink in these forgeries, and the ink does not show through the paper as it frequently does in authentic old documents. The forger used ink with a slightly brownish tinge, but there is an evenness of color in the writings that is lacking in authentic Lincoln documents. In some spots the writing is an excellent imitation, but in others is poor. The signatures do not quite click, Mr. Madigan said, but some words and lines are very well done. Evidently the forger has studied the published works of Lincoln, for the faked documents are entirely plausible as to content.

About a year ago some inferior Lincoln forgeries appeared on the market, but were done so poorly that they were recognized at once as fakes. That forger confined himself to letters. The present forger is not the one of a year ago, as his fakes are much better. One of the mysteries in the present case is the forger's reason for risking long documents which give wide opportunity for study and comparison with authentic autograph manuscripts.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

WELL, THE ARMY'S flying the mail planes and doing a lot of chores around the CWA camps, like getting 'em up in the morning and tucking 'em in their blankets at night and telling 'em bedtime stories; but what are those marines doing? It's high time somebody in the brain trust hunted up some jobs for the marines. Give 'em brooms and put 'em to work sweeping back the Atlantic ocean to provide better and bigger camping grounds for auto tourists.

WE WOULD OPINE roughly that the w. k. Ramon Novarro was all wet. Or else he is spoofing us. For Ramon allows as follows, to-wit, namely, turn rule and quote: "Any Hollywood actor who gets married is a fool. With Hollywood home life as an example, the chances are 99 to 1 the marriage will be uphappy." Yes, but a movie crackup is sure to be smeared all over the front page. And that isn't going to make anybody out in Hollywood so very exceedingly unhappy.

TOMORROW is George Washington's birthday and I will go on record right now that while listening to the inspired utterances of preachers and other orators from the radio if that loud speaker thing lets out a yawp to the effect "And he scorned to tell a lie even about the cherry tree" I'm going to yank that radio right out by the roots and throw it in the alley.

THE LITTLE OLD MAN.

Has a stoop to his back;
His hair is snow-white,
His beard is coal-black.
He walks with a cane,
But his feet are steady.
(I know he'll not die Until he gets ready.)
The world holds but little
For which he should live;
He has nothing to take,
And nothing to give.
He passes my house
Each morning and night.
He comes with the dawn
And goes with the light.
I have often wondered
Where this old man goes,
As I watch him pass forth
Through the rain and the snows.
He may go to work—
Or to see an old friend—
But each step he takes Brings him nearer the end.
He goes past my house
Twice a day at seven,
Walking back and forth
On his way to heaven.

ROSA ZAGNONI MARINONI.

IF I WERE an army officer flying the mail and I had my orders to get that mail to a certain town at a certain time and a blizzard came around me and the air was full of snow and sleet and the night came on and I couldn't see my hand before my face and the compass went haywire I'll tell you what I'd do. I'd clinch my teeth and say: "I ought to land, but these postal cards and these advertising circulars and these monthly bills must get to where they're addressed, no matter what happens to me. My duty is my duty." And I'd step on the gas and go on! Yes, I would, lykell, lykell, lykell.

"BRITAIN FEARS ITALY Will Invade Austria."—Headline. But is Italy prepared? If she is prepared she may invade Austria. But if Austria is prepared then she may throw her out. Or not, as the case may be. But the question is, if both of two countries engaged in war against each other are prepared, then which one wins? This preparedness question is certainly something to worry about.

GOSH! I'M SORRY! But the newspaper code forbids child labor and—well, this here colyum of cataiepsy is part of a newspaper and so when a fond parent writes, "This lovely poem was dashed off by my little daughter, Felicia Dorothy Hemans Plupps, who is only six years old going on seven," well, you can see yourself—under the code the colyum would have to tell little Felicia Dorothy Hemans Plupps that we couldn't use her poem until she is of age. What a strain that would be on me!

AS IF IT MATTERED.

Though there's bloodshed in Vienna
And slaughter gores the night
There's still plenty of space in the public prints
When Lupe and Johnnie fight.

While millions wait with bated breath
On the fate of the CWA,
With another earth-shattering fray.

The air mail scandal stuns the world,
But it's merely a flash in the pan
To the breath-snatching item that Lupe
Says Johnnie's no longer her man.

Though the byways of Paris run crimson
And death stalks the Austrian hills,
A pulsating public awaits fresh news
Of Lupe and Johnnie's ills.

No matter what tragedy threatens the world—
Or how or why or when—
There's always room for the thrilling news
That Johnnie's moved out again!

It's a wonderful leaven 'mid all the woe—
For you still can think Life is a laugh,
For that Lupe and Johnnie chaff!

DISEASES OF SCHOOL CHILDREN.

THREE-FOURTHS of the children in the public schools have already had measles. This may not be true of the rural districts, but it is of the places large enough to have a school health service. Since, practically speaking, no one has a second attack of measles, only one child in four need have any special consideration where the disease breaks out in the neighborhood, and yet it happens from time to time that some school is disrupted by a measles epidemic.

There is something wrong with the system if a hazard that concerns only a minority of one in four can operate to deprive temporarily the majority, three in four, of their opportunities for schooling. This hazard can be somewhat guarded against by keeping in the school a contagious disease record which indicates the pupils susceptible to measles, and by having those protected by one of the methods of immunizing against measles.

About one-half the children in the schools have already had whooping cough and therefore can be exposed to that disease with safety. The other half are endangered occasionally by schoolroom exposure. The school can be protected somewhat against breakdowns due to epidemics of whooping cough by keeping a record of the disease of every pupil and by concentrating care on the susceptible when epidemics of whooping cough develop in the neighborhood. A school health service is of great help in protecting against epidemics of this disease. The vaccines for whooping cough are in the experimental stage.

Nearly one-half of the pupils are found to have had chickenpox. Epidemics of this disease are important because smallpox sometimes gets a foothold by being mistaken for chickenpox. Occasionally genuine chickenpox is a severe disease. The methods of protection are good.

Mumps is a disease of adolescents. Less than one-third of the pupils in the grades have had it. To the schools of that level mumps is not very important. It is more of a menace to boarding schools; while in recruiting camps for armies it is one of the outstanding menaces.

Scarlet fever is far less prevalent. Only about one-eighth of the children have had it when they come into the schoolroom. Even at that epidemics of scarlet fever rarely break up schools. A health service is a guarantee against that.

In the old days about one-tenth of the pupils had had diphtheria when they entered school. Now that immunization against this disease is becoming general the school authorities do not think of it as a menace. When immunization of young children passes the half and half level the schools can afford to dismiss diphtheria from their list of sources of apprehension.

GIVE HIM COMPANY.

K. L. writes: My boy of 6 rebels against breads, cereals, potatoes, and even cakes, or anything that is fattening. He eats plenty of other vegetables and orange juice. What would you advise me to do about him?

REPLY.

Have him eat with other children. They will be eating breads, cereals, and other carbohydrate foods and he will do likewise. The probable reason for his attitude is that he is being overurged. If you ordered him not to eat breads, cereals, etc., he would rob the pantry to get them. If other methods fail, give him potatoes, lima beans, corn, and ice cream. These are rich in carbohydrates, but the boy has not studied chemistry. Carbohydrates are good foods and cheaper than any other.

GARNISHMENT.

Chicago, Feb. 13.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My salary was recently garnisheed on account of an old lease of an apartment, which lease I thought was mutually broken. I was not haled into court, there was no civil suit filed, and as far as I know nobody has secured a judgment against me. The man who presented the notice said he was a bailiff and [1] that it was not necessary to secure a judgment against me, since my lease contained a judgment clause. 2. The garnishee was not signed by a judge and did not look official, merely having been signed by an attorney. 3. Do you think this garnishment was legal? 4. Can they garnishee on a lease without going to court to secure judgment? In taking money out of my salary to pay this garnishee my firm did not allow me the usual $20 per week to a married man, but merely deducted an arbitrary figure. 5. What recourse have I? B. B. S.

1. It seems probable that what he said was that it was not necessary to serve a summons on you. The judgment clause in the lease authorizes the entering of a judgment without serving a summons. We suggest that you examine the wording.

2. We assume that it was the usual statutory demand notice; this need not be signed by a judge.

3. It probably was.

4. No, but they probably have secured a judgment. We suggest that you examine the records in the office of the clerk of the Municipal court.

5. You can demand your exemption from your employer. We could advise to better advantage if you had supplied us with a copy of the instrument that was served on you. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

PURCHASE CONTRACT.

Maywood, Ill., Feb. 14.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Five years ago I purchased a coat. I was employed at the time and also living with my husband. Shortly after that my husband and I separated, (1) he agreeing to pay all the bills, including that for my coat. I secured a divorce and the custody of two children. Now after all this time the company from whom I purchased the coat, finding that I have been employed, (2) garnisheed my wages for the balance due. I made an agreement with them, but find now they have an extra ten dollars to my account. 3. While my book calls for a balance of $23, they want around $33. 4. I haven't even been summoned to court on any other proceedings. 5. Can they force me to pay that? G. Z.

1. Your creditors would not be bound by such an agreement unless the amounts actually due to them were paid.

2. Garnishment is not authorized unless the creditor has first secured judgment against his debtor. Your letter does not make clear whether the legal proceedings have been taken or whether the creditor has merely served an unauthorized notice.

3. If they have a judgment it may be too late for you to contest it. We cannot advise on this without knowing the facts. If they do not have a judgment then clearly you should not be required to pay more than the amount shown by your book.

4. The contract may have been so worded as to authorize a judgment by confession. If so and you wish to contest the amount you should make a court motion promptly.

5. See preceding answers.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY HUGH CURRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN.—The Irish Free State plans this year to mill 2,750,000 sacks of its total flour consumption of 2,900,000 sacks, according to calculations of the department of agriculture. Flour imports in the past year have dropped enormously.

In view of the fact that American wheat is providing a likely Irish import of the future to offset exports of Irish whisky to America, it is interesting to note that the total production of Irish wheat last year supplied the demand for no more than four weeks. Even if the yield is increased, as anticipated, to provide ten weeks' supply, imports must still account for 80 per cent of the total consumption.

Last year four weeks' wheat cost the taxpayers $250,000 by way of subsidy, and when it is realized that the finest quality imported wheat sells in Ireland at almost $1 per barrel cheaper than the home product, it is a nice question whether home production is an economic proposition at all.

The latest proposal of the government, intended to encourage home production, is that 5 per cent oat flour should be added to wheat flour in the manufacture of bread so that the home oat crop might also be made use of profitably. It is possible that in April the government will enforce this proposal and that the "dark brown loaf," which engaged the attention of the Free State Master Bakers' convention in Dublin recently, will be compulsorily manufactured.

The use of oat flour in bread manufacture is likely to lead to an increase of Irish bread prices, according to master bakers. A barrel of oats, valued at $2.60, yields only about 70 pounds of oat flour—"a totally excessive price," to the minds of the master bakers. Lack of gluten in the oats demands more yeast in the making and the bread bakes more slowly and consequently more expensively. A rise of 2 cents in the price of the standard 4 pound loaf, now selling for 17 cents, is anticipated if the government proposal is enforced.

While the master bakers were disapproving the new loaf, the government prices commission was holding a public sitting at which evidence of bread prices in southern Ireland, and principally Cork, was being given.

The chief executive of one large Cork bakery caused a flutter when he testified that his firm sold five "fancy" loaves to every one "plain" loaf—"plain" bread being legally a mixture of flour, yeast, salt and water, and "fancy" bread being defined as containing eggs, butter, malt extract, fruit, etc.

"People in Cork," said the executive, "will not eat solid bread. The people of Dublin are the opposite. They want solid bread. The result is that more water proportionate to the flour is used in Dublin, which reduces the output per sack as compared with Cork."

Or, in other words, the Cork citizens must have their one plain loaf in every six fluffily made!

In view of the position of the trade in recent years, a further rise in bread prices would probably be disastrous for the bakers. The consumption of bread has fallen rapidly, an all around drop of fully 10 per cent being apparent in the past few years. Bakers attribute the drop to the increasing consumption of potatoes among the farming community; the falling cost of meat; the spread of home baking, and the growing consumption of candy.

And so another governmental expedient, which looked fine and dandy at first, is liable to turn boomerang and bounce back with depressing results.

STREAMLINED TRANSPORTATION.

Chicago, Feb. 16.—All the recent pother about the Union Pacific's streamlined, motor driven train must give a few interested observers a severe pain in the neck. The new train is held up as a brilliant engineering achievement, something inconceivable before 1933. It is said to be the flowering of much agonized research, incredible inventiveness, and startling progressiveness on the part of the railroads. Such awful piffle!

The fact of the matter is that gas powered railroad equipment is overdue by from 20 to 30 years. Had railroad management at any time in the past 20 years had an ounce of vision or initiative it would have recognized the deficiencies of its antiquated equipment and methods and set about correcting them.

The advent of the gas engine meant nothing to so-called railroad leaders and executives. They watched the automobile, bus and truck industry grow from infancy to strip them finally of most of their passenger and a large part of their freight traffic without making one constructive effort to save themselves. It never occurred to them to fight fire with fire. All they could do was to pour out a stream of hostile propaganda and bellyache in every state legislature in the land.

No more can the large manufacturers of automobiles, trucks and buses—the leaders—claim credit for the "impending revolution" in railway transport. They have been in almost as deep a rut as the railroads. Apparently they no more than the railroads could conceive of adapting their buses and trucks to rail use, with the tremendous gains such adaptation would insure to a long suffering public. It was the smaller manufacturers who carried out the first experiments in conjunction with one or two of the tire companies. The large companies had the huge research laboratories, the smaller ones the vision and imagination.

But even now the single track railroad mind is incapable of visualizing its opportunities. If M-10000 is successful, the "executives" say, they will proceed at once to order more and larger trains. Larger! Get that.

For 75 years they have been running their "large" trains—running them at whatever infrequent intervals suited them—and the public be damned! If the public wanted to ride on their trains, they said in effect, the public could "catch" them before they left. "Catching" trains is literally and precisely what the public has been doing for the past 75 to 100 years. Could any one but a railroad man wonder why 90 per cent of the traveling public prefers to get around the country by automobile?

How many more long weary years before the railroads begin to consider the public and give transportation service worthy the name—small units run often? How long before they realize that traveling folk want to leave when they are ready, not when the railroad is ready? How long before they realize that frequency of service [at low cost] is what the public wants and demands above all else? How long before they realize that adoption of low fare, high speed, gas powered, one man rail buses and rail trucks, leaving periodically at short intervals, would immediately bring them more traffic than they ever had in their lives? How long before they understand that the public is fed up with "catching" their cumbersome outmoded "trains" and that they must now proceed to catch the public?

How long, O Lord, how long?

READER FOR YEARS.

THE BURNED BARN.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—I read with interest the recent article about President Roosevelt's "depreciation deduction" on his old barn. The engaging frankness with which the President, apparently, referred to his use of this so-called loophole in the income tax law should go far to remove some of the odium unjustly attached to certain more opulent users of loopholes as disclosed in recent investigations in New York. The moral, of course, in all such cases is that the law which allows a loophole, and not the individual who uses it, is subject to criticism. Ordinarily, the more an asset is written off by depreciation the more taxable gain is realized when it is turned into cash, whether by collecting insurance or otherwise, and it is not clear from the article that the President really saved any taxes.

The arresting feature in all this is the President's genial assumption that when the law gives him a loophole he is justified in using it, though the law may be wrong, in spite of recent criticism of bankers, from which the public could hardly fail to draw the inference that when the law gives a banker a loophole he should refuse to take advantage of it.

BIAS.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—I regret, as do many of my friends, your apparent change of policy. It seems to me that the Voice of the People should now be changed to the Voice of the Editor. During the last few weeks we have turned to your section of the paper in the hopes that we might be able to learn of the reactions of people who do not happen to be connected with your staff. Instead of brief letters on controversial subjects of the day we find long letters dealing with insignificant problems.

We can forgive THE TRIBUNE for giving letters insinuating titles when they are printed in order that the newspaper may thus indicate its disapproval and also give us the impression that the writer is demented or has an "ax to grind." However, we cannot forgive any powerful molder of public opinion such as THE TRIBUNE for calling a department the Voice of the People and at the same time making it the Voice of the Editor. THE PRICE OF WHISKY.

Chicago, Feb. 13.—Who is getting the extra $5 that represents the difference in price between the preprohibition selling price of the best whiskies and the present charges? In the old days every one charged that the whisky ring was getting rich. If the whisky rings were then making good profits, what of the present rings that set the prices so high that the retailers must ask $6 per quart for the quality that used to sell at $1?

Why not import, without imposition of tariff, from those nations which have been making full payment on war debts or which do not so owe us anything, enough wines and liquors to break the backbone of this seemingly powerful trust and let the people have these goods at reasonable prices? A. L. B.

DEFENSE READS 100 LOVE NOTES OF DR. KENNEDY

Ruth Dean Casts Him as Ardent Suitor.

Greenwood, Miss, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Dr. John Preston Kennedy, 41 year old surgeon, whose strange death last summer led to a poison murder charge against Dr. Sarah Ruth Dean, 33 year old baby specialist, was depicted today before the jury trying Dr. Dean as the writer of ardent love letters.

More than a hundred warm and affectionate notes the surgeon wrote to Dr. Dean over a three year period prior to his ten day fatal illness in August, 1933, were read to the jury as the woman physician's attorneys opened the defense case. Repeated declarations of love ran through the missives.

Argument Over Pursuer.

The letters were put into the record fast on the heels of the testimony of Mrs. Bessie Barry Kennedy, Kennedy's divorced wife and the state's last witness, who represented her ex-husband as having been a rather reluctant participant in an affair with Dr. Dean which Mrs. Kennedy said broke up her marriage.

The divorced wife testified that she and her estranged mate were getting ready to be re-married when he died under strange circumstances. But in cross examining her and in the introduction of today's letters, the defense indicated it would attempt to show Kennedy had made plans to marry Dr. Dean.

Worry Over Public Opinion

One of his letters to Dr. Dean, early in 1932, informed her that he and his wife had agreed on a separation and added: "The matter has been settled here. All that remains is when and how.

"I am wondering if the reaction of the public would be for me or against me or whether it would make any difference at all."

Frequent titters were heard among the spectators when the surgeon's love letters turned to a discussion of the symptoms of some well-known local resident, who happened to be a patient at the time.

SIDNEY FOX FILES DIVORCE ACTION AGAINST BEAHAN

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 20.—(AP)—Sidney Fox, the diminutive, brown tressed, hazel eyed actress whose motion picture, "Six Cylinder Love," was a big success, said today her real life romance was a wreck.

Extensive cruelty, she charged, resulted in several separations since their wedding Dec. 14, 1932, at Harrison, N. Y. That was just a year after she entered pictures, and she had just celebrated her 22d birthday.

"We tried to make up, but found it was no good," she said.

AWARDED $5,000 FOR INJURIES IN PARACHUTE LEAP

Jack Cope, 36 years old, veteran parachute jumper, was awarded a $5,000 verdict yesterday against Air Associates, Inc., by a jury in the court of Superior Judge Frank H. Hayes. In a $25,000 damage suit Cope charged that on July 25, 1931, he rented a parachute from the company to make a jump at the American Legion meet at Curtiss-Wright field in Glenview. He jumped from a ship at 2,700 feet, but the chute failed to open properly, he charged, and his left leg was broken in twelve places by the fall. He alleged that the chute was improperly packed.

HELD FOR ARSON AFTER CUT RATE MILK DEPOT FIRE

Edward J. Oenning, 35 years old, an assistant foreman employed by the Bowman Dairy company, was arrested and charged with arson yesterday following an early morning fire in a cut rate milk depot sponsored by the Meadowmoor Dairies, Inc., at 3300 Southport avenue. Late last night Edward Fitzgerald, 2867 Lincoln avenue, a driver for the Bowman company, was arrested and held for questioning in connection with the fire. He denied any knowledge of it.

Several families living in the two story building were driven to the streets by the flames, which caused $3,000 damage. Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Tobin, 3258 Southport avenue, awakened by the sound of breaking glass, ran to the street and noted the license number of the automobile in which three men fled from the store building.

Police said they traced the automobile to Oenning's home at 4931 North Oakley avenue and arrested the dairy employé. Despite Oenning's protests that the car had not been used during the night, police said the motor was warm and that the back seat was saturated with gasoline. Fire Attorney Thomas J. Sheehan said that Oenning's hair was singed.

William Koss, 3224 Southport avenue, identified Oenning as the man who ran from the building and drove away with two other men as the flames swept the basement following a muffled explosion. A bucket of gasoline had been tossed into the basement of the store building and ignited.

Mother of William Taber, Union Official, Ends Life

Mrs. Lena Taber, 78 years old, mother of William Taber, financial secretary of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employés, died early today at her home, 1134 Chicago avenue, Oak Park, of poison. She swallowed the potion yesterday after writing a note, which stated: "It is too lonely a life without grandpa. Forgive me, sweet boy, Will and all."

Owner of Fur Store Held on Stolen Goods Charge

Abraham Rubin, owner of a fur store at 1324 Milwaukee avenue in which was found some of the robbery loot taken from a fur store at 3234 West Roosevelt road, was held to the grand jury yesterday in bond of $2,500 on a charge of receiving stolen property.

AUSTIN AVENUE ROUTE FAVORED FOR "L" HIGHWAY

BY HAL FOUST.

A west side elevated highway proposal was approved by the executive committee of the Chicago Plan commission yesterday for submission to Gov. Horner. The action was taken at a luncheon with James Simpson, president of the commission, sitting as chairman.

The high speed thoroughfare would be located in Austin avenue and Illinois street from the outer drive to Sacramento boulevard. The cost of construction for this four and a half miles was estimated at $9,065,210. Property damage would be small because all of the right of way is now public property or air rights over railroad yards and most of the mileage is adjacent to the Chicago and North Western railroad embankment through an area of low building values.

How to Pay for It.

It was suggested that the improvement be financed solely by gasoline tax revenues without the aid of property assessments, special or general. Chicago traffic pays approximately $15,000,000 a year on the 3 cent state levy on motor fuel. The total cost would probably be distributed over three years, making the annual construction outlay a little over $3,000,000.

The improvement is a unit of a system of elevated highways indorsed by the west side committee of the Chicago Plan commission three years ago. Other units would be located farther south, one carrying Roosevelt road as a superhighway to the lake.

This will be a second or alternate plan to be studied by the state highway department. Detailed specifications have been prepared by State Highway Engineer Lieberman for an elevated structure in Randolph street from Canal street to just west of Union park.

Randolph Street Plan.

The Randolph street structure is proposed in a survey directed by Dr. Miller McClintock of Harvard university for the city council traffic committee, headed by Ald. John Massen [49th]. The plan comission and the McClintock-Massen study, while differing in routes recommended, agree that pavements with continuous grade separation are essential to any material relief from the motor accident toll and from the economic losses of vehicle delays.

The plan, as reported to the executive committee by Eugene S. Taylor, manager of the commission, calls for a sixty-foot roadway, giving four lanes for express travel and two for ramps, emergency stops and any slow vehicles. The viaduct in Austin avenue would adjoin the North Western railroad embankment east from Ogden avenue. West of Ogden avenue the thoroughfare would front on private property to Campbell avenue, thence west over railroad yards to Sacramento boulevard.

Plan for East End.

On the eastern end Canal street would serve as a traffic feeder into the west side of the loop and Illinois street would serve as a feeder into the north side of the loop. One branch of the thoroughfare would turn south in Canal street on a decline, reaching ground level at Lake street. Another would continue east to connect with a new bridge over the north branch of the Chicago river.

East of the river the super-highway would return to ground level at Orleans street and remain at grade to State street, where it would rise to meet the upper levels of Wabash and Michigan avenues, giving flexibility to traffic entering and leaving the express route. It would continue east of Michigan avenue to the outer drive as a double decked street.

Members of the executive committee in addition to Mr. Simpson who attended the meeting were Daniel H. Burnham, John A. Carroll, Ald. John S. Clark [30th], Ald. Dorsey Crowe [42d], John V. Farwell, John A. Holabird, Nathan William McChesney, Joseph R. Noel, William Nelson Pelouse, Daniel J. Schuyler, John Wentworth, Harry A. Wheeler, and Michael Zimmer.

DESIGN FOR PROPOSED NEW ELEVATED HIGHWAY

ORDERS LAWYERS TO CLOSE INSULL QUIZ BY MARCH 3

Judge Gives Ettelson a Day's Delay.

BY WALTER FITZMAURICE.

Evidence and arguments in the Insull "town meeting" in progress during the last two weeks before Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley must be wound up by March 3.

Judge Lindley set that limitation yesterday after granting Attorney Samuel A. Ettleson a one day adjournment to permit him to appear before the Illinois Supreme court at Springfield today in another case arising out of the Insull collapse. The judge explained his order by saying he would have to be in his home district at Danville, Ill., on March 5 to hear regular jury cases.

Attorney Ettleson's request for a short adjournment was granted over the united opposition of opposing counsel, after Ettelson explained that he represented the estate of the late Edward F. Swift in a case involving $37,308,646. Sam Howard, trustee for the bankrupt Corporation Securities company, an Insull concern, is suing the estate for that amount, Mr. Swift having been a director of the company.

Ettelson explained that, although the Probate and Circuit courts of Cook county had sustained his motion to dismiss the Swift suit, Trustee Howard had taken an appeal and that therefore his presence in Springfield was required. Some 20 other lawyers in the Insull hearing demurred.

"I think this case has been protracted long enough," declared Attorney Frederic Burnham, of counsel for the Continental Illinois National bank. "This hearing should go through now to a conclusion."

"Mr. Ettelson has assured me he must appear in a case of great importance at Springfield," the judge observed. "I have no way of asking the Supreme court to postpone the hearing of that case. Reluctant as I feel to protract this hearing, I am not inclinded to deny his request for a postponement."

With a request for coöperation from all parties to expedite the hearing, the judge then announced it would resume tomorrow and must be concluded by Saturday, March 3, to permit him to return to Danville.

At the outset of yesterday's session Attorney Ettelson, who is petitioning for the voiding of the Middle West Utilities receivership on the ground of collusive action, asked to have stricken from his petition his demand that the estate of the late Middle West co-receiver, Edward N. Hurley, be compelled to reimburse Middle West for fees Mr. Hurley had collected.

"I don't want to be talking about the dead in this," explained Attorney Ettelson.

Sanitary District Pays Employes Up to Feb. 1

The 1,100 sanitary district employes yesterday received pay checks totaling $122,000 for the last two weeks of January. The cash was arranged through the sale of $65,000 in 1932 tax anticipation warrants and delinquent tax collections. Ross A. Woodhull, chairman of the finance committee, declared the district would have another pay day this week, bringing salaries up to date. Employes of the west parks were paid yesterday for last October. The payments, totaling $113,000, was made with 1932 tax anticipation warrants and $15,000 in cash.

Mentholatum brings soothing COMFORT

When your child has a bad cold nothing must be allowed to rob him of the one thing he needs more than ever — plenty of sleep. If a stopped-up nose makes it hard for him to breathe, put a little cooling, soothing Mentholatum in each nostril. Mentholatum contains several beneficial ingredients which help to clear the nasal passages, thus permitting easier breathing.

Why not teach him to use Mentholatum by himself? It is perfectly harmless to the delicate tissues, and will not stain.

Tea Will Open Szukalska Art Exhibit Today

Two Self-Portraits Included in Painting Show.

BY JUDITH CASS.

WHEN any one who by birth and tradition belongs to that group designated for want of a better name as society steps out of its rather narrow confines and makes a name for herself in the world of art it is worthy of notice, for in some ways it is harder for a "society person"—how we hate that term—to make a success in an artistic way than one who doesn't have to break so many shackles to achieve independence and freedom.

Helen Szukalska is one who has done it, however, and so it is with very great interest that socialites will thorng the Breckenridge galleries this afternoon from 4 to 6 for the tea that will mark the opening of an exhibition of her work. Born a Walker—one of Chicago's oldest and most distinguished families—she always was interested in art, and it was through that interest that she met Stanislaw Szukalski, the brilliant young Polish sculptor, to whom she was married in June, 1922.

During her life with him she lived entirely in an artistic atmosphere, both in this country and in Poland, and when an exhibition of her water colors and drawings was held at the Arts club in February, 1928, the critics remarked upon how much her work had grown in beauty and strength.

Last winter Mrs. Szukalska came back to Chicago to live, bringing with her her little daughter, Kalinka, and since then she has resumed the ties of friendship broken somewhat by her long absence from Chicago and made many new friends, and all who know her are enthusiastic about her and her work. She was divorced from Szukalski last October and she and Kalinka are living on Lincoln Park West.

Two Self Portraits Included In Show

In the exhibition opening today in the Breckenridge gallery at 912 North Michigan avenue are two self-portraits of the young artist and two of her daughter. Miss Peggy Hambleton will be represented by a portrait entitled "Peggy H." and by another, painted some years ago, called "Lylith." Mrs. Milton McCoy, Mrs. Szukalska's cousin, and the former Carolyn Walker, will be at the tea today in picture form only, for she lives in Middleburg, Va., but "Connie H." and "Virginia S." will be there in pictures and also in the persons of Mrs. John Simpson and Mrs. John E. Shaw.

Portraits of Miss Eleanor Holden, Clay Judson, and his young sister-in-law, Miss Theodore Shaw, and Dr. Bojanowski, the Polish orchestra conductor, also are included. The "Portrait of Lucy," which will be there, isn't one of Mrs. Howard Linn, as we thought it might be when we saw the catalog, but one of a dog.

Miss Marouchka Anisfeld and Mrs. Byron S. Harvey will preside at the tea table this afternoon.

New Officers Will Be Hosts at Tavern.

William C. Boyden and Walter Frazier, the new president and entertainment chairman of the Tavern, will be the official hosts at a cocktail party to be given at 5 o'clock at the club for the members of the Monte Carlo Ballet Russe.

The Potter Palmers, Dr. and Mrs. Edwin W. Ryerson, Mrs. Dewes Burgeweger, Mrs. Newton Hudson, Mrs. George Rasmussen, Mrs. William K. Kenly, and the Edwin A. Seipps are some of those who will be entertaining guests at the ballet performance tonight. The Palmers are among those who took tickets for every performance of the ballet in Chicago.

A six piece orchestra will be pounding out modern melody under the low roof of the Saddle and Cycle club this evening, for the club is celebrating Washington's birthday with one of its popular dinner dances. Mrs. William H. Bush, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Stuart

Ballet Reaches Rightful Place in This Work

BY EDWARD MOORE.

"Le Tricorne" ["The Three Cornered Hat"] registered last night as the high spot of the Monte Carlo Ballet Russe's all too brief engagement at the Auditorium. It was the sort of performance that put ballet on the same plane with its sister arts of opera and symphony, ballet grown up into what its admirers dream that it ought to be.

Not that there is much story to it, nor that what there is has the slightest thing to do with its title. Its legend is a comic story of another century, an ancient Spanish governor trying to make love to a miller's wife and getting pushed into the river and otherwise greatly put upon by both the miller and the miller's wife.

But Manuel de Falla, who set it to music, wrote half an hour of about the most exciting music that ever went to ballet, and the dancing and action were quite as exciting as the music. It was a continuous, breathless whirlwind, with a few extra whirls by Leonide Massine as the miller and Tamara Toumanova as his wife, and a special flurry of a jota at the end danced by everybody.

Luckily for the Chicago public it is announced for a repetition tomorrow night, the last performance of this engagement. Incidentally this music is genuinely Spanish, composed by a Spaniard and coming straight out of the heart of the country.

It was preceded by Schumann's "Carnaval," the first time that it has been seen here since the Diaghileff company visited Chicago. Here was gay fantasy, the stage peopled by Pierrot, Columbine, Harlequin, and the rest of the carnival characters whose light hearted revelry renewed the impression given by the Diaghileffs that pianists would do well to banish the piece from their repertoires and leave it to ballet. The "Prince Igor" dances concluded the program.

Verdi's magnificent and dramatic "Requiem" was presented by the Apollo Musical club at Orchestra hall last night under the direction of Edgar Nelson. It was a performance in which the organization may well take pride. The chorus was in the best form that has been its lot in years past, and it was supported by four soloists who as individual singers and by balance of voices were the finest for about an equal period. They were Margery Maxwell, soprano; Lilian Knowles, contralto; William Millerm, tenor, and Mark Love, bass.

Spirit as well as fine tone and correctness marked the performance. The club is to be congratulated on its pianissimos no less than its exultant outbursts of song. It all resulted in a stimulating rendition.

The well trained Chicago Daughters' chorus appeared in several groups of songs at Kimball hall last night, Jacques Homier being their director. This is an organization that would seem to have gone into singing for the love of it, and their state of mind showed plainly in their performance. They were assisted by two good soloists, May Barron, contralto, and Winifred Goodman, soprano, also by a quartet from their own numbers who have taken the name of the Cecelian singers.

Ruth St. Denis, the dancer, who was announced to appear tonight at the Country club in Evanston, has been obliged to cancel her appearance. Hope is expressed by the Players' guild, under whose auspices the engagement was made, that she will appear later in the season.

Good Morning!

You'll never learn about newspapers from motion pictures—unless those films be news reels. Of THIS I'm now practically dead certain.

The sort of interoffice stuff handed out in "Ladies in Trouble" might occur among the workers on a high school sheet, but among adult newspaper men and women—NIX! So—just pretend they're kidding you—which, maybe, WAS the idea—and let yourselves enjoy the good, solid meat under the spotty rind.

When the story opens Brad (Muni) is managing editor of a big metropolitan daily. Because he doesn't play up a certain big story as the publisher thinks it should have been played up he's relegated to editing the "Lovelorn" column. (Yes, I ask you, ISN'T that asinine?) Why doesn't he quit? Don't think he doesn't want to! BUT—you see, there's a contract binding him to the paper for a specified time and containing a clause which prevents him from hiring out to any other publication during that period. The young woman whose place he takes—is just too glad for anything. Because Gerry, once a reporter, had been given the column as discipline—by her great, big, hard boiled managing editor, Brad! (Ha! You should see whom it falls to in the finale. . . .)

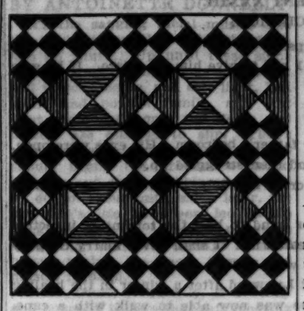
Well, Brad's pretty mad, but upon being told by Gerry that he can give it but can't take it he proceeds to take it. . . . While taking he finds a clew that clears up a mystery—AND justifies him for his stand in not stressing—in the story which had been the bone of contention—the apparent connection between the disappearance of a certain banker and a certain bank robbery.

Even the absurd scenes are rendered almost believable by the absolute naturalness of the star. Never was there a player with a more gripping personality or a surer "feel" for doing the right thing at the right time. Saturday's audience loved Muni.

Glenda Farrell contributes the sort of snappy, beguiling performance we've learned to expect from her, and Ned Sparks, playing the hero's side kick, characteristically and comically smooth, owl eyed and unsmiling. Other rôles are neatly turned out. The film has a lot of suspense.

See you tomorrow!

Novel Quilt Block Owes Inspiration to Railroad Event



RAILROAD CROSSING.
BY NANCY CABOT.

In 1830, shortly after the Baltimore and Ohio opened its first fourteen miles of track for commercial purposes, this pieced quilt sprang into existence. It had for its foundation, however, a general basis of two older patterns, "Jacob's Ladder" and "Stepping Stones."

For a quilt pattern in this design send 5 cents in coin or stamps to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Chicago Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn, and Tribune Tower.

WEDDINGS

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Hoff of 5641 Woodlawn avenue announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Hazel, to Samuel MacClintock, to take place tomorrow evening in the chapel of the University church, the Rev. Edward Scribner Ames officiating. Mr. and Mrs. MacClintock will make their home at 5801 Dorchester avenue.

Earl Orville Doak of 6109 Kimbark avenue announces the marriage of his daughter, Jessie Earla, to Wilfrid Curtis Howe, son of Frederick P. Howe of 5724 Harper avenue, which took place on Jan. 25, the Rev. William H. Beales of Detroit officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Brown of 1649 North Richmond street announce the marriage of their daughter, Eva Henrietta, to Dr. Hans Suter of Cumerabo, Venezuela, formerly of Switzerland, which took place on Feb. 17 in the Trinity Evangelical Lutheran church. Dr. Suter and his bride have gone to Europe on a three months' honeymoon and will make their home in Cumerabo.

Kitty O'Dare Puts $19,000 Into Circulation.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—Kitty O'Dare is latest addition to the outpouring of wealthy young women from the forty-eight states who are trying to crash Hollywood, but in Kitty's case she has been spending more money than the rest of them. Her real name is Catherine Flynn. This lively young woman who spent so much money here in the last two weeks that her mother, stepfather, and sister hurried here from New York yesterday, progressed to the stage in her film ambitions where she obtained a test as a dancer at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio.

"I'm dead set on a career in motion pictures," says the young woman whose family say she inherited a fortune from her uncle, Daniel Myles Flynn of Jacksonville, Fla., on her twenty-first birthday last September and whose family seem displeased with Kitty's choice of occupations.

"I thought I could get into movies by taking a job as a dancing girl in a Hollywood café," Kitty says. "But my family found out and made me quit. But I can dance and I can sing. At least I did well enough to dance in some big shows in the east and I have made an agreement with my family to take six months and try to succeed in the films. If I don't I'll have to settle down to an uninteresting life I guess."

Kitty spent $19,000 in the last two weeks, part of it on an Italian automobile, some in chartering a plane for a trip to Agua Caliente and some for champagne after arriving there. "I don't know exactly what I spent it for," she confesses. "All I have left to show is a $150 dress."

Her mother is Mrs. George F. Miller of New York. Her sister is Mrs. Frederick W. Gillette of New York, and the money she is having so much fun with was accumulated in lumber in the state of Washington and turpentine and lumber products in Florida.

Peggy Wood in Hollywood for New Will Rogers Film

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 20.—(AP)—After breaking an engagement for the London stage and traveling 6,000 miles, Peggy Wood, musical comedy star, arrived in Hollywood today to play opposite Will Rogers in his next picture only to learn the actor just had left for New York.

Miss Wood's wrath was appeased, however, when informed Rogers will fly back here in time to start the picture March 1. The production will be Miss Wood's first screen appearance.

Way to Beautiful Hands

That's why we're rather weak for the long mits. The fingers have sufficient freedom to keep the wearing of them from irritating, and they come in two good lengths, one just to the elbow, the other reaching above it.

With these you can use one of two creams or both, one a rich lubricant to keep the skin soft and smooth, the other with a bleaching quality to keep it white as well.

The cream or creams should be worked in thoroughly the last thing at night, then the mits pulled on and your hands and arms forgotten until the next morning, when they'll emerge from the eight or ten hour cream soaking looking as beautiful as you could wish.

The mits, made of a material rather like fine pink jersey and lined with silk, launder well, although frequent laundering is not necessary; they don't get really dirty on the inside—just cream soaked, and the more cream the merrier. It's the tried and true route to hand beauty.

Broadway Audience Cheers Stein's Meaningless Opera

New York, Feb. 20.—(AP)—A fashionable Broadway audience laughed uproariously tonight at Gertrude Stein's "incomprehensible" opera, "Four Saints in Three Acts," and then stood in the aisles to cheer long after the final curtain. An all-Negro cast, clad in vivid red and purple robes, sang with utmost sincerity the lines of the opera, most of which appeared meaningless. Two characters in the rôle of the old Greek chorus essayed to interpret the action, but, if anything, made it more confusing.

Suburban Collectors Open Stamp Show Tomorrow

The annual stamp exhibition by the Suburban Collector's club will open at the Riverside public library tomorrow. The exhibition will continue through Sunday. Philatelists will find an unusually comprehensive display of rare stamps in this year's collection, club officials promised yesterday. Admission to the exhibition is free, the rooms being open from noon until 10 p. m.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

One way to give hands, arms and elbows a night long beauty treatment in perfect comfort is to own and use a pair of nice pink mits designed for just that purpose by one of our beauty establishments.

We all know how important to hand beauty an all night soaking in cream is but we all know, too, that it's a bit difficult to give. Protecting the linen from the cream laden hands isn't easy without wearing gloves of some kind. Gloves are uncomfortable unless they're loose and the loose, garden variety doesn't come long enough to cover the elbow, that little patch midway between wrist and shoulder that's more trouble than it's worth as a joint, if you should ask us. It takes ceaseless effort to keep that skin soft and clean and bleached.

THE nicest story on behaviorism we've heard in some time is the one Edwin H. Clark, architect for the new Chicago zoological gardens at Brookfield, tells about a young chimpanzee and a behaviorism test made recently in the zoology department at the University of Chicago. The incident was related with some humor by a professor in the department.

Behaviorism—

It seems that the professor put the chimpanzee in a room in which a variety of toys had been placed. The idea was to keep the animal shut up for two hours and at the expiration of that time to open the door and see what the chimpanzee had done with the toys. However, the professor was so eager to see how the animal was behaving that instead of waiting for two hours he peeked through the keyhole after an hour. He found the chimpanzee at the keyhole, too—looking out.

MAYBE you won't care, but if you look up anybody named Wright in the telephone directory, you will find that the key name in the upper left hand corner of the page is Wrongski. A friend who wanted to call the Quincy Wrights discovered this, and added that he knew wrong from Wright in any language.

ONE of the pictures in the one man art show Karel Sula gave last Saturday at the Medinah club lounge was a sensational nude entitled "Rita." The girl has shining black hair, parted in the center and worn down over her ears, and somebody confided that Sula had a difficult time posing her. One morning while he was still making sketches and trying to find the right one, she came out of the dressing room after stripping for the model stand, paused, put one hand on her hip, and inquired anxiously:

"Do my ears show?"

The artist called to her to hold the pose and painted her thus. He declined to accept the suggestion of the friend to whom he told the story that he name the picture "Do My Ears Show?"

THERE must be many things that are confusing to children. One of the things that makes us think so is the following story about a little boy whose mother had made a cake and, Washington's birthday being imminent, decorated it with an extra flourish or two for the occasion. Johnny saw the cake and asked whose birthday it was.

"George Washington's," she answered.

After that Johnny was pretty quiet for a while, but spent a lot of time at the window as if he were watching for some one. After a while he said impatiently:

"Well, I wish he'd come."

"Who?" asked his mother in surprise.

SYNOPSIS.

Barbara Brawne, aged 22, is completely dominated by an adoring, though jealous father, who is against every modern idea and improvement. Lynwood, their home, is in the prim and proper village of Oxbridge, a place of intellectual sanctity. Barbara seems predestined to join the ranks of the village spinsters. Her father scares away any would-be suitors. She contemplates rebellion. Gregory Rance, popular novelist, is visiting her cousin, Laurie Chiswick. They are mutually attracted. Barbara overhears Rance asking Laurie about her. He says she is the sort of girl he'd want to marry. Barbara proposes to Rance. But Rance is divorced and her father hates divorce and uses this as an excuse to oppose their marriage. When Barbara determines to marry Rance regardless, her father has a stroke. Barbara fears he'll kill himself deliberately.

INSTALLMENT XXXIII.

RENUNCIATION.

The nurse put her finger to her lips.

"Terribly excited, Miss Barbara. I had to give him an opiate. If he gets worse call me."

Barbara shook her head.

"He won't get worse."

She waited and then went into her father's bedroom. His eyes were open. At the sight of her he shrank back and then struggled up.

"You! Why do you come?" he cried hoarsely. "Aren't you satisfied? Are you——"

"Listen, father." She put out her hand to halt the torrent of invective that was rising to his lips. "You've beaten me. I shall never marry Gregory without your consent. I give you my word."

A year passed. They were back at Lynwood after a winter in the healing sunshine of Bermuda. Martin Brawne was now able to walk with a cane. His speech, though slow, had regained a quality of distinction. His mind remained clear and active. Though any return to his office was out of the question, he was able to take up again the direction of his firm. Each Friday Allen Disbrough arrived for a weekly consultation. For Barbara each day had resolved itself into an unvarying routine.

Each morning she rose, dressed, and going into her father's room, closed the windows and pulled the shades.

"Slept well, father?"

"Famously. No air like Oxbridge. And you?"

"O, always the same with me."

She rang for Thomas to shave and dress him and went downstairs and out for a brief half hour's stroll before breakfast.

Back at the foot of the stairs, while her father meticulously descended from step to step, she waited to offer her arm. Breakfast over, they went into the library, where she opened his correspondence and passed over each letter for his inspection. For the rest of the morning he dictated his replies and the notes on the business of the week he wished to discuss with Disbrough. Then she accompanied him for the short, lagging walk to the arbor, where she read to him from legal briefs, which he attempted to explain and which to please him she went through the usual simulation of understanding.

After lunch in the middle of the afternoon they drove out in the landau through leafy country roads, over the Berkshire hills, with vistas of well groomed valleys. Sometimes, if the morning's work had been arduous, he fell asleep. Dinner remained a formal affair. Nothing would alter his habits. Half a dozen of the old Oxbridgites were privileged to the table. Mr. and Mrs. Chiswick, Miss Mintie, the Van Valgahs. He insisted on her appearing at her best, knew every dress in her wardrobe and flattered her with the manner of an old courtier. After dinner there was the party of whist, with Thomas standing behind her father to sort the cards and do the shuffling and dealing. Every day the same.

The return to Oxbridge had been for her a final renunciation. When she had come again to Lynwood and felt its strong austerity close over her she accepted it as something predestined. There was no escape. Her day was her father's, would be, so long as he lived.

The memory of Gregory Rance still tortured her acutely. There were moments when she escaped into the woods and followed the river path to the bridge, when she was torn by rebellious emotions and the impulse to flight whipped into her and left her shrinking before the cruelty of her memories.

Isolated in the humdrum routine of her life, thrown back on her resources, she wore herself out emotionally in a futile striving to put him out of her mind. Her days were obsessed and her nights were haunted by the longing to be back in his arms. Supposing in a year or two her father should die and leave her free—too late?

It had been difficult to convince Gregory. He had protested against finalities, but she had had the courage, in loyalty to him, not to reopen the issue. A dozen times she had tentatively sounded her father only to recoil frightened before the paroxysms of rage into which he lashed himself. To him Rance was an obsession, a distorted figure of evil, embodying all that was destructive and contaminating—unthinkable! Rance's letters continued to arrive, pleading, revolted, impassioned. She read them, put them away and did not reply. In the end, out of compassion for her, he ceased to write.

She strove now for a difficult philosophy. What had to be done should be done proudly. She grew thin and listless, but she made no reproaches. She could not feel toward her father the same impulsive comradeship. There were deep in her strong senses of justice she could not repress, but outwardly she went through her service, smiling and purposeful, resolved in some measure to compensate for the tragedy she had unwittingly wrought.

Disbrough's coming at the end of the week was a welcome relaxation. He brought with him a touch of the active outer world, with his budget of news and anecdotes, doing little commissions for the aunts. When he was present at the table the conversation ran smoothly, and when a discussion arose he maintained an attitude of a sympathetic moderator, finding something of interest and value in the divergent opinions of the father and daughter, which kept them within the bounds of good humor. His public career was beginning to shape itself. He had been elected to the board of trustees of his university and to a high position in the city organization of the Republican party. He was counsel for a reform movement in the City club and already spoken of as a candidate for congress. In the firm, under the direction of Mr. Brawne, he had taken charge of the more important cases. So far there had been no change in the set impersonal attitude he had maintained toward Barbara. Her first suspicions vanished before the friendly correctness of his manner. Once or twice she had felt a little gratitude in his evident understanding of ideas which her father resented.

On an evening in June she drove down to meet him at the station, with an increased pleasure that for two days at least there would be a lightening of the monotony of her routine. From her seat in the landau she saw him coming and waved her hand in friendly greeting. He was a serious young man, serious in his dress, which already suggested the solid worth of a future leader of the bar, neat but sober in color, a square, stiff derby, stiff shirt, and wing tipped collar, with black and white cravat, well tailored but without coquetry. He removed one glove punctiliously and shook hands with her.

"And how are you, Miss Barbara?"

"Always the same."

"And your father?"

"Well, but rather irascible. I think he's worrying over the Stevens will case. Besides, he's made up his mind to sue the water company."

"Leave him to me. I'll straighten him out. You mustn't take his moods too seriously."

"It's hard not to, when you're with him all day."

"I have the seeds your aunts wanted, and I brought you up a couple of the new books I thought you might be interested in."

"That's nice. What have you got?"

"Dear Miss Blake: My boy friend doesn't want us to continue going with each other any more. He won't tell me if he likes another girl. What shall I do? WONDERING."

Best take the boy's word without prodding him with questions and start to look around for another companion.

It's Unreasonable Request.

"Dear Miss Blake: The one I love wears glasses and he won't take them off when we go out. Do you think he loves me? FRANCES."

Now that's an unreasonable request, Frances. The fact that he doesn't mind your demands would indicate that he cares enough to be tolerant.

Girls Should Enter Marriage Without Debts—Doris Blake

BY DORIS BLAKE.

We had no idea until recently that writing off pre-marriage debts is the problem it appears to be. Rather how, when, and by whom they should be written off. The disclosure resulted from a letter printed a short time ago, in which the young woman, after marriage, discovered that her husband was pretty deeply involved, and the question arose as to whether she was obligated to help get rid of the overhanging debt cloud.

We learn now that it frequently happens that the girl enters marriage with a trail of debtors behind. And it is a commoner practice than we supposed, that men enter marriage with the additional responsibility of paying off pre-marriage obligations. We're not referring to investment debts, but just the ordinary kind of bills for personal upkeep, or loans created out of irresponsible money management.

In or out of marriage, personal obligations are personal obligations, and for honor's sake should be so construed. Under certain circumstances it might be easy for one or the other of a newly married pair to help get out from under the burden, in which event, there would be no problem. But it does not seem fair to enter a marriage dragging a whole shaft of unpaid bills as one of the early surprise features.

Two Self-Portraits Included in Painting Show.

Stone, and Fielding Marshall will be among those entertaining.

The club has set aside the evening of March 3 for its retiring president's party. Just a week ago Robert Stevenson was selected to succeed Ralph M. Shaw as the presiding officer, but not until March 3 will Mr. Stevenson officially assume his new post.

Harvard President Will Speak Tonight

There isn't a son of Harvard within commuting distance of the University club who isn't planning to have dinner at the club tonight and greet the new president of the eastern seat of learning, Dr. James Bryant Conant. The gathering is the annual dinner of the Chicago Harvard club held by tradition on the eve of Washington's birthday.

At the speakers' table with Dr. Conant will be Dean Gordon Lang, who is to give the "curtain raiser" speech; Arthur Cable, who will do the "honors" as president of the Harvard club; Charles B. Pike, Barrett Wendell, and Howard F. Gillette, each a former club president, and Herman Gade, who is a Chicago visitor.

Appealing, at least to masculine taste, is the beefsteak "roundup" the Under-40 members of the Union League club are to have this evening at the club. The affair will start with a gymkhana at 5:30, Elliott Donnelley avers, and this means setup exercises with glasses filled and raised vigorously in place of Indian clubs.

Samuel Insull Jr. is closing his apartment at 1242 Lake Shore drive the end of this week and putting his furniture in storage. He has taken two adjoining apartments in the Seneca hotel, one for himself and one for his little son, Sam III., and his nurse. Little Sam will be 3 years old in May.

Two Will Make Trip to Mexico.

Mrs. Hubert Burnham of Evanston will be packing some clothes for warm weather next week, for she is leaving then for Mexico to join her friend, Mrs. Julian Armstrong of Lake Forest, who left last week with Mrs. Alfred MacArthur of Libertyville to go to Mexico by boat from New York. The MacArthurs have a lovely home in Cuernavaca, not far from Mexico City, and usually Mrs. MacArthur and the children spend all of the winter there, but this year she is contenting herself with a short visit to the land she loves.

The two daughters of the Hubert Burnhams are both away, Cherie visiting friends in New Orleans with whom she went to school in Washington and Mardi in New York job hunting. Cherie went south especially to act as godmother at the christening of the baby of one of her schoolmates and remained to spend the Mardi Gras season with another. The date for her return is indefinite.

Harriett Monroe Goes to Florida.

Miss Harriet Monroe left yesterday for a holiday in Florida. She is going to Coral Gables so as to be near Eunice Tietjens and her husband, Cloyd Head, who are teaching at the University of Miami at Coral Gables.

Mrs. Robert Hall McCormick and her younger daughter, Helen, are leaving today for New York where they will meet Mrs. McCormick's elder daughter, Eleanor, who has been in Boston visiting Mrs. E. Pomeroy Collier, the mother of her fiancé, Sargent Collier. Mrs. McCormick and her daughters will return to Chicago in a fortnight.

Returning to Chicago this morning are the Edgar Stantons, who left their Winnetka home a month ago for a vacation in Phoenix, and Mrs. Robert J. Thorne, who has been spending a few weeks with her daughter and son-in-law, the George Gillespies, on their Arizona ranch.

The Gustavus Swifts and their daughters, Miss Geraldine and Miss Marie Swift, who have been in Miami for several weeks, will be at home March 6.

Miss Eva Porter, who has been visiting her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John N. Ott in Winnetka, is returning to her home in Montclair, N. J., today.

Vacational Society to Entertain Juniors.

Mrs. Earle J. Zimmerman will act as hostess today at a tea at 4:30 o'clock at the Vocational Society for Shut-Ins shop at 700 North Michigan avenue for the members of the newly formed junior auxiliary of the society. Mrs. Zimmerman is the new president of the society and John R. Hurley is chairman of the juniors.

The Sunbeam League's able and enthusiastic chairman of publicity, Mrs. Lennox Haldeman, is leaving on Saturday with Mr. Haldeman for a six weeks' holiday in Mexico. Mr. and Mrs. Haldeman will go by train to New Orleans, then board the boat for Vera Cruz. From there they will travel up to Yucatan and on to Mexico City.

This noon the league is having luncheon at the Stevens with its benefit bridge scheduled for April 3 as the chief topic of discussion. Mrs. Harold Burnham and Mrs. Lawrence O'Toole will be the luncheon hostesses.

Miss Eloise R. Tremain, principal of Ferry Hall, is leaving today for Cleveland to attend the meetings of the National Association of Principals of Schools for Girls.

Foreign Relations Luncheon Today.

The American Friends of China are to be well represented this noon at the luncheon the Council on Foreign Relations is to hold at the Palmer house for Dr. T. Z. Koo, who is well known in this country for the American educational work he has done in China. Dr. Koo will speak on "China and Japan, 1934." Dr. Walter L. Lichtenstein will introduce Dr. Koo.

President and Mrs. Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago will be at home to members of the Chicago Alumnæ club on Saturday, March 10, from 4 to 6 o'clock.

The charitable work of the Sisters of Mercy at the John B. Murphy hospital will be benefited by the concert John McCormack is to give at the Auditorium on Sunday afternoon, March 11.

Bows Are Getting Bigger

[Paramount Photo.]

Spring Dress Has Wrapped Skirt for Definite Slimness

WOMAN'S DRESS.

Navy blue silk, with white confetti dots made the original dress, and it's fresh and lovely as spring itself. The wrapped effect of the skirt is particularly slenderizing, and the lower, shaped bodice section, finishing in a point, met by the becoming V neck, are slimming features. It's an easy dress to make.

The pattern, No. 3424, comes in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, and 46 inches bust measure.

Casual Street Costumes Need Right Jewelry

BY RHEA SEEGER.

You can't wear tweeds and soft woolen costumes that look like tweeds without some of the new costume jewelry especially designed for such casual street clothes.

Huge big rounds of cinnamon brown crystal are accents for beige and tan tweeds as well as pale green and soft old shades of blue. You wear them clipped to a lapel, to the loose folds of a soft woolen ascot or caught through the knot of a pet dizzy-striped silk neck scarf.

Some stunning gold and silver metal oblongs ready for a monogram or initial are slim new clips for the most tailored of new street suits . . . the suits you can hurry and wear immediately under your winter coat.

Big bracelets, big chest pins, all of colored prystal, come in a lot of brand new colors just in time for the snappiest of tweed suits and ensembles. Dull green stuff is charming with pale beige wool, with small checks in three shades of green or brown or blue.

Eye striking red costume jewelry will brighten the fashion horizon on the dreariest and rainiest of shopping days. You can even match the handle of your rainy day umbrella to the bracelets and clips and pins of prystal that have taken the town for a fashion sensation.

Neck scarfs are being inflated in the grand manner . . . crisp plaids of organdie, wide breezy bows of taffeta with fringed ends . . . soft woolens of high and pastel tints, anything and everything in the way of materials used in literally a big way.

Even the cat's whiskers bows of last spring are small editions of what you will plant under your chin this year.

Mrs. Roosevelt Again Voices Opposition to All Child Labor

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—Now it's perfectly true, Mrs. Roosevelt pointed out at her press conference today, that many a prominent man loves to recall the good old days of his childhood when he peddled papers. As a personal means of earning pennies it may have helped him a lot, she admitted.

But as a public practice, she argued, "it did not help civilization."

"For no civilization," she declared, "should be based on the labor of children"; and that means newspapers as well as other businesses.

"Obviously then," followed up the newspaper women who had maneuvered the discussion to this point, "you are against the newspaper code, which doesn't prohibit the work of newsboys."

"Obviously," the President's wife shot back, "I am making no comment on the newspaper code."

But she did make a comment on her son, Jimmy, and his recently reported opposition in Massachusetts to the federal child labor amendment. She has written him a letter asking his reasons.

"Of course," she said, "everybody is entitled to his own opinion. I am merely asking his. I would never dream of doing more."

You're sure it's absolutely pure

DR. PRICE'S Vanilla EXTRACT

Good Colonial Gingerbread Is Available Now

Modern Methods Equal Mary Washington's.

"Home Frozen Delicacies," a booklet containing 50 recipes for frozen desserts, is on sale at The Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower, for 10 cents; by mail, 13 cents, stamps or coin. Address mail requests to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

BY MARY MEADE.

A certain historic piece of gingerbread may not really deserve credit for harmony between France and America all these years, but certainly it must have had considerable to do with the business, for Lafayette, or so the story goes, on his return to America visited Fredericksburg and dropped in upon Mary Ball Washington, George's mother, just in time to whiff most ravenously at a burst of tangy aroma seeping out of the oven door. Mrs. Washington, wise in the ways of hungry men, took a peep herself and then triumphantly brought out a great, spicy-rich gingerbread and fed it to the chivalrous Frenchman, quite enough, we feel, to have insured offer of good will between his country and ours.

Which brings us to the interesting part of the tale. For that old Washington recipe for gingerbread, written out in Mrs. W.'s own hand, has been handed down for generations in this country and is now the property of the Daughters of the American Revolution. But the how of it has spread way beyond the museum stage, and today gingerbreads, or almost-gingerbreads, based on this same old Washington recipe, are now on the market eager to be taken home and fed to families every bit as appreciative as was Lafayette. These gingerbreads when we buy them are still in dry form, but everything that is needed is there except the liquid. Add water, stir it up, and pop Mrs. W.'s own gingerbread into the oven!

End of act number one, "The Making," and opening of act number two, which should logically be titled "The Eating," for it does seem that whether we buy and whack together one of the several sorts of gingerbread mixes on the market or start from scratch and the recipe constructing our own mix the question of "how to serve" is always turning up.

So here are some engaging little ways we like to do it. First, squares of gingerbread, served hot on the plate, with juicy cinnamon apples also steaming—there's a triumph! I cut the apples only in eighths, lest they grow too soft and the slices break. Cook them most gently in a thin sugar sirup, to which have been added cinnamon drops to lend a cheery red. Or pear slices, cooked in the same way, are a change and just as lovable.

And for the bridge tea, had you thought of especially glorified gingerbread? You'll need cutters for the card symbols—a heart, spade, club, and diamond affair. About three inches is the proper size. Bake the gingerbread in a large pan, making it two inches thick. Split it carefully in two and cut out the symbols, making two symbols which match each other. Match them up in these pairs and spread the lower form lightly with cream cheese. Put on the top section of gingerbread and, with a pastry tube full of sweetened whipped cream, make a neat fluted line or ruffle to outline the top of each gingerbread symbol. If you're clever it's even possible to plant a tint cream miniature of that symbol in the center of each. Serve with a fork, coffee, mints, and nuts and see if it doesn't score you a grand slam!

As a concealing blanket over yesterday's bake of gingerbread, chocolate sauce, creamy maple sauce, lemon sauce, or a simple custard sauce will work great things and good. Steam the gingerbread and serve the sauce hot.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

Mr. Sims is universally acclaimed the greatest living contract and auction player. He was captain of the renowned "Four Horsemen" team of four, now disbanded, and has won twenty-four national championships since 1924. These articles are based on the Sims system, which includes the one-over-one principle which the Sims group of players was the first to employ and develop.

OPENING THE BIDDING.

Opening Primary Trick Requirements of Defensive Hands.

I WISH to discuss in this article the weakest hand with which I advise opening the bidding in a suit, in First or Second position.

With the defensive type of hand, I look for three primary tricks, subject to reservations.

P. HAL SIMS.

Example.

Spades—x x
Hearts—A K x x x
Diamonds—A x x
Clubs—x x x

[b] With a four card suit I require in addition some secondary values, such as a Queen Jack together or separately. I regard the Q J as a form of rebid value, providing additional safety.

Example.

Spades—A x x x
Hearts—Q x x
Diamonds—A K x x
Clubs—J x x

With the above hand I would bid 1 Diamond. If my partner takes out with 1 No Trump, a weak denial bid according to our system, I pass, being unable to rebid my suit. I feel that he will be reasonably safe in that contract, thanks to these "protective intermediates."

Holding the following hand:

Spades—A x x
Hearts—x x x
Diamonds—A K x x
Clubs—x x x

I prefer to pass. I do this for several reasons.

[1] I feel that there is no future in this hand with our side as declarer unless my partner can take action independently of me: either by opening the bidding or by overcalling an opposing bid. In either case I have unsuspected strength in the form of primary trick values, sufficient to take a safe part in the bidding from that point on.

[2] From the other point of view, if I pass, my opponents may open the bidding and ultimately bid too high, perhaps because each of them attributes to his partner one or more of my high cards.

We now come to the borderline hands which are not definitly aggressive or defensive in type. With these hands the primary trick requirements may be shaded when their aggressive qualities predominate, especially when promising developments in the major suits.

Example 1.

Spades—K Q 10 x
Hearts—x x x x
Diamonds—x
Clubs—A Q x x

With this hand I would pass, but [1] if the Heart suit were headed by the Jack, I would bid 1 Spade. The additional Jack, though unimportant in itself, would provide very strong support for a Heart takeout by my partner.

[2] If the Club Jack accompanied the A Q, I would bid 1 Spade. The strengthened Club holding makes the hand look hopeful for game in No Trump if my partner's take-out is in Diamonds. If he bids Hearts, I can give him a raise; if he can then rebid, the Club holding should now give him a play for his game contract, by virtue of a finesse or discard.

Example 2.

Spades—K Q 10 x
Hearts—x x x
Diamonds—x
Clubs—A Q x x x

With this hand I would pass, but [1] if the Spade and Club holdings were exchanged I would bid 1 Spade. A game may easily be developed if the partner holds normal Spade support and a little outside strength, though not enough to open the bidding if I pass.

[2] If I had four little Hearts and no Diamonds, I would bid 1 Club. A response of Hearts or Spades by my partner would be gladly supported up to a game contract.

Borderline hands with high cards in three suits are of the No Trump type and will be discussed in future articles.

Paris Strews Glitter All Over Its Formals with Spangles and Sequins

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—More and more glitter is being injected into Paris styles. All the little embroiderers are hard at work applying spangles and sequins to the evening fashions here. The newest and most thrilling evening fashion is the dinner suit that is entirely covered over with spangled or sequin embroidery. The smartest of these gleaming suits which I have seen are covered with black sequins, so the wearer looks like some kind of glistening fish new risen out of the sea or perhaps a mermaid since the suit usually has a mermaid line skirt, as has the Lelong suit shown here.

This suit is covered with black sequins, and the skirt is true mermaid, while the jacket is a bolero with raglan cut sleeves to make the shoulders slope à la Victoria.

Whose Fault?

Children who are Always Catching Cold

A boy or girl may be warmly clad, dry shod, and ever so careful, yet catch one cold after another. Do you know what's to blame? Low vitality. A sluggish system makes any child an easy victim for colds. The youngster whose bowels haven't moved for two days will contract a cold quicker than the one who has forgotten his rubbers. A powerful cathartic that opens the child's very pores is just as bad. The proper treatment is described on the right:

Here's the plan many mothers use to protect their children from a cold all through the cold season. Instead of waiting for biliousness to strike, they ward it off in this way: Every few days, they give the child a spoonful of plain California Syrup of Figs. No violent purge! No laxative of adult strength! Just this natural, fruity syrup containing senna. Use the genuine California Syrup of Figs, sold everywhere; bottle should say California.

Prevent Muscle Sagging by Special Facials.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

It's the sagging facial muscle and the flabby tissue that write the deadline on youth. Up until these signs appear, one can camouflage with paint and powder, smile, and soft light. But paint and powder, smile, and soft light profit little once the tissue and muscle are allowed to slip. That's why women in the early thirties should begin the preventive work. Sagging and tissue flabbiness ordinarily do not occur until much later, unless one's life has been led in an irregular fashion. There's no sense in waiting until the damage is done before taking the face, tissue, and muscle in hand.

I am asked, frequently, if I really and honestly believe that rejuvenating facials are worth the time and expense. I certainly believe they are. The expert manupulation of flesh and muscle, and the stimulation to blood action, together with expert manipulation of muscles, is necessarily toning and firming in character. In fact, amateur performances, that is, the woman's own hands doing the work, are better than nothing. At least, she is stimulating circulation and giving the muscles a chance to strengthen, just as muscles are strengthened by exercise elsewhere on the body. And, very often, women [the non-professional, that is], become very expert in massage accomplishment. But if professional service can be afforded, by all means employ it, once a week, anyway.

For home operations, the hair is tied back under a towel and the face thoroughly cleansed with cream first, then with soap and warm water. Then, a fresh application of cream is made, preferably a tissue cream, or heavy massaging cream, and this, with manipulation is worked into the skin. Begin at the base of the throat and work in rotary motion, always on the upstroke. Work up to chin, giving particular attention to the chin and jawline section, working it over and over again with an upward motion and a firm, pulling stroke.

Around the eye muscles employ more cream and a quick rubbing motion, in an outward and upward direction. Wipe the face clean of the cream, then take a clean washcloth, or fresh piece of cheesecloth, and wet it in cold water and apply to face. Repeat time and again, keeping the cloth as cold as possible. Now you take your cube of ice and give the skin an extra astringent and toning rub with it. And this you may follow with a good astringent lotion if the face is quite sagged and flabby.

"BLONDE HAIR MADE LIGHTER AND LOVELIER"

Says Mrs. J. W. T.

"I was so discouraged by my muddy-looking hair. It added years to my appearance. Then a friend told me about BLONDEX. The very first time I shampooed with Blondex my hair actually showed new life and color, looked shades lighter and brighter!" Use BLONDEX is good advice for blondes whose hair is darkening, losing its golden charm. Blondex, the fine rich-lathering powder shampoo (not a dye), helps bring back the youthful gleam of radiant gold, alluring softness and sheen to dull, faded, stringy light hair. Try it today. BLONDEX comes in two sizes—the economical $1.00 and inexpensive 25c package. At any drug or department store. NEW: Have you tried Blondex Wave-Set? Doesn't darken light hair—only 35c.

Doctors Give Creosote For Chest Colds

For many years our best doctors have prescribed creosote in some form for coughs, colds and bronchitis, knowing how dangerous it is to let them hang on.

Creomulsion, with creosote and six other highly important medicinal elements, quickly and effectively stops coughs and colds that otherwise might lead to serious trouble.

Creomulsion is powerful in the treatment of colds and coughs, yet it is absolutely harmless and is pleasant and easy to take.

Your own druggist guarantees Creomulsion by refunding your money if you are not relieved after taking Creomulsion as directed. Beware the cough or cold that hangs on. Always keep Creomulsion on hand for instant use.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler and Mrs. Butler will come to the White House tomorrow for a couple of days' visit.

DANZIG OFFERS TO HELP U. S. SELL GOODS IN POLAND

Has Harbor Facilities for Huge Turnover.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

FREE CITY OF DANZIG, Feb. 20—The Free City of Danzig is ready and willing to play an important rôle in the development of trade between the United States and Poland, according to Dr. Hermann Rauschning, president of the Danzig senate. He offered American firms the facilities of the Danzig free harbor and the aid of experienced local merchants to introduce American goods in the Polish market. Danzig, according to Rauschning, is at present handling a turnover of 6,000,000 tons of merchandise annually and is prepared to deal with eight times that amount.

The leader of the Danzig Free State who inaugurated the policy of friendly relations with Poland, said merchants in this ancient Hanseatic city are optimistic over the immediate economic outlook. They are convinced that the deep point in the depression is past. A steady improvement is said to be already noticeable here.

Hail Polish-German Pact.

Because of its peculiar position in Europe, its connection with the league of nations, its isolation from Germany, and its dependency on Poland, Danzig has suffered severely during the twelve year economic war between Poland and Germany. The atmosphere of uncertainty in Europe especially affected this trade center.

Today, according to citizens of Danzig, the Germany-Poland peace pact means that both countries have abandoned their previous policy of seeking to irritate one another.

Danzig has confidently waited for this period of trade improvement, even though the remainder of Europe is economically dead, from a business viewpoint, with the markets of Great Britain, France, Italy, and Austria "closed for repairs."

Sees Benefit to U. S.

"When the Polish-German commerce develops, trade between these two countries and the United States will also develop," Rauschning said. "Europe must first put its house in order before America can hope for larger trade. Other countries and blocs of countries must follow the example of Germany and Poland, and the circulation of goods must at least achieve the pre-war level before trade will generally develop with America.

"We Danzikers are optimistic, and think this process will develop quickly. Paralysis of trade, with economic warfare, has compelled the foreign offices to postpone consideration of political conflicts and attend to the more pressing economic and commercial problems. The question of enlivening commerce is now all important and has become inseparable from foreign policies in all countries. That is why, besides my office as president of the senate, I am personally directing Danzig's foreign policy, together with our economic ministry.

Impetus to Circulation.

"This new development within the doors of European foreign offices is giving impetus to the reestablishment of normal circulation of goods in Europe. I am convinced that the present interference in economic fields by the various governments who are imposing contingent quotas, restricting remittances in payment for goods, and attempting to direct the movements of their commerce, will cease when conditions improve. Europe is coming to realize that each country has a right to live and earn a living.

"The first two countries publicly acknowledging this new principle are Poland and Germany. They have given Europe the impulse in the right direction. Danzig, since its conversion into a free state, has been the barometer of conditions in northeastern Europe and today the indicator points toward good weather ahead."

Rauschning hopes that the 18 unsettled questions between Poland and Danzig will be settled by mutual concessions. For the present, direct negotiations, without the aid of the league of nations, are being conducted between Danzig and Warsaw.

League Envoy Looks On.

This is expected to give Sean Lester of Ireland, newly appointed league of nations commissioner here, a chance to become acquainted with the situation. Lester was appointed in October, 1933. Rauschning said Lester has Danzig's full trust and confidence, and that the Free City hopes his sojourn here will be more pleasant than those of his predecessors. One of them died and the other quit on the verge of a nervous collapse after trying to referee the countless, continued quarrels which formerly caused unrest in this part of Europe.

Rauschning said the present Danzig-Polish relations could almost be called an entente cordial.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 20.—Fifty-eight nations are wholly or partially in default on 130 loans financed by British money, according to a statement made in the house of commons today by Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer. Chamberlain said the whole situation will be surveyed before government approval is given further foreign loans.

RUSSIA TRIES TO PREVENT TURKEY BUYING FROM U. S.

Trade Mission Delays Its Trip to America.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 20.—Russia is trying to circumvent Turkish plans to buy abroad for development of the Turkish five year plan. The departure of the Turkish trade mission for western Europe and the United States has been delayed.

The official reason given for the delay is that the government is awaiting further reports from experts and that central Europe is in a too unsettled condition. The real reason, it was learned, is that Russia has protested against Turkish orders going either to Europe or America. The soviets desire these orders for themselves.

Turkish Cabinet Split.

Just how much weight this protest will carry depends on the outcome of the growing split in the Turkish cabinet. The generals who have ruled Turkey for ten years, including Dictator Mustafa Kemal Pasha, favor Russia for military reasons. Civilian economists, headed by Djelal Bey, financial expert, wish to buy the best goods in the cheapest market and fear that acceptance of Russian loans and credits means the eventual absorption of Turkey in the soviet system.

Djelal, who has been regarded for years as Kemal's successor, now seems to have lost favor with the great man, and he is ready to make a fight for the independence of Turkey from outside influences.

The government is also reported to be in difficulties over finance because of the growth of tobacco smuggling. Tobacco provides 26 per cent of the state revenue. The government, unable to stop the smuggling, has been forced to compete in the market with smugglers selling cigarets at 20 for six cents. This represents a loss on duty paid tobacco.

It is also stated that during the last few years $10,000,000 worth of goods has "disappeared" from quays. These goods represented a taxation loss of $1,500,000.

According to reports from Ankara, indications are that the economists will win and that the buying commission will make its westward trip after some delay.

ARTIST'S MODEL SUES LUKE WILLIAMS; SAYS HE HIT HER ON JAW

Lucien E. [Luke] Williams, former intercollegiate and collegiate tennis star, assaulted Elizabeth Cornell, 24 years old, 2457 Pine Grove avenue, an artist's model, after an all night party in his bachelor apartment, according to charges made by her yesterday in a $50,000 damage suit filed in the Superior court.

The young woman's lawyer said the assault took place on Feb. 8 in Williams' apartment at 78 East Elm street. Williams, it is charged, struck Miss Cornell on the jaw, dislocating it and knocking her to the floor, and later kicked her and threatened to kill her.

In 1929 Williams was divorced by his wife, Mrs. Catherine Crowley Williams of Grosse Point Farms, Wis., after she led a raid on her husband's rooms in the Ambassador hotel.

SEEK ROOSEVELT APPROVAL ON INTERSTATE TAX

Levy on Incoming Goods Is Urged by Group.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 20.—(AP)—A committee representing 19 states left Indianapolis tonight for Washington to present to President Roosevelt and the congress proposed legislation to permit individual states to tax incoming interstate retail shipments of goods.

The committee was selected from the National Association of State Tax Administrators, which was organized today with Fred E. Stewart, a member of the California board of equalization, as president.

19 States Represented.

Tax experts from the 19 states ended a two day conference this afternoon after selecting Chicago for the next meeting to be held in June and drafting the bill which they said will eliminate an "unfair" business situation.

President Stewart, Dixwell L. Pierce of the California state board of equalization, Harry McMullan, director of assessments and collections for the North Carolina department of revenue, and George A. Critchlow of Utah, headed for Washington tonight with the proposed bill.

With Governors' Aid.

Companion measures will be presented to members of both senate and house for early introduction, Stewart said. Meanwhile, in keeping with instructions from the new organization, Stewart will request every governor in the United States to urge upon members of congress the passage of the bill.

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday were $134,000, making a total of $107,111,564 collected since enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act began on April 28, 1933. The day's collections of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for four years follow:

	1928.	1929.
Feb. 20	$ 10,830	$ 23,204
Uncollected	15,190,492	40,732,256
	1930.	1931.
Feb. 20.....	$ 30,303	$ 84,590
Uncollected ...	64,514,668	61,964,243

MOSLEY ORDERS BRITISH FASCISTI TO END TITHE WAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 20.—More than 100 of Sir Oswald Mosley's Fascists, who yesterday were secretly converging on the tithe war zone in Wortham Suffolk, with the avowed intention of helping the British farmer in his war on tithes, suddenly received instructions today to quit the district immediately. They were ordered to return to their home centers.

No explanation was given. The orders were telephoned from the London headquarters of the Blackshirts. They stipulated that all Blackshirts must leave the district by 6 a. m. tomorrow. Tonight it was stated that all the Blackshirts had left the district.

[The tithe taxes are a modernized version of a middle ages English church assessment. Farmers object to paying them because of the reduced prices of farm products in recent years. Last Saturday 18 protesting Blackshirts were arrested near Wortham. A court ordered them held in custody until next Saturday.]

TESTIFY 1931 TAX ASSESSING WAS UNFAIRLY DONE

Witnesses for the Chicago Real Estate board testified yesterday before County Judge Jarecki that methods of evaluation used by Assessor J. L. Jacobs in the 1931 real estate assessment were inequitable. The board charges that the assessment discriminated against owners of small properties and asks that Judge Jarecki reduce by 15 per cent the assessments on the 438,000 homes and small flat buildings in Cook county.

Harry J. Wahlberg, 1022 North Taylor avenue, Oak Park, manager of a construction company, testified that the base rate method of assessing small buildings, by which the square foot area is multiplied by a base price, is an unfair system. He said that a cubic foot method would be more equitable. Perry T. Johnstone, building expert for the board of tax appeals and a former employé of the assessor, said Mr. Jacob's staff had paid little attention to the assessments on small buildings. The witnesses will be cross examined today by Henry P. Chandler, counsel for Mr. Jacobs.

HOW TO MAKE SURE YOUR FISH WILL TASTE DELICIOUS

Ocean fish are caught by fishing fleets which bring them into the great fish markets of Boston, New York, etc. These markets grade all the fish. They grade them number 1, 2 and 3 grade, according to quality and according to how old the fish are.

All three grades are sold to you as being of fine quality, but at all kinds of prices. It is hard for you to tell whether you are buying number 1, 2 or 3 grade. But you can be sure of better than number 1 grade if you ask your dealer for 40-Fathom Fish and get them in the 40-Fathom wrapper.

For 40-Fathom Fish are caught by the 40-Fathom sea-nets to your dealer with the fresh-caught flavor of the sea all through them. They are like Grade A Milk or a choice cut of meat—the tenderness of the sea—ready for the fire—easy to cook as bacon.

You can make sure you are buying better than number 1 grade and you can make sure your fish will taste delicious, if you ask your dealer for 40-Fathom Fish by name, and see to it that the fish come to you in the 40-Fathom wrapper with the name 40-Fathom Fish printed on the wrapper. But if the fish are not in the 40-Fathom wrapper they are not 40-Fathom Fish.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The heroes of a spectacular epoch in Golden Gloves boxing history who came fighting and scrambling out of the wild battles in the North Side sectional tournament at the Loyola university gymnasium last night were:

John Sinco, Northwestern football player.

Floyd Walker, featherweight who before he put on the gloves had toiled all day long in the shipping room of a loop department store.

Sinco fought DeWitt McClain, a Negro lad from Trafton's gymnasium in the light heavyweight open division. For two rounds it was a nip and tuck battle. Thirty seconds after the last round started, Sinco aimed a terrific right at McClain's chin. It landed. Down went McClain for the full count of ten.

Wins in Second Round.

Orr deserted the class room to scrap for the middleweight title. He also fought in the open division and his foe was Steve Golosinski. The school teacher knocked out Steve in the second round. Orr who was the A. A. U. middleweight champion back in 1928, is 25 years old.

Walker admitted he was pretty tired after performing his shipping room duties all day long, but thought he still had a bit of fight left in him. He rested an hour while winning a bout by default. The rest was just what he needed.

His foe was Barney O'Neil, a hard, slashing kid from the Catholic Youth organization. It was a slugging match from beginning to end, but the kid from the shipping room had rolled up many points and won the decision.

Taylor Carries On.

Taylor, the hide hanger from the tannery in Waukegan, had his left eye cut and bruised while he was defeating Al Oddo of the C. Y. O. Some of his friends urged him to default his second match, which brought him into action against Sidney Jarzynski. Taylor would not even think of it. He stepped out and made quick work of Jarzynski and scored a technical knockout in th second round.

It all leads up to one of the red letter nights in Golden Gloves sectional fighting in Chicago. The heroes who fought through the desperate battles in the north side sectionals last night will engage in their championship battles tonight. They will begin battling at 7:30 o'clock.

Thirty minutes earlier an army of 400 south siders will start their drive for Golden Gloves at the White City arena. There will be fighting in one ring at the Loyola gym and lots of fighting in two rings at White City.

Pierson Beats Bracke.

The first to bow in defeat was Jules Bracke, who finished second to John Logan, the Catholic Youth Organization heavyweight champion, in the Stadium ring last December.

Levi Pierson of the Northwest gymnasium eliminated him. Bracke, realizing he could not whip the heavyweights, exercised with such enthusiasm that he lost 15 pounds and qualified as a light heavyweight. The reducing process no doubt weakened him. At any rate there was little power behind his punches, so Pierson was a fairly easy winner over him.

The other idol of the Gold Coast fans to wilt under a barrage of punches was red haired Jimmy Size. He also represented the C. Y. O.

The chestnut haired kid had won

Cochran Beats Bozeman; Ties for Cue Lead

New York, Feb. 20.—[Special.]—Welker Cochran of San Francisco went into a triple tie for first place in the world's three cushion billiard tournament tonight when he defeated Jay Bozeman Jr. of Vallejo, Cal., 50 to 23, in 46 innings.

Cochran, aided by two high runs of seven, made a one sided contest out of what was expected to be a hard fought battle and thus gained his seventh triumph against two defeats. Cochran is now deadlocked with Bozeman and Johnny Layton of Sedalia, Mo.

Bozeman Starts Poorly.

Bozeman started poorly and went scoreless in 17 of the first 23 innings. His highest run was three and it was the twenty-seventh inning before he got a cluster of even that small proportion. Only once after that, in the 33d, was he able to click as much as three again.

In the afternoon Allen Hall of Chicago forced Layton to his second defeat, 50 to 30.

The high light of the Chicagoan's play came in the thirty-seventh inning, when he clicked off 14 points to set a new high run mark for the meet. He then scored two more points in the following inning to finish the game.

Makes Strong Finish.

In addition to the sparkling run that smashed the previous record for the tourney of 13 made earlier by Cochran, Hall had a string of 9 and also one of 7. His best scoring was done in the last four innings, when he made 24 points.

This triumph added another to the role of "giant killer" that Hall has played by turning back Cochran, Bozeman, and Layton. With no more games to play, Hall is in fourth place, having lost three and won eight. Just behind him is Willie Hoppe.

Reiselt Beats De Oro.

The other games today were the final ones for four other players. Otto Reiselt of Philadelphia, with a run of 12, vanquished Alfredo De Oro, 71 year old star, 50 to 43 in 42 innings.

Tonight before the Cochran-Bozeman encounter Arthur Thurnblad of Chicago conquered Augie Kieckhefer of Chicago, 50 to 29, in 50 innings. Thurnblad, with a high run of 5, pulled steadily away after the thirty-first inning and accounted for his sixth victory against five defeats.

The standings:

	W.	L.	Pts.	H.R.	B.G.
Welker Cochran	7	2	436	13	57
Johnny Layton	7	2	426	7	43

KIZER ADMITS INDIRECT OFFERS BY OHIO STATE

Noble Kizer, athletic director and football coach at Purdue university, who is in Chicago to speak before the Purdue Alumni association at the Engineers' club this afternoon, denied that he is considering offers to coach at Ohio State yesterday. Kizer, however, admitted that indirect propositions have been made by Buckeye officials.

"I'm entirely satisfied at Purdue and expect to remain there," Kizer said.

HAFEY BALKS AT SALARY CUT IN NEW CONTRACT

Berkeley, Cal., Feb. 20—[Special.]—Chick Hafey, outfielder for the Cincinnati Reds, announced today that he had not signed his 1934 contract because of a severe salary cut. Hafey, who held out for a month after the season opened two years ago, said he planned to hold a conference with officials of the Reds soon.

"I think it will be straightened out easily, but I'm going back to talk it over," Hafey said.

MISS ROBINSON AND MRS. HALL LEAD GOLF MEET

Condition of McGraw Is Improved

New Rochelle, N. Y., Feb. 20.—(AP)—John J. McGraw, veteran baseball leader, who is seriously ill with uremic poisoning, was reported today as in a somewhat improved condition.

A bulletin issued by Drs. L. B. Chapman and E. L. Kellogg at 6 p. m. indicated McGraw was maintaining the improvement he had shown during the day.

Passed Comfortable Day.

"Patient has had a comfortable day," the bulletin said. "Is less stuporous. Kidney function improved generally. Temperature, 103. Pulse, 92. Respiration, 30."

Earlier Dr. Chapman gave out a bulletin, as follows "The patient passed a comfortable night. Slept well, with occasional restless periods. Less stuporous. Signs of uremia less marked. General condition seems somewhat improved. Temperature 103, pulse 90, respiration 30."

Mrs. McGraw Optimistic.

Mrs. McGraw made her daily visit to her husband's bedside, and as she left the hospital to return to her Pelham Manor home, she said: "Mr. McGraw is much better today."

The fact that McGraw, manager of the New York Giants for 30 years, had slept well and appeared in less of a stupor was regarded by friends as a favorable sign. A few close friends have been permitted to visit the patient's room. Scores of telegrams and telephone inquiries about his condition have been received at the hospital.

OFFER OF $11,000 CONTRACT FAILS TO SATISFY FOXX

He's a holdout, for what he considers good reasons, but the brawny young first baseman hasn't threatened to quit baseball unless his demands are met.

"I won't tell you—I can't—what I've been offered for the 1934 season," he said. "But I can say it's a 30 per cent cut from the three year contract I just completed. Under that arrangement I got $50,000 for three years, which amounted to $16,666 a year. So get out your pencil and work it out for yourself."

It works out to $11,000 a year, and the proferred contract is one year only.

"I'm going over to Fort Myers to report to Connie Mack March 1," he said. "I'm going to talk to him and listen to him. I hope things will turn out all right."

GIRL TURNS CUB SCOUT; HER FIND GETS A CHANCE

The Cubs have a new southpaw pitcher, but that's only half the story. The other half of it has to do with the scout responsible for leading the budding phenom into the grasp of the north side club. The scout in this instance wasn't a grizzled old fellow such as usually is employed for such work. It was a Miss Florence M. Norman of Kewanee, Ill. She's been a Cub fan for many seasons, hence her contribution to their future welfare—if it works out that way.

WILLIAM WALKER.

He'll Be "Extra Help."

The young lady's find is Don Conrads, who for a couple of seasons has been southpawing for a Kewanee team and knocking the opposition stiff. As the result of Miss Norman's persistent pleas that her "find" is the marvel of the age, William Walker, president of the Cubs, has agreed to include the youth in the batch of talent which will start drifting toward the Catalina island training camp next week. Because rules prohibit a big league club from signing a free agent, Conrads will be taken along merely as "extra help" but in the event he shows something he will be turned over to the Cubs' farm at Los Angeles.

Fans 105 Batters.

Conrads is only 21 years old, but extends six feet three inches off the ground and weighs 175 pounds. Last season he won six and lost six 7 inning games, an average which was made ordinary by a weak supporting team, but in these games he fanned 105 batters. Two of his games were 2 hit affairs and two found the opposition with 3 hits. In his last game he yielded no hits, fanned 14 and walked 2. One of his victories was a 1 to 0 ten inning battle in which he fanned 18. In 1932, his first year of pitching, he struck out 61 in 41 innings. Speed is his chief stock in trade.

STENGEL CALLED EAST; MAY BE DODGER PILOT

Glendale, Cal., Feb. 20.—(AP)—Casey Stengel, coach for the Brooklyn club of the National league, tonight was en route east in response to a telegram asking him to come to Brooklyn immediately.

Although Stengel did not disclose why he had been summoned when he left here Sunday night, baseball followers believed it was in connection with reports he was being considered for manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers to replace Max Carey.

Before going to the Dodgers Stengel had a long major league career as an outfielder for the New York Giants. He now lives in Glendale.

EARL WEBB IS RELEASED BY SOX TO BREWERS

Outfielder Earl Webb, obtained from Detroit last season, was released yesterday by the White Sox to the Milwaukee club of the American association. This leaves the White Sox with 31 players, five of whom are outfielders. The advance squad of six players will depart for their Pasadena, Cal., training camp tomorrow night.

CHICAGO ANGLERS.

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., Feb. 20.—On the blackboard bulletin board of this city of 15,000 winter residents, of whom 7,500 live here the year round, are the names of two Chicagoans. The board lists the season's record catches of deep sea fishing, for which many boats chug down the river and out into the ocean. Probably both marks will be exceeded later, but anyway they're there now, allowing our civic pride full sway.

The names are those of Charles Stonebraker for a 30 pound 8 ounce barracuda and Fritz Steinbrecher for a 3 pound 8 ounce cero mackerel. Both are old time friends of The Wake in Chicago.

Stonebraker, or Stoney, as his intimates know him, has an apartment here for about six months a year and has summered at the Palmer house at home for the last fifteen years, playing his golf at Olympia Fields. Stoney is sort of ex-officio mayor. He tells the regularly elected officials what they ought to do, and so far as he is able sees that they do it. He's a trouble shooter for all visitors from Chicagoland. He secures them accommodations and tells them what merchants to patronize and where to take their meals. If you want to rent a car or buy a spool of thread, ask Stoney. If you ask anything he does not know, he'll find out.

Chatting at his apartment, where as a bachelor he entertains his brother and sister-in-law from northern Indiana each winter, we mentioned the current pool attraction of the Human Fish. Stoney then recalled that Fred Gardiner, former Illinois boxing commissioner now wintering at Miami Beach, was the first man in America to wager he could best a swimmer and pull him in with fishing tackle. This contest took place in the C. A. A. pool nearly 20 years ago, with the late Frank Wentworth, powerful swimmer and member of the famous Cherry Circle water polo team as the human fish. Gardner, about three-fifths Wentworth's weight, won, but humanely did not gaff his fish.

As now conducted, the human fish is accoutered with a leather harness to which is attached a fishing line. The fisherman with pole and reel stands on the edge of the pool. The poor fish is given 40 feet of line. Then the struggle begins with a ten minute time limit. If the swimmer can keep from being hauled in, if the line breaks, or if the pole is pulled into the water, the fish wins. If hauled in, the fisherman has a catch which "did not get away." Strange as it may seem, the fisherman usually is victor, for only a powerful natator can fight that long against the constant reeling exerted against him.

Stonebraker formerly was part owner and western representative in Chicago of the Tryon company, owners of the Kingfisher line of tackle and other angling equipment. He sold out several years ago and now practices what he used to preach.

The other Chicago record holder has returned home. We knew Fritz Steinbrecher way back when he was star catcher for Stagg's University of Chicago baseball team. In those days, as now, summer baseball was under the conference ban. But Fritz usually found himself on some town or semi-pro team where he met Big Ten rivals, all playing under assumed names. It was a common gag in those days for these chaps the following spring to walk up to a player from another college and say, "Hello, Moriarty," which had been the name used in summer baseball. And the comeback was, "Why, here's Kelly," as both enjoyed a good laugh over their assumed Irish summer names.

When Fritz was graduated he had offers to enter the professional ranks from C. W. Murphy of the Chicago Cubs and Barney Dreyfuss of the Pittsburgh Pirates. It took considerable courage to turn down a $4,000 offer to enter the real estate business with his brother Paul, where his take in commissions was only $900 his first year.

Unless he had changed his mind in the recent real estate caim, Fritz never regretted his choice and that he did not become a Gabby Hartnett, Mickey Cochrane, or Bill Dickey.

New York, Feb. 20.—(AP)—The Chicago Blackhawks were set back two full games in their effort to catch the Detroit Red Wings, leaders of the American division of the National Hocky league, when they lost to the New York Americans tonight, 3 to 1. The Hawks, however, clung to second place, a point ahead of the idle New York Rangers.

The game, largely played on defensive lines, failed to provide many thrills for the crowd of about six thousand at Madison Square Garden, but it was an American triumph from start to finish. With Red Dutton, Normie Himes, and a few others cutting the Chicago attack to pieces, Roy Worters, New York goalie, made only two stops in the first period and nineteen in the entire game.

Cook Scores for Chicago.

The Americans took a 2 to 0 lead in the first period and added another goal in the third. The Hawks could not score until the final period was more than half over.

Normie Himes netted the opening goal on a combination play with Art Chapman and Rabbit McVeigh. Dede Klein hoisted in the second when Lola Couture, Chicago wingman, slid into the net and effectively kept Goalie Chuck Gardiner from doing anything. Eddie Burke had an easy shot at an open net for the third goal when a wild pass got behind Gardiner. A fast shot by Tommy Cook brought Chicago's goal after Lou Trudel had paved the way.

The referees scheduled to handle the game were kept away by last night's storm and Moylan MacDonell, Eastern Amateur league official, and Redvers MacKenzie, coach of the Atlantic City Seagulls, handled the game.

Martin Stays on Bench.

Joe Simpson, American manager, sprang a surprise at the start by leaving Ronnie Martin, who still is nursing a couple of cracked ribs, on the bench, moving himself to right wing and starting Art Chapman at center. This line fought it out defensively with Chicago's starting combination, most of the early action taking place in the center zone.

The men who relieved them weren't much more effective at attacking, although Gottselig and Klein made several good attempts to start plays. More than five minutes passed and the goalies still had not seen anything but long shots.

Then the starting line came in again and a pretty combination play brought the Americans a goal. On a three man break, Chapman gave Himes the puck just inside the blue line. The center went down the middle lane, faked a pass to McVeigh, drawing the defense over and then hoisted a shot into the webbing from ten feet out.

Americans Score Again.

Encouraged, the Americans bore down for a while and kept the play around the Hawk net. A few seconds after the second line returned to action New York scored again. Conn shot a long pass up toward the cage. Couture, trying to cover Klein, fell and slid into the net and in the scrimmage Klein picked up the puck and shot it over the forward's body and past Gardiner, who couldn't make a move. Burke also drew an assist on the play.

The Americans' third line scored on a surprising play in the third period. Conn made a fast rush across the goal mouth but Goldsworthy carried him beyond it. Gardiner moved far out to the side to watch the play, and when a wild pass rolled in front of the cage Burke had only to flip it behind the goalie's back into the empty net.

Tom Cook finally scored for the Hawks after a long and persistent attack. Trudel took the puck down the center and left it when he hit the defense. Cook, trailing him, picked up the disc and slapped a high hard shot into the upper corner of the cage. The shot came from halfway out to the blue line and Worters didn't have much chance as his view was partly obstructed by the three players in front of him.

DUKELSKY MEETS PHAGAN MAR. 12 IN MARIGOLD RING

Solly to Begin Training This Week.

The twice postponed eight round bout between Johnny Phagan and Solly Duklesky, Chicago middleweights, at Marigold Gardens will be presented on March 12. This was announced yesterday. Dukelsky, who was forced to request the two postponements, will begin training next week.

Two matches have been arranged for Harry Dublinsky, local welterweight, within a week of each other. Next Tuesday Dublinsky will face Eddie (Kid) Wolfe for ten rounds at Memphis, Tenn., and on March 5 he opposes Eddie Flynn, former Olympic champion, at New Orleans, La.

Young Terry, Davenport, Ia., lightweight, will arrive today for his six round main event against Frank Sigilo of the west side at Cicero Stadium Friday. Terry, whose right name is Terry Stanton, fought a ten round no decision battle with Henry Rothier at Davenport and then whipped Maxie Strub at Louisville in his latest appearance.

Allen Matthews vs. Hugh Gray [10].
Clem Reed vs. Earl Taylor [10].
Carl Martin vs. Albert Moke [6].

Jackie Ausborn, Birmingham, Ala., welterweight, and Mickey O'Shea, north side, will meet for the second time Monday at Marigold Gardens in a five round semi-windup. . . . George Nichols, former light heavyweight title holder, and Harry English are paired for 10 rounds at Cleveland, O., Monday. . . . Al Stillman, St. Louis 175 pounder, faces Pietro Corri at Peoria Friday.

Ernie Maurer, Detroit featherweight, meets Boby Leitham of Montreal in a 10 round bout at Detroit tonight. . . . The Architects' club of Chicago will offer a boxing card at its clubrooms, 1801 South Prairie avenue, Friday night. . . . Zack Malkov, Rogers Park wrestler, has signed to appear in a supporting bout on the Fred Kohler-Johnny Meyers card next Wednesday at the Rainbo Fronton.

BROWNS' DEAL ON MILWAUKEE CLUB CALLED OFF

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 20.—The deal between a Milwaukee syndicate headed by Rudolf Hokanson and the St. Louis American league baseball club for the purchase of the Milwaukee American association club was called off today. Failure of the Browns to give the syndicate the guarantees it demanded caused the cancellation of negotiations.

"We did not want to become involved in lawsuits and the Browns refuse to protect us by posting the necessary indemnity bonds," Hokanson said.

Hokanson sought a release from the twenty year contract on Borchert field, home of the Brewers. Hokanson planned to build a new park within five years.

JESS HAINES AND BURLEIGH GRIMES SIGN CONTRACTS

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 20.—(AP)—Forty year old Jess Haines, "feeling better than in years" today named his own salary for 1934 and immediately signed a contract with the St. Louis Cardinals. Haines last year had an earned run average of 2.50 per nine innings, the best of his career.

Arriving from his home in Ohio, Haines, at the request of Vice President Branch Rickey, named his own salary. Then he received permission to carry out his own plans for getting into condition.

The Cardinals' other 40 year old pitcher, Burleigh Grimes, also signed his 1934 contract today. He departed tonight for Hot Springs, where he will take preliminary training for three weeks.

WEDELL WINS FINAL AIR RACE AT NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, La., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—Jimmy Wedell, Louisiana pilot, won the final event in the Pan-American air races this afternoon, driving his plane 210.8 miles an hour over a 30 mile course. Wedell was awarded $630 of the $1,400 purse. Gordon Israel was second and Lee Miles third.

Do You Remember Way Back When:

We kids back in 1888 had our own political rallies and marched to drum and horns shouting "Hurrah for Harrison! He's the man! If we can't vote, our daddies can"?—Florence C. Nelson, Aurora, Ill.

Jocky Club Answers Race Track Critic

New York, Feb. 20.—(AP)—William E. Woodward, chairman of the Jocky club, tonight fired the club's first broadside in the controversy stirred by Senator John J. Dunnigan's criticism of horse racing as it is conducted under Jocky club jurisdiction in this state.

Woodward replied on behalf of the Jocky club to what he termed Senator Dunnigan's "violent and abusive" attack in the state senate at Albany last night.

To the senator's charge that the real reason for lack of support of racing is "the mismanagement and inattention of the officers of the Jocky club," Woodward declared he never had been "associated with a body of officers who give more faithful and detailed service to their duties than the stewards of the Jocky club."

Raps Betting System.

"The true reasons," his statement said, "for the lack of support are the country-wide depression and an unsatisfactory form of betting, whereby the average man is handicapped in doing what he wishes to do, namely, bet.

"The senator refers to the use of narcotics. This is an evil which the public knows has existed for many years. The Jocky club has steadily, actively and with determination endeavored to eradicate this evil. It rejoices that the narcotics bureau is active in this matter, and the Jocky club has for a long time worked harmoniously with and persistently aided the bureau officials in their work. The use of drugs in stimulating horses is forbidden, and for that act the Jocky club punishes by expulsion from the turf. This policy will be drastically continued.

Report Called Misleading.

"The senator asserts that more than 100 of the owners and trainers have pleaded guilty to 'doping' horses. If this be true it may interest him to know that there has not been one arrest by the bureau for practices of this nature on tracks under jurisdiction of the Jocky club."

Senator Dunnigan, in refusing to accept the report of the state racing commission, declared it was misleading as to racing conditions. He said a disclosure of the names of men he had known to be involved in racing irregularities would forever destroy public confidence in the sport.

The racing commission report said the sport needed legalized betting to restore it to its feet.

ELMIRA, N. Y., IS INVITED TO PLAY IN LOYOLA MEET

Catholic High school of Elmira, N. Y., champion of the New York-Pennsylvania Catholic High School league, yesterday was the second team invited to compete in the National Catholic Interscholastic basketball tournament, to be held at Loyola university from March 21 to 25.

The Elmira team has won 11 and lost two, both defeats by one point, and is rated as the outstanding team of southern New York in many years. The players are unusually big for a high school team, averaging more than six feet. The tallest man on the club is Joe Byrne, center, 6 feet 7½ inches. Lynch and Ferris, the regular forwards, are both 6 feet 2 inches.

Blaik to Meet Chicago Dartmouth Alumni Today

Earl [Red] Blaik, newly appointed head coach of football at Dartmouth, will be in Chicago today to meet members of the local alumni. There will be an informal reception for him at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the University club.

Chicago Sox Win 16-12 Lacrosse League Game

The Chicago Sox lacrosse team defeated their city rivals, the Blue Ribbons, 16 to 12, at the Dexter Park pavilion last night. De Gray and Davidson starred for the Sox, the former scoring five goals and Davidson contributing four.

Curacao, Hot Favorite, Is Last at Hialeah

J. E. Smallman's Golden Fate finished third. Flying Sailor covered the seven furlongs in 1:23 3-5 and paid $14.80 in the $2 straight mutuels.

Ridden by Jocky Mayne Wright, Flying Sailor was second behind Curacao at the start of the race. Flying Sailor went to the front as Curacoa slipped back. Quel Jeu then forced the winner to extend himself, but he never threatened seriously.

WESTROPE RIDES WINNER

New Orleans, La., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—Jack Westrope, leading jocky in 1933, rode Hickory Lad to victory in the Audebon purse at the Fair Grounds today. Cursor was second by two lengths and Hooky finished third. Hickory Lad ran the mile in 1:41 1-5.

During this afternoon's races officials of the Crescent Jocky club announced that starting next week there will be no more racing on Mondays. The Sunday charity programs will continue.

RENNER, MICHIGAN STAR, TO UNDERGO APPENDECTOMY

Ann Arbor, Mich., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—Bill Renner, Michigan quarter back and passer during most of the 1933 football season, will undergo an operation for appendicitis at Youngstown, O., his home city, Wednesday, it was learned here today. Renner has suffered chronic attacks over the last few years.

He is expected to be available for duty next fall but will be absent from spring football practice here.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The quaintly wrinkled ears of James Browning will bloom in the Chicago Stadium, the temple of all that is sacred in wrestling, for the first time tonight when he meets Joseph Stecher with what is reputed to be the most varied assortment of scissors holds in present day grappling. Mr. Browning's well turned ears have not blossomed in these parts since last April, when he dropped into the Coliseum of an evening and demonstrated why he is the heavyweight champion of the world by attending to Ed Lewis, the old Strangler himself.

JIM BROWNING.

There are those who overlooked James' only other Chicago recital who will question his claims to the crown, your true Chicago wrestling patron having been long accustomed to recognizing another James, Londos by name, as the king. The pity of the situation is that a majority of these same devotees have not troubled to go into the pages of the Almanach de Gotha of wrestling, for Mr. Browning comes by his title legitimately, at least in the commonwealths of New York and California, both of them crediting him with being the monarch while looking upon Londos as a pretender.

Hears of Bonanza.

Until a few years ago Mr. Browning was just a big, strong, Missouri farmer, for whom the business of tilling the south forty yielded nothing much more than food. Then he heard of the wondrous wealth contained in wrapping your legs around a fellow citizen's head or withers for the entertainment of as many other fellow citizens as cared to witness the feat. He succumbed, and in no time at all was making himself well and favorably known around New York.

One night they threw him into the arena with the old Strangler, and he amazed one and all by throwing that party for a decided loss, the loss including the championship of the world, at least as far as New York was concerned. This came about at a time when it was generally agreed that Lewis and Londos each held at least a 50 per cent share in the title. When Browning did away with the Strangler it was quite evident that he took over Lewis' 50 per cent, depending upon where he was wrestling. Jim made sure of this here last year by repeating the performance against the Strangler at the Coliseum.

Stecher an Ex-King.

Mr. Browning thus having been identified, it might be well to go into the history of Mr. Stecher, who is no peasant of wrestling himself. If you will delve into the pages of the Burke's Peerage of grappling, you will find that Joseph also is of a royal strain, having sat upon the throne on two different occasions.

Stecher continues to be one of the enigmas of wrestling, having survived all of the modes from the bone crushing days of 15 years ago, when a holt was a holt, unto the modern stage, where dramatic expression and voice culture have become well nigh indispensable. And by the way, Joe has proved himself highly adept in all departments, winning the title from Earl Caddock and Stanislaus Zbyszko, and then continuing to win his share of matches, come collegians or crooners.

Each a Scissors Expert.

It so happens that this evening's entertainment will bring together the two foremost practitioners of the deadly scissors hold. Joe made his mark when he perfected the original scissors, which consists of twining your limbs about your opponent's person and applying sufficient pressure to suffocate him. Browning went even further and improved this work of art to such a point that it requires a blueprint to explain it, so intricate is James' conception of the hold. Strangler Lewis and Joe Savoldi are the two outstanding victims of the Browning masterpiece.

HYDE PARK TO DEFEND Y. M. C. A. WRESTLING TITLE

Hyde Park Y. M. C. A. will defend its championship of Chicago tonight at 53rd and Dorchester, against Lawson Y. M. C. A. and Duncan Y. M. C. A. The Hyde Park wrestlers, who hold city, state and national championships must defeat all challengers to retain their title, in the regular season, by edict of the Y Wrestling committee.

Drop Shooting Charges Against Mrs. Mangrum

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 20.—(AP)—Mrs. Billie Mangrum charged with shooting and wounding her husband, Ray Mangrum, professional golfer, was freed of felony assault charges today because investigators could find no conclusive proof she fired the shots. Mangrum had declined to testify. The shooting occurred several weeks ago in their apartment.

BEARS TAKE UP BASKETBALL; TO PLAY ALL-STARS

Eight members of the Chicago Bears, champions of the National Pro Football league, yesterday were named to play basketball against an all-star Chicago team at the Rainbo Fronton tomorrow night. All have had basketball experience in high school or college.

Bill Hewitt, star end, was a guard on the University of Michigan quintet and more noted as a basketball player than as a football star in his prep school days.

Joe Zeller was a star guard a few years ago at Indiana. Ed Kawal played with the Morton High school team which won the national prep title at the University of Chicago. He later was a star at Penn Military school and in the Knights of Columbus league. Gene Ronzani was a guard in his collegiate days at Marquette.

The others, including Paul Franklin, George Muzzo, Cliff Battles and Carl Brumbaugh are more than tyros when it comes to basketball.

BEG YOUR PARDON

The score of the St. Ambrose-Marquette university basketball game, which appeared as St. Ambrose, 26; Marquette, 23, in Tuesday's TRIBUNE, was erroneous. The game was won by Marquette, 23 to 20.

Talking It Over

BY ARCH WARD.

CHARLIE GRIMM, manager of the Cubs, is a real German. . . . He makes his own sausage during the winter. . . . Henry P. Edwards, named Horsepower by the late Charles Dryden, has temporarily abandoned publicizing the American league to enjoy a vacation at Phoenix, Ariz. . . . King Levinsky is to receive a guarantee of $10,000 from Walter Neusel, who will get 50 per cent of the net, for his bout in New York March 9. . . . Neusel paid Ray Impellittiere $5,000 for a match recently and he received only $3.19 for himself. . . . To make his suffering complete he lost the decision, too. . . . Hank Bruder, former Northwestern football player, who is now a member of the Green Bay Packers, drives a truck between Green Bay and Chicago in the off season. . . .

A Wisconsin football team received an inspiring telegram before an important game a few years ago. . . . It was signed O'Dea and emanated in Los Angeles. . . . Badger officials tried to trace its sender, in the hope that it might have been the immortal Pat, but to no avail. . . . It's tough to be a champion. . . . Ralph Metcalfe, Marquette sprinter, ran the 60 yard dash in 6.3 seconds a week or two ago, which is only a tenth of a second behind the world's record, and the headlines next morning read "Slow Time." . . . The son of Bud Teachout, former Cub southpaw, who was born last November, has been named Delano. . . . Paddy Hennelly, Ireland's amateur middleweight boxing champion, who was seriously injured trying to save a little girl from death under an automobile's wheels, is out of the hospital and is hopeful that he soon will be back in the ring. . . . He expects to compete with the Irish team against Norway soon. . . . He was defeated by Fred Caserio of Chicago in the international bouts at Soldiers' field last August. . . .

Frankie Frisch, manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, in discussing the practice of tipping off the batsman on the catcher's signal to the pitcher, recently recalled how he was cured. . . . His coach had flashed him that Tony Kaufmann was about to serve him a fast one straight down the alley. . . . "I took a toehold and Tony hit me right between the eyes with a curve—O my, O my!" concluded Frankie. . . . Incidentally, it was at Frisch that Guy Bush of the Cubs once threw four straight bean balls. . . . Frankie never has forgotten this record for persistence. . . . Link Lyman, Bears' tackle, told west coast people this probably was his last year in professional football. . . . He is thinking about working his ranch in western Nebraska, but if George Halas books a Honolulu trip for the Bears next winter, as now seems probable, Lyman may stick with the club. . . .

The Hollywood Legion arena, capacity 4,200, turns 'em away from the Legion fight shows every Friday night, while the crowds at the Olympic auditorium in Los Angeles, capacity 10,400, consists chiefly of ushers at more expensive and less frequent attractions. . . . The Hollywood attendance has boomed ever since a well known comedian socked a well known scandal monger at one of the fights some weeks ago. . . . Then there's the fact that Mae West is there in the flesh at every show. . . . Jess Roces of Notre Dame, who will compete for the Golden Gloves flyweight title at Chicago Stadium next week, is a native Hawaiian. . . . Franklin K. Gowdy, captain of the University of Chicago football team in 1924, the last Maroon eleven to win the Big Ten title, is a student at Rush Medical college. . . .

Nels Stewart of the Boston Bruins hocky team twice has won the David A. Hart trophy for being voted the player of most value to his club. . . . Al Blumenfeld, Michigan shot putter, was a sprinter in high school. . . . Fat Windecker, Wisconsin's giant freshman football linesman, guards the home of Leo T. Crowley, head of the governor's executive council. . . . Windecker lives in Oak Park.

Ten years ago today—Joe Tierney, Holy Cross runner, broke the world's 500 yard record in the annual track meet of the New York A. C. . . . Robert Cannefax of Detroit set a world's record by running 50 three cushion billiards in 23 innings. . . . Sammy Mandell was forced to cancel his bout with Mickey O'Dowd because of boils. . . . Harry Kaskey of Chicago was leading all rivals for the international ice skating championship at Lake Placid. . . . Rogers Hornsby and Branch Rickey patched up their differences. . . . Young Stribling signed to meet Mike McTigue in New York.

Caserio Goes After Golden Glove Tonight

Freddy Caserio, 1933 International Golden Gloves middleweight champion, finished training yesterday at Trafton's gymnasium by going two rounds with Frank Sigillo, in preparation for his first bout tonight at White City in the south side sectional Golden Gloves tournament.

"I believe I'm better now than I was a year ago," Caserio told a group of his friends who watched him finish drill.

All Sidney Jarzynski, a farmhand at Fox River Grove, Ill., needed to win his first three matches was a heavy beard similar to that of Jack Dempsey, former world's heavyweight boxing champion. For every one of Jarzynski's opponents failed to appear on schedule and the farmer boy won from each by default.

Jarzynski, a welterweight who won a contest and then was eliminated in the tryouts at White City last year, was awarded default victories over Charles Himber, C. Y. O., and John Simpson, unattached, Monday, and over Morell Scheid, unattached, last night.

Two failed to pass the physical examinations last night. John Coleman, open middleweight, was rejected because of a boil on his chest. Frank Zels, novice heavyweight, was the other.

Bernie Bowman, who plays center on the Roosevelt High school football team, qualified for the tournament of champions in the open heavyweight class. Bowman, 205 pounds, was eliminated in novice semi-finals last year. At the time he weighed 183.

Frank Baer, Belle Plaine Athletic club heavyweight, is no relation to the heavyweight contender, Max Baer, but he appeared to punch just as hard as his namesake against Mike Murphy of Loyola university, whom he stopped in the second round.

GOLDEN GLOVES CONTINUE ON 2 FRONTS TONIGHT

two bouts so impressively on Monday night that the crowd, which for two nights has packed the arena, had just about come to the conclusion he was the sure winner of the welterweight title.

Leszar Wins Over Size.

Yet when he faced Rudolph Leszar it was evident early that he had met his master. Size fought the gamest kind of a fight but made no progress after Leszar started his whirlwind attack in the last round.

For the crowd the most thrilling struggle was the middleweight clash which brought Erik Hanson, a telegraph messenger boy, out for a skirmish with Elmer Powell, a Negro lad who is built somewhat along the lines of Harry Wills.

Powell floored Hanson for a nine count in the first round and mauled him all about the ring in the second. Few expected Hanson to come up for the third session. He did come up, however, and a minute after the third round started he had Powell stretched out on the canvas. The Negro boy was down for the full count.

The students from Northwestern lifted a mighty cheer for Sinco when he scored his knockout. They thought it was time for a bit of noisy howling. Earlier in the evening they had watched William Nott, captain of the Northwestern boxing team, beaten by a narrow margin by Nestor Bruggman, the C. Y. O. welterweight runnerup. Their three rounds brought out just about the most skilful boxing of the north section meet.

TELLS HOW TEN AGED WOMEN DIED IN FIRE

Victims All Trapped in Their Beds.

Brookville, Pa., Feb. 20.—[Special.]—An investigation into the fire in which 10 aged women were burned to death when the wooden infirmary of the Pennsylvania memorial home was swept by flames early today has been ordered.

All were trapped in their beds and unable to move as the flames, starting in the washroom, spread through the ancient building which burned with the speed of a tinder box. It was smoldering debris within an hour after the fire was discovered at midnight by Night Nurse Ella Hulings.

Five Are Rescued.

Five other infirmary patients, able to walk, tottered out of the building into an 8 below zero temperature under Miss Hulings' guidance. They were taken to the main building of the home.

Attendants of the home and neighbors, led by Miss Hulings and Nelson Mather, another employé, made valiant efforts to fight their way into the rooms where the 10 other women were trapped. They were blocked by walls of flame which shot out from all four sides of the frame structure.

Miss Hulings, after helping the five women out of the infirmary, tried to call the fire department from the infirmary phone but found its wires already burned.

In less than an hour after the fire fighters arrived the building was in ashes.

Eye Witnesses' Story.

An eye witness of the fire told of attempts to rescue the trapped women and how two youths aided Miss Hulings in getting the others out.

"Right after I heard the whistles I ran to the home," he said. "There were several young fellows there, and they had brought two old ladies out.

"We broke a window, but the smoke was so dense you couldn't see a thing. We finally found one woman and brought her out. She wasn't crying; she just said, 'Where am I.'

"No one in the building was making any noise. There wasn't any screaming. To tell the truth, the smoke was so dense I think they were all dead before the fire got to them.

SEES 50 MILLIONS FOR NEW YORK BY HIS LOTTERY PLAN

New York, Feb. 20.—[Special.]—A proposition to petition the state legislature to allow the city of New York to go into the lottery business—with a view of raising $50,000,000 in new revenues by that means—was submitted to the board of aldermen today by Ald. Elias Jacobs of Manhattan.

Another fusion alderman, Morton Baum, favored a tax on vending machines. A tax of a penny a day on each of the 40,000 penny machines, proportionately higher on nickel, dime and quarter machines vending anything from gum to canned goods, would raise a total of $1,000,000.

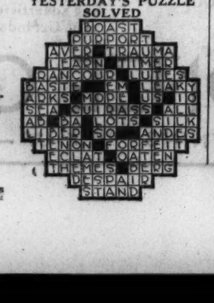
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: "Daddy" Bountiful

U. S. AGAIN LIFTS BAR TO AMERICAN TYPE LIQUORS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—(AP)—For the second time the federal alcohol control administration has opened the door to American-type rye and bourbon whiskies, hoping for importation of a large quantity of the liquors known to be on hand in foreign countries.

This, the administration said tonight, should reduce prices to consumers, curtail bootleg operations and liquor smuggling from Mexico and "facilitate the efforts of the state monopolies to stock their numerous stores with a good type of whiskies."

The new order will let any holder of an alcoholic beverage importing permit bring in any quantity of the whiskies from any country for resale to rectifiers for blending. It will be effective until April 1, covering importations in bottles for sale to consumer as well as bulk whisky.

Large quantities, the administration said, are on hand in Canada and British Honduras and smaller amounts in Mexico, Germany and Cuba.

COURT UPHOLDS PICKETING BY THE EMPLOYERS

Cleveland, O., Feb. 20.—(AP)—An economic weapon heretofore recognized as belonging principally to labor unions now is recognized by Common Pleas Judge George B. Harris as being a right of a trade association, in a case involving the national industrial recovery act.

In a written opinion Judge Harris upheld the right of a trade association to picket in a peaceful manner a firm which has cut prices below those set by the "proper code authority."

The opinion was handed down in connection with the dissolution of a temporary restraining order which had prevented the Retail Cleaners and Tailors association of Cleveland from continuance of its picket activities at the Park Avenue cleaners.

HIRAM GLEASON, LAKE CO. PIONEER, KILLED BY TRAIN

Hiram Gleason, 86 years old, a resident of Lake county for more than 70 years, was killed yesterday morning when he was struck by a Soo line freight train while taking his daily walk a few hundred feet from his home in Prairie View. Mr. Gleason was deaf and apparently did not hear the whistling of the train as it bore down upon him while he strolled on the tracks. He is survived by his daughter, Mrs. Thomas Lynch, who lived with him in Prairie View. Mr. Gleason was a retired farmer.

COLLEGE TO GET $80,000 LEFT BY WILLIAM AUSTIN

The late William B. Austin, Chicago mortgage banker, left charitable bequests amounting to $80,000, which ultimately will be given to Wabash college at Crawfordsville, Ind. This was disclosed yesterday when his will was admitted to probate after it was filed with Mitchell C. Robin, clerk of the Probate court. Mr. Austin's estate was valued at $105,000.

The will created $10,000 trust funds for Mr. Austin's daughter, Mrs. Virginia A. Hill of Cleveland, O., and for his secretary, Miss Elizabeth Norman. They will receive the incomes from these funds during their lifetimes and at their deaths the principal will be given to their heirs.

Four other trusts were created by the will. Three of these were for $5,000 each, the incomes of which will be given to the Presbyterian church, the Christian Science church, and the Jasper County hospital of Rensselaer, Ind. The fourth consists of the residual estate, the income of which will be given to Mrs. Hill during her life. At Mrs. Hill's death all four of these trusts will be terminated and the principal, estimated at $80,000 by attorneys, will be given outright to the college.

Mr. Austin was 74 years old when he died last Feb. 9 at Hollywood Beach, Cal. Before his retirement from business Mr. Austin lived at 1245 Astor street.

Three other wills were filed yesterday. They were those of:

Margaret Freytag, died Dec. 21, 1933. Estate, $6,000, to a son and three daughters, Selma Freytag Pendery, a daughter, and Walter R. Freytag, a son, are co-executors.

Garrett Fitzgibbon, died Jan. 3, 1934. Estate, $10,500, to his widow and three nephews. Sophia Fitzgibbon, the widow, is executrix.

Harry C. Lawson, died Feb. 13, 1934. Estate, $29,000, to a son and two daughters. Edward M. Ruud is executor.

GIRL IS KILLED AS AUTO SKIDS AND HITS POST

Miss Sarah L. Mullin, 18 years old, 7013 Yale avenue, was fatally injured early today when an automobile in which she was riding swerved from the street and crashed into a post at 63d and Wood streets. She died in the Evangelical Deaconess hospital.

In the same accident Miss Eleanor Johnson, 29 years old, 6101 South Green street, suffered a fractured skull. Edward Johnson, 1433 West 72d street, and Edwin Meyers, 1424 West 72d street, who were in the car, escaped injury.

The death of Miss Mullin increased the Cook county motor toll since Jan. 1 to 180.

John A. Sutherland, 26 years old, 942 Washington boulevard, Oak Park, was injured early today when his car was struck by a Burlington freight train on the Harlem avenue crossing in Berwyn. At the Berwyn hospital it was said his hurts were not serious.

RITES FRIDAY FOR JANE B. ABBOTT, HYMN COMPOSER

Funeral services for Mrs. Jane Bingham Abbott, church song composer and great-great-granddaughter of Gen. Rufus Putnam, revolutionary war hero, will be held at 2 p. m. Friday afternoon at the home of her son, Dr. Donald P. Abbott of 5600 Kimbark avenue. Mrs. Abbott's body will be cremated.

Mrs. Abbott, wife of the late Charles Fuller Abbott, died in her home at 5722 Kenwood avenue early yesterday morning. She was 83 years old. While still a young woman Mrs. Abbott, descendant of a long line of ministers, turned her talent for musical composition to writing sacred songs and hymns. Among her church songs which are sung the world over are "Just for Today," "Alone with God," and "Song of Hope."

Louis Benton of Aurora, Druggist 30 Years, Dies

Louis Benton, Aurora druggist for more than 30 years, died in his home at 141 South Fordham avenue in that city last evening after a heart attack. He was 60 years old. His widow, Mrs. Mary Benton, and a daughter, Mrs. Paul H. Muenzbergh of Milwaukee, survive. Funeral services will be held today from an Aurora chapel. He will be buried at Kanesville, Ill.

LA GUARDIA HOLDS HEALTH LAWS TO BE HOTEL STRIKE CLUB

New York, Feb. 20.—[Special.]—Mayor F. H. La Guardia today threatened to invoke the health laws against the hotels which do not keep their agreement with the waiter strikers.

"If they fail to assist in the solution of this very vexing problem they will have to take the responsibility," he said, "and the mayor will act to protect the public."

Asked what steps he would take Mr. La Guardia said:

"We'll cross that bridge when we come to it." Then he added: "Why in one hotel alone we found twenty violations. We're not going to allow the hotels to endanger the health of the public."

The conditions he referred to, he said, were created by the abnormal circumstances growing out of the strike.

William Joseph Sullivan, Former Chicagoan, Dies

Columbus, O., Feb. 20.—(AP)—William Joseph Sullivan, 65 years old, supreme secretary of the United Commercial Travelers of America, died in a hospital here today after an operation. He also was a past supreme counselor of the order. Before 1927 Mr. Sullivan was western sales manager of the Providence, R. I., Soap Preparation company, with offices in Chicago.

IOWA SCHOOLS AND CHURCHES, MISSIONS SHARE MAYTAG CASH

Newton, Ia., Feb. 20.—(AP)—Bequests of more than $165,000 to religious and educational institutions were contained in the will of Mrs. Dena B. Maytag, filed in District court here today.

The largest bequests, of $25,000, were made to the board of foreign missions of the Presbyterian church, and the American Home Finding association of Ottumwa, Ia.

Institutions receiving $20,000 are the Christian Home of Council Bluffs, the board of home missions of the Presbyterian church, and Dubuque university.

The Omaha Theological seminary will receive $15,000 and bequests of $10,000 will go to the American Tract society of New York, Hastings college of Hastings, Neb., and Parsons college of Fairfield, Ia.

Gifts of $5,000 were made to Coe college of Cedar Rapids and the Missionary tabernacle of Indianapolis, Ind.

CUSACK QUITS AS AN ATTORNEY IN CRASH CASE

Attorney John Cusack yesterday announced his withdrawal as counsel for Mrs. Blossom Howard, 2000 Lincoln Park West, who is charged with driving an automobile while intoxicated. The charge grew out of an accident last December in which Prof. Garrett H. Leverton of Northwestern university was seriously injured when Mrs. Howard's car crashed into his.

A continuance was granted in the case on Monday after it was learned that Judge Nuncio J. Bonelli of the Traffic court, before whom the matter was pending, had departed on a sudden trip to Arizona. Seventeen prosecution witnesses who were in court for the hearing lost a half day from their jobs because of the continuance.

Attorney Cusack, who is associated in law practice with his brother, Ald James Cusack [5th], said he had been called into the case Monday noon without previous notice. When he heard reports that a ward committeeman had promised to "fix" the case for Mrs. Howard he immediately withdrew so that no reflection would be cast on his brother, he declared.

He said he had not previously known Mrs. Howard and had known nothing about the case until another lawyer, who was unable to be in court, asked him to appear and request a continuance.

Rites for Rabbi Enelow Who Died at Sea to Be Held Here

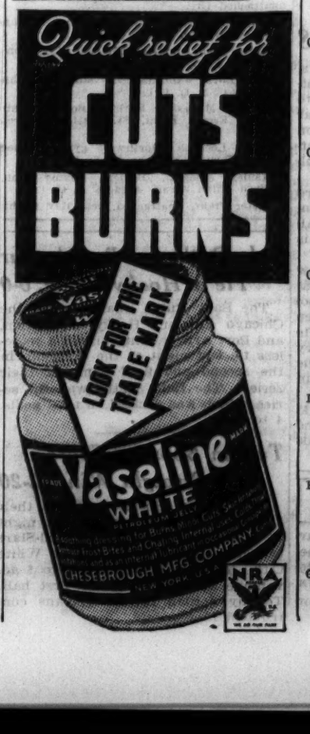
New York, Feb. 20.—(AP)—The body of the Rev. Dr. Hyman Gerson Enelow, for twenty-two years a rabbi of the Congregation Emanu-El, was brought here today on the liner Majestic and sent to Chicago, where a private funeral will be held Thursday. Dr. Enelow, one of the outstanding scholars in the American rabbinate, died Feb. 6 at the age of 56 aboard the liner Empress of Australia near Madeira.

Emmett J. Welch, Noted Minstrel, Is Dead at 54

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 20.—(AP)—Emmett J. Welch, noted minstrel, came home today to die at the scene of his first triumphs. The famed trouper was brought more than 100 miles by ambulance over snow covered roads from Gettysburg and died three hours after arriving at his Philadelphia home. He was 54.

F. H. Newcomb, Veteran of '65 and '98, Dies in West

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 20.—(AP)—Frank Hamilton Newcomb, 88, veteran of naval encounters in both the civil and Spanish-American wars and a winner of the congressional medal of honor in the latter, died here last night. He had retired from the United States coast guard with the rank of commodore.



DENIES PERKINS STORY OF WIDE MALNUTRITION

U. S. Health Best Ever, Dr. Goldberg Says.

New York, Feb. 20.—[Special.]—Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins' recent statement in New York that six million American children were suffering from malnutrition was challenged this afternoon by Dr. Benjamin Goldberg of Chicago, tuberculosis specialist and associate professor in medicine at the University of Illinois college of medicine.

Dr. Goldberg asserted in a discussion of "Food for the Tuberculous" before the annual tuberculosis clinic and sanatorium service at the Hotel McAlpin that he doubted the accuracy of the secretary's statistics.

"If the honorable secretary of labor is correct in her statement," he told the assembled medical group, "she is condemning the government she is serving and that government should be immediately taken to task. Billions of dollars have been expended by federal and local agencies in relief, a considerable portion of which has gone into foodstuffs. Science today has given information as to those combinations of foodstuffs essential to the maintenance of good nutrition."

BLACK URGES 12 U. S. BANKS TO AID INDUSTRY

Hopes Thus to Spur Private Lending.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—Declaring that any real business recovery must be financed by private credit and not by government easy money doles, bankers and business men today laid before the Roosevelt administration a two-fold plan for releasing billions of dollars in credit as a prelude to increased business and employment.

Federal help, both financial and legislative, will be needed, however, to set private credit in motion, according to the plan as outlined by Gov. Eugene R. Black of the federal reserve board.

Propose 12 New Discount Banks.

First move on the part of the government is the proposed creation of 12 new discount banks, with capital probably furnished by the treasury, designed to make loans on commercial paper ineligible for rediscount by the federal reserve banks because of its longer maturity. The new banks, it is planned, will be housed in the same buildings as those occupied by the federal reserve banks. With their help it is hoped that private banks will resume the extension of credit to smaller industries.

Second is the proposed liberalization of the federal securities act in the expectation that a relaxation of its strict provisions will permit the larger industries to float stocks and bonds.

Fighting to preserve banking free from government dictation or competition, the backers of the plan, including Gov. Black, who is now leader of the conservatives within the administration, are emphatic that private lending must replace government easy money if normal prosperity is to return.

Plan Answers Radicals.

The plan is regarded here as the conservatives' answer to recent suggestions by Prof. Raymond Moley and other radical advisers to the President that the government must take over the banks or increase the volume of government loans.

Gov. Black today lined up behind his plan the federal reserve advisory council, a body of bankers and business men made up from every section of the country. Meeting with the federal reserve board the council authorized Gov. Black to say that it believed relaxation of the securities act and establishment of the 12 new banks were both necessary to recovery.

Bankers and business men in unusual numbers called at the White House and treasury department today, each urging the plan for freeing private credit. Many of them declared that business already had taken an upward turn and that banks were beginning to loosen up with their credit.

Report Business Improvement.

The federal reserve advisory council, through Gov. Black, announced that it found real business improvement throughout the country and that some banks were instructing their officers to extend to business longer term loans than are usual.

Henry I. Harriman, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, after discussing revision of the securities act with President Roosevelt, declared, "There is every evidence of greater business activity than we have had in the past; it has been steadily upward for the last three or four months."

Francis M. Law, president of the American Bankers' association, also a White House caller today, said:

"I told the President that business men are attacking their problems with renewed confidence and are looking forward to profits this year. The banks are getting back to a more normal lending policy."

Urge Helping Industry.

To hasten the business upswing the government should help small businesses to borrow capital and help large industries by relaxing the penalties of the securities act, according to Gov. Black. Both these moves, he said, would revive heavy industries in which six million people depend for employment.

Revision of the securities act, Gov. Black indicated, might be confined to reducing the penalties which it prescribes for any errors on the part of concerns selling stocks or bonds.

Establishment of the 12 new banks to help secure capital for small industries would be in the nature of setting up a new federal reserve system for the discounting of longer term loans than the present system can handle, Gov. Black indicated. The new banks would be owned, probably, by the government. They would lend both directly to business or to any bank making long term business loans.

During its meeting the federal advisory council adopted a memorial on the death of Melvin A. Traylor, who represented the Chicago district on the council and whose place has not yet been filled.

U. S. Spends 4 Billions in 7½ Months

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—Government expenditures for the present fiscal year passed the 4 billion dollar mark on Feb. 17 in their swift movement toward the estimated total outlay of 11 billion 57 million dollars for the year ending June 30, according to figures of the treasury department today. However, the biggest spending of the government probably will be inaugurated with the opening of extensive outdoor work in March.

Expenditures on Feb. 17 had aggregated $4,034,245,000, an increase of 826 millions over the corresponding period in the preceding fiscal year. Of the total $2,261,674,000 were made up of emergency expenditures designed to promote the recovery program. That compared with $643,619,000 in July 1-Feb. 17 period of the preceding fiscal year. Reflecting the efforts of the government toward economy, ordinary expenditures were $1,772,571,000 on Feb. 17, compared with $2,564,496,000 over the same period of the year before.

RFC Chief Beneficiary.

The chief item of emergency expenditure was the disbursement of $1,165,168,000 from the Reconstruction Finance corporation. Other large items were: Civil works administration, $360,035,000; public highways construction, $151,047,000; administration of emergency conservation work, $200,414,000; agricultural adjustment corporation, $55,280,000; subscription to stock in the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation, $96,484,000.

Due to heavy profits in gold and greatly increased miscellaneous internal revenue receipts, total income of the government for the July 1-Feb. 17 period amounted to $4,635,951,000, compared with $1,212,984,000 the year before.

The government's surplus, which arose from the gold profits up to Feb. 17, amounting to $2,807,543,000, was $601,705,000, compared with $973,716,000 on Feb. 1.

The public debt on Feb. 17, totaled $25,218,120,000, compared with $20,937,742,000 a year earlier. The debt increased $2,679,447,000 from July 1. According to the estimates, the increase for the year will amount to $7,309,000,000, or an outstanding debt of about $29,000,000,000 by June 30.

More Securities Issued.

So far this year the treasury has issued $8,017,709,000 in new securities, compared with $5,539,527,000 for the same period last year, while maturities have been $5,338,262,000 compared with $4,088,787,000. The principal issues have been $2,081,906,000 in treasury bills, $1,695,150,000 in certificates of indebtedness, $881,966,000 in notes and $2,291,721,000 in bonds. Retirements included $2,455,730,000 in bills, $1,655,096,000 in certificates and $900,698,000 in Fourth Liberty bonds.

Since the treasury on Feb. 17 had a cash balance of $4,213,574,000, it is not expected that there will be additional financing with the exception of bills prior to March 15, when an issue of $460,099,000 in ¾ per cent certificates falls due. At that time, a large issue is anticipated possibly running more than a billion dollars for new money. The June 15 maturity is $174,905,400 in ¼ per cent certificates.

NEW BANK CHIEFS STAGE 'AT-HOME' FOR VISITORS

Mr. Oleson was confined to his home with a cold Monday, the day of the election, but was on the job yesterday. A steady stream of visitors passed through the flower decked offices of the two executives offering felicitations. Veterans of many years' standing in the First National's organization, their elections were warmly received by other officers and employés.

First National stock showed a flourish of strength yesterday following the elections, reaching a high price of 138. Closing quotations of 128-130 were little changed for the day.

TREASURY NOTES OF 847 MILLIONS ARE ALLOTTED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—Final allocations of the treasury's recent offering of notes dated Feb. 19, announced today by Secretary Morgenthau, showed $418,291,700 of the 2½ per cent issue maturing Dec. 15, 1935, and $428,730,700 of the 3 per cent issue maturing Feb. 15, 1937, will be issued.

Subscriptions for the 22 months offering amounted to $1,332,409,900 and that for three years to $2,235,764,500. In the Chicago federal reserve district subscriptions on the short term issue were $215,631,200 and the allocation was $69,275,200. On the other issues the subscriptions were $241,627,400 and the allocation was $48,062,300.

Youngstown Sheet & Tube Cuts Down Loss in 1933

New York, Feb. 20.—(AP)—The preliminary report of Youngstown Sheet and Tube company for 1933 shows net loss of $8,342,901 after taxes, interest, depreciation and depletion. This compares with loss of $13,272,783 in 1932.

NORTH WESTERN ROAD REDUCES LOSS IN 1933

Operating Net Rises 300 Per Cent.

Despite an increase of 300 per cent in net railway operating income, from $1,422,835 in 1932 to $6,031,714 last year, the Chicago & North Western railway sustained net loss after charges and taxes of $7,875,418 in 1933. This is substantially below the deficit of $11,216,820 incurred a year earlier.

FRED W. SARGENT. [Matzene Photo.]

These figures were revealed yesterday in the preliminary annual report of President Fred W. Sargent, which shows operating revenues gained from $72,491,521 to $73,394,500; operating expenses declined from $60,604,420 to $57,714,969; and fixed charges rose from $16,903,173 to $17,294,126, although Mr. Sargent estimated that for 1934 they will be approximately $550,000 less than last year.

Non-operating Income Down.

Non-operating income dropped from $4,263,517 to $3,386,994, due in part to the refusal of the Interstate Commerce commission to allow the road to include full interest on bonds of its subsidiary, the Omaha, which was unable to pay its interest in 1932. However, the report says, one half of this interest was included last year and this amount was earned and paid.

President Sargent, in his remarks, said the year was one of constant traffic changes. The upward trend at the end of 1932 was soon reversed. A substantial increase in the movement of grain and of passenger travel incident to the Fair produced a gain in earnings later which failed to continue during the fall months. He added:

Competition Cuts Revenues.

"Freight revenues increased 4.5 per cent compared with 1932, while passenger income declined 9.3 per cent, but this is the smallest drop in this source of revenue in the last four years. Effect of the new low rates inaugurated in December was not apparent, but it is hoped these will bring a substantial volume of travel this year."

He asserted competition of trucks, buses, private automobiles, waterways and pipe lines continues to deprive the company of large revenues.

Net increase in mortgage and term indebtedness from Jan. 1, 1930 to Dec. 31, 1933 was shown at $20,527,426. Reconstruction Finance corporation advances totaled $31,815,133, loans from banks and the Railroad Credit corporation amounted to $7,194,893, while a decrease in bonds and equipment trust certificates aggregated $18,482,600.

Profit and loss surplus and balance sheet position was not revealed. Final report of the company will be issued the latter part of April or early May.

Pennsy Earns $1.46 a Share.

The Pennsylvania railroad had a net income of $19,281,170 for 1933, compared with $13,573,536 in 1932, according to the preliminary report of the road. The 1933 net earning was at the rate of $1.46 a share on the capital stock, compared with $1.03 in 1932.

The balance sheet as of Dec. 31, 1933, showed current assets of $85,874,310 and current liabilities of $55,027,503, compared with $105,379,747 and $59,359,579 respectively in the preceding year.

A net loss of $4,990,931 for 1933 was shown in the preliminary report of the Southern Pacific. This compared with a 1932 loss of $5,779,631.

The Chicago and Eastern Illinois reported a net loss of $2,020,504 for 1933, compared with a loss of $3,411,419 in 1932.

Chesapeake & Ohio	$2,679,268	$2,335,978
Kansas City Southern	94,189	55,835
N. Y., Chi. & St. L.	518,379	132,841

Expect A.T.&T. to Declare Its Usual Dividend Today

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 20.—There has been no gossip in Wall street with reference to a change in the American Telephone and Telegraph dividend to be declared by directors at tomorrow's meeting. That it is not a matter over which the street is concerned is indicated by the fact that only 600 shares changed hands today, the smallest daily turnover in more than a year, while fluctuations were within a range of ⅞ point.

Pecora Shows Profits from Alcohol Pool

Washington, Feb. 20.—(AP)—A tale of Wall street "insiders" profiting through pool operations after creating a market activity that led the public to bid up prices was laid before the senate banking committee today by its counsel, Ferdinand Pecora, in support of the pending bill to place the stock exchange under government regulation.

From Charles C. Wright of Wright & Sexton, a member of the exchange, Pecora elicited testimony that he had participated personally in many such operations, the sole object of which, the witness agreed, was to arouse the interest of the public and then distribute blocks of stock at ensuing higher prices.

The heart of the operation, Pecora brought out, lay in giving options on quantities of stocks at prices close to those of the current market. If the individual or group participating in the option was successful in moving the price upward, the stock involved was "drawn down" with a profit.

Terms Operation Manipulation.

"If that isn't a species of manipulation," Pecora told reporters later, "then I don't know the meaning of the word. Mr. Wright frankly admitted that the trading operations under options consisted of buying and selling and that such operations are undertaken with a view to making an active market, by means of which, the general public, it is hoped, will come in and buy the shares which these options seek to distribute at a profit to those who hold them.

The attorney also emphasized that numerous options were given to Wright by other members of the stock exchange, and that the parties to the option agreement "looked up that fact as a guarantee that the conditions" of the agreement would be fulfilled, which is "conclusive evidence that the governing authority of the stock exchange is not only cognizant of the custom but actually enforces the observance of option conditions."

Personal Trading Nets $138,000.

Pecora produced a dozen or more option agreements in which Wright had an interest, emphasizing that in many cases the instruments were given by one stock exchange member to another and that while some of the pools showed losses the net result was a substantial profit.

Earlier Wright had told the committee he made a profit of $138,000 by personal trading in stock of the American Commercial Alcohol corporation during the spectacular rise and fall of that issue last spring and early summer, in addition to $20,000 in commissions on the orders he executed. In one instance he participated in a pool in the stock while acting as specialist.

Wright contended that if specialists were not permitted to trade on their own accounts 75 per cent of the market's liquidity would be removed. The specialists, he said, "made" a market when bids otherwise were lacking and the market was sinking, adding that they sometimes did so at great personal loss.

$500,000 PROFIT IN 1933 SEEN FOR PACKARD MOTORS

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 20.—(AP)—Alvan Macauley, president of the Packard Motor Car company, today announced that preliminary figures indicated the company's net profits for 1933, from operations and other additions to surplus, would amount to approximately $500,000. Net loss for the previous year was $6,824,312.

Macauley said cash and marketable securities amounted to $15,161,000 at the end of 1933, not including $656,000 of deposits in closed banks.

Burlington Stockholders Elect Two New Directors

Two new directors for the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad company were elected at a stockholders' meeting yesterday. R. Douglas Stuart, vice president of Quaker Oats company, was elected to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Alexander Legge, and Frank B. Kellogg, former secretary of state and now member of the world court, was elected to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Walker D. Hines.

101 MILLION SHARES TRADED ON NEW YORK MARKET SINCE JAN. 1

New York, Feb. 20.—Stock transactions on the New York Stock exchange today crossed the 100,000,000 share mark for the year to date. Total sales at the close of business today were 101,814,501 shares since Jan. 1, compared with 32,399,963 for the same period last year. The banking uncertainty and the general business situation were responsible for the low level of activity in the corresponding period last year.

Trading so far this year on the stock exchange has been the heaviest for any corresponding period since 1930. Other stock exchanges, it is believed, have experienced approximately the same increase in activity over last year.

EXPECT FREIGHT REPORT TO SHOW LARGE INCREASE

Indications are that the record of freight car loadings for the week ended Feb. 17 will make an unusually good showing as further reports tell of increased railroad business. A majority of the roads reporting had loadings during the week which were considerably in excess of the volume handled in the comparable week of 1933 and which exceeded the results of the preceding week of this year.

The Burlington handled 20,073 cars, compared with 18,452 in the like week of 1932 and with 19,832 in the preceding week of this year.

Cars handled by the Rock Island were greater than any week, except one, since Dec. 1, 1933. The road handled 19,829 cars during the week, compared with 18,890 in the corresponding week of 1933 and with 19,049 in the preceding week.

Illinois Central loadings totaled 26,031, compared with 25,310 a year ago and with 26,068 in the preceding week. The Southern Pacific handled 18,765 cars, compared with 13,990 a year ago and 17,896 in the preceding week.

NAME F. M. M'KEY AS RECEIVER FOR GRIGSBY-GRUNOW

Frank M. McKey, a professional receiver, yesterday was appointed receiver in bankruptcy for the Grigsby-Grunow company, manufacturers of radios and electrical refrigerators, by Federal Judge John P. Barnes. Mr. McKey replaces Thomas Marshall, an attorney, and Le Roi J. Williams, general manager of the company, who have been equity receivers.

The action followed an involuntary bankruptcy petition filed some weeks ago by a group of creditors. Book assets of the company were listed yesterday at $14,000,000 and liabilities at $6,000,000.

It was indicated in the court that there are twelve prospective purchasers for the company and that a bankruptcy sale will be held within two weeks. It is understood that the receiver will advertise the company for sale as a going concern.

The Grigsby-Grunow company was placed in equity receivership Nov. 24, 1933.

Stock Exchange Officials Go to Washington Hearing

Pound Drops; Hint British Fund Is Used

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 20.—Evidence that the British have put their pound stabilization fund to work to prevent sterling from rising too far in terms of American dollars was seen in the foreign exchange market today. The dollar advanced sharply against the pound, which closed at $5.05, a loss of 8½ cents for the day. At the same time the dollar declined in terms of the French franc, reaching an indicated gold worth of 59.81 cents, off about a third of a cent for the day from yesterday's 60.09 cent figure.

Recent advices from London indicated that the British fund, which is only slightly smaller than the American two billion dollar stabilization pool, has been idle for some time. Today's market action, however, was widely interpreted as indicating that the British have finally decided that the dollar has depreciated far enough in terms of the pound. Yesterday's sharp rise in the pound to $5.13½ had brought it to the highest level in more than a month.

British Vie for Gold.

International bankers here also reported that British authorities were bidding for gold in the London market in competition with American financial houses. The price of the metal advanced 1 shilling to 135 shillings, 9 pence. At the opening quotation of $5.11 for the pound this was equivalent to $34.68, against the official American price of $35 an ounce.

The final quotation on the franc here was 6.55 cents, against yesterday's last price of 6.52 cent. Par on the franc in terms of the revalued dollar is approximately 6.63 cents. The strength in the franc and the dipping of the dollar nearer its parity in French funds, however, were completely overshadowed by the change in the dollar-pound ratio. Every sharp change in this ratio revives talk about the possibility of a great currency war between the two countries.

Silver Prices Lower.

Silver was quiet today. In the absence of fresh news from Washington bar silver dropped ¾ of a cent to 46 cents an ounce and futures were off about a quarter of a cent on the average.

The flow of gold from Europe continued today. The liner Majestic docked with $45,000,000 in gold consigned to New York banking houses. Cargoes of $45,000,000 on the Olympic and $10,000,000 on the Champlain, due here next week, together with smaller shipments expected will bring the total received since Feb. 1 to about $400,000,000.

Today's gold statement of the New York Federal Reserve bank shows imports of $13,482,800, of which $5,802,100 was additional for Monday. Today's receipts comprised $6,465,300 from France and $1,216,400 from England. The daily figures cover transactions to 3 p. m.

Lower Fares Fail to Boom Travel by Taxi

The increased mileage resulting from the reduction in taxicab fares last summer has not been sufficient to make up for the loss in revenues in times of normal operations, according to officials of the Chicago Yellow Cab company. Business was great, they said, during the period of the Century of Progress, but with its closing taxicab profits vanished.

Thomas B. Hogan, president of the company; Benjamin Samuels, vice president, and R. H. Bieze, secretary-treasurer, yesterday produced figures to show how profits have fallen off and discussed some of the problems facing operators of a taxicab company.

"We have been greatly disappointed by the reception of Chicagoans of the lower fares," Mr. Samuels said. "During the World's Fair we had a wonderful business and we had expected that wintry weather would bring us the trade lost by the closing of the Fair. Our expectation did not materialize."

Fares Fail to Boost Traffic.

Mr. Hogan said that when he was talking against a radical reduction in fares before the city council last summer he gave as one objection the probability that city streets would be jammed with taxicabs loaded with passengers, which would interfere with private travel.

"If you want to see how wrong I was just observe the fleets of empty cabs cruising around," Mr. Hogan remarked."

Mr. Bieze produced figures to illustrate the turn of affairs in the taxicab business. A comparison of mileage for November, December, and January follows:

November, 1932	2,308,114
November, 1933	3,519,092
Gain in mileage	1,120,978
Per cent	46.74
December, 1932	2,997,019
December, 1933	4,145,018
Gain in mileage	1,147,999
Per cent	38.26
January, 1933	2,446,136
January, 1934	3,827,604
Gain in mileage	1,381,468
Per cent	56.48

Receipts Are Compared.

Below is a comparison of the receipts:

November, 1932	$386,853
November, 1933	394,691
Increase	7,838
Per cent	2
December, 1932	$402,019
December, 1933	472,635
Decrease	19,384
Per cent	3.94
January, 1933	$396,542
January, 1934	431,645
Increase	35,102
Per cent	8.86

The revenues for the first 18 days of February, 1934, as compared with a like number of days in other months follow: February, 1934, $244,674; February, 1933, $296,806; January, 1934, $248,904; December, 1933, $224,208, and November, 1933, $267,111.

Mr. Hogan explained that the total mileage shown includes the part of trips in which no passengers are carried. He emphasized that as mileage increased so did operating expenses, which include gasoline and oil, servicing, wear and tear on cars and tires, etc. Thus, while there has been an increase in receipts the amount is nowhere near enough to offset the increased operating costs.

Reports Operating Loss.

As a consequence operation has been at a loss. Mr. Hogan observed that not one of the company's stations had operated at a profit in January, which normally is one of the best months in the year for the taxicab business.

Chicago's situation as compared with New York, Mr. Hogan said, is greatly different because of the telephone business handled here, which is not done in Gotham. When an order is placed for a cab by telephone at least a part of the total trip is run without a paying load.

"One reason for our good business during the World's Fair," Mr. Hogan said, "was the fact that we took passengers to the Fair and carried them back—there was no dead mileage."

The tearing down of buildings to make open air parking spaces in the downtown and other congested districts has increased the use of private automobiles, cutting into the taxicab business, he added.

52 Banks Reopened During Fore Part of This Month

New York, Feb. 20.—The American Banker reported that between Feb. 1 and 15 there were 52 banks reopened throughout the country. Of these 24 were state chartered institutions and 28 national banks.

DOYLE SLATED TO BE RETIRED AS EDISON HEAD

Directors to Meet Next Week.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Edward J. Doyle, the office boy of Samuel Insull who rose to the presidency of the greatest property which the ill fated promoter developed, will be relieved of that post when directors of the Commonwealth Edison company meet next week to elect officers for the coming year, it was reported yesterday. Mr. Doyle, it was said, will continue with the company without portfolio.

EDWARD J. DOYLE. [Burke & Koretke Photo.]

Plans of the directors to retire Mr. Doyle were rumored yesterday. The action was seen as another step by the new management, headed by Chairman James Simpson, to divorce the affairs of the company from the old Insull régime. Mr. Doyle is under federal indictment with other officers of Corporation Securities company. He was one of the Insull men drafted to serve on the board of the investment trust, formed by Insull in his last desperate attempt to hold his empire together.

Resigned as a Director.

Mr. Doyle and Stanley Field, also under federal indictment, were reëlected directors of the Edison company last year over the protests of minority stockholders, but they gave up their board memberships a few weeks later.

Mr. Doyle is one of a number of operating men who came up in the Insull companies through the orthodox Horatio Alger route. He began his career as office boy in Insull's office in the old Chicago Edison company, predecessor to the present Commonwealth Edison company. That was in 1896, when Doyle was 17 years old. He impressed his boss, who made him his secretary, the same position that Insull had held with the late Thomas A. Edison.

Like several other of Insull's secretaries he advanced to responsible jobs in the organization. He was elected vice president in 1925 and became president five years later. Regarded as a capable executive, his retirement as president is looked upon as a matter of policy rather than reflection on his abilities.

Insull Associates Shifted.

Most of the operating men who were made directors of the big Chicago utilities by Insull were retired at the annual meetings last year. Since that time there has been a further shifting of personnel. John H. Gulick, another Insull executive, retired as vice president of the Commonwealth Edison company and Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, last month. He was succeeded by P. L. Smith of New York, who is mentioned as a possible successor to Mr. Doyle as president of Edison.

Stockholders of the company will hold their annual meeting next Monday. The two vacancies on the board caused by the retirement of Field and Doyle, will be filled at that time. The new board is expected to elect officers for the coming year immediately following the stockholders' meeting.

A. M. Castle Co. Resumes Common Stock Dividend

Directors of the A. M. Castle company, iron and steel merchandisers, yesterday declared a dividend of 25 cents a share on the common stock. It is the first payment authorized since Feb. 1, 1931, when 75 cents was paid. The company's report, issued recently, showed that the company made up a loss incurred in the first half of 1933 and closed the period on the profit side.

To the Holders of the Refunding and Extension Mortgage 5% Gold Bonds of

THE LACLEDE GAS LIGHT COMPANY

The Company proposes to the holders of the above bonds that the date of maturity thereof be extended for a period of five years from April 1, 1934. The Board of Directors on February 3, 1934, authorized a Plan and Agreement setting forth the terms and conditions of the proposed extension and a comprehensive outline of the reasons therefor. The Public Service Commission of the State of Missouri authorized the extension of these bonds in an order handed down February 14, 1934. No compensation will be paid, directly or indirectly, to bankers, brokers or security houses for obtaining or recommending deposit of bonds in connection with this extension plan.

Bondholders who deposit their bonds will receive a cash payment of $21.60 per $1,000 bond as soon as the Plan becomes operative. The extended bonds will continue to bear interest at the rate of 5% per annum for which new coupons will be attached to the extended bonds. The payment of $21.60, together with the 5% coupons, will increase the yield basis to approximately 5½% per annum. Immediately upon deposit of the bonds, the April 1, 1934 coupons will be paid without waiting for their maturity date.

The Company has outstanding $20,000,000 of the above issue of bonds maturing April 1, 1934. Of these bonds, $10,000,000 are on deposit as collateral with the Trustee under a subsequent mortgage of the Company for the security of bonds issued under that mortgage. If action should be brought under the mortgage which secures the $10,000,000 of bonds in the hands of the public to enforce the same, the Trustee under the subsequent mortgage would at once become entitled to enforce the foreclosure of the $10,000,000 of bonds not in the hands of the public but deposited as collateral.

The Company believes that under existing conditions it is to the interest of all bondholders to approve the Plan, not only so as to avoid enforcement of payment of the $10,000,000 of bonds held as collateral, but also to avoid possible litigation, with its attendant expenses and complications. It is, therefore, of the utmost importance that prompt action be taken by the bondholders so that, if possible, the extension may be completed prior to the maturity date of the bonds.

Bondholders may become parties to the Plan and Agreement by depositing their bonds with The Boatmen's National Bank of St. Louis, which has been designated as Agent, or with its Sub-Agent, the Bankers Trust Company, of New York. Upon deposit of bonds, the Agent or Sub-Agent will deliver Certificates of Deposit therefor. The Company will make application to the New York Stock Exchange for listing of the Certificates of Deposit as well as of extended bonds.

Bondholders are requested to communicate immediately with E. L. White, Secretary, The Laclede Gas Light Company, St. Louis, Missouri, to secure a copy of the Plan and Agreement.

New York, Feb. 20.—The listed bond market continued to display irregularity today with volume reduced to $13,215,000 due to tardiness in starting because of adverse weather conditions. Virtually all classifications fluctuated within narrow limits. Domestic corporation bonds were irregularly lower, as were foreign loans while United States government bonds were generally higher, closing up 6-32ds to off 1-32d point.

Price changes were narrow for the most part, although it was apparent that profit taking in the lower priced speculative issues, which marked yesterday's closing today, had carried over to today.

N. Y. Central Group Steady.

In the domestic corporation group, few issues at all active lost more than a point or two. New York Central issues were among the steadiest of the rails, reflecting plans for meeting a bond maturity on May 1. Several infrequently traded railroad issues showed wide price variations from their last previous sales.

Principal strength in the foreign list appeared in the obligations of Czechoslovakia, Finland, and Switzerland. On the other hand most of the United Kingdom, Denmark, Austria, Dutch East Indies, and German issues, including municipal and corporation bonds as well as government loans, lost a point or more. Latin American loans closed generally lower in fair active dealings.

NEW ISSUES.

The Cedar Rapids independent school district has sold $590,000 of 4 per cent bonds due March 1, 1936, to the Harris Trust and Savings bank, the Merchants National Bank of Cedar Rapids, and the Iowa-Des Moines National Bank of Des Moines.

Offering of new issues of municipal bonds was announced yesterday. Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc., the First of Boston corporation, and Baum Bernheimer Co. are offering $500,000 City of Kansas City, Missouri, 4½ per cent improvement bonds, maturing Feb. 1, 1936 to 1974.

Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc., Bancamerica-Blair corporation, E. H. Rollins & Sons, Inc., and Williams, Reagan & Co. of St. Paul are offering $600,000 City of St. Paul, Minnesota, 4 per cent welfare bonds maturing Feb. 1, 1935, to 1944.

HOLC BONDS.

Bonds of the Home Owners' Loan corporation closed yesterday at 95½ bid, 96½ asked.

Investment Realty Corporation.

Investors' Guide: It is requested that, if possible, you please furnish me with information as to the present status of Investment Realty corporation—W. W. S.

Answer: According to information received from David Bortin, attorney and former receiver for Investment Realty corporation, the stock of the company is worthless. The corporation was originally United States National Building and Loan association. Several years ago, with the consent of about 90 per cent of the stockholders, all assets of United States National Building and Loan association were transferred to a new company, Investment Realty corporation.

A number of the stockholders of the old company refused to assent to the transfer. Under Pennsylvania laws, therefore, they were entitled to demand and be paid their share of their stock at the time of the transfer.

Most of the assets consisted of equities in real estate and second mortgages which were heavily encumbered with first mortgages. Income from the property was insufficient to support the encumbrances, and the corporation ended up with little money and valueless equities.

What money there was had to go to satisfy claims of the stockholders who did not approve the transfer of the assets, and nothing remained for stockholders of Investment Realty corporation.

Dollars and Prices.

Investors' Guide: Now that President Roosevelt has devalued the dollar down to 59.06 cents, I beg to ask your advice on the following questions: I am working for $3 a day. Shall I get $3 of the cheaper money, same as before, or do I get something over $5 a day of the devalued money? Also, I have a piece of real estate which is leased for a term of years at $50 a month. Do I get more of the devalued dollars or do I get $50 regardless of the dollar value?—L. O. K.

Answer: If your agreement to work calls for payment of $3 a day, that is all you will receive, regardless of the fact that each dollar is represented by a smaller number of grains of gold. Likewise, if your property is leased at $50 a month, that is all you will receive.

The devaluation which you mention still leaves the dollar as a dollar in terms of money. The administration by the act of devaluing hopes to reduce the purchasing power of the dollar, but not the figure that is printed on the paper.

STOCKS IMPROVE DESPITE RULE OF OLD MAN WINTER

Aviation Issues Lead Rise —Volume Small.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 20.—The weather man gummed up the works on the stock exchange today, but bulls strove mightily to overcome the handicap of a shortened session and managed to shove prices fractionally higher.

A blizzard that paralyzed railroad and automobile traffic, preventing many traders and brokers from reaching their offices from suburban homes, necessitated a delay of one hour in the opening of trading. It was the first time in fourteen years that the market's machinery was disturbed by weather.

The net result was a lethargic market. A turnover of not much more than a million and a quarter shares was too small to result in anything but an exceedingly narrow price range, except for fair activity and modest strength in scattered specialty issues.

Technical Position Better.

Prices showed a marked tendency to firm up throughout the list. Following yesterday's reaction, the market exhibited an improved technical position, aided by a background of favorable trade news.

Favoritism was shown toward automobile and other industrial groups which bulls expect to profit most from anticipated spring business recovery. About the only cheer derived from the dreary day was the performance of airplane and air transport issues, which were stronger than at any time since they took a tailspin when the big contract cancellation wind hit them.

United Aircraft, the butt of the crash selling, was the brightest spot in the entire list, scoring a net advance of more than 2 points. Demand for the stock was so urgent at times that several blocks involving 2,000 to 3,000 shares changed hands. Curtiss-Wright, Douglas Aircraft, and North American Aviation; among others, were likewise well supported and finished higher.

With old fashioned winter weather playing into the hands of coal producers, traders with an eye to business lost little time in seeking to capitalize on the prospects for increased fuel consumption. Moreover, the industry has, at least temporarily, lifted itself out of the mire of strike difficulties.

Coal Issues, Rails Strong.

Burns A rose more than 3 points [300 per cent] on two sales, and the preferred shares rose from $11 to $15 a share. One sale added 5 points to the market value of American Coal. For the same reason, Pennsylvania, New York Central and others of the big coal-moving rails were firm, and as a group the carriers were among the strongest. Special strength was shown by Western Maryland, which touched a new high above 17 in an active day.

Traders eyeing the business outlook bought actively of Remington Rand and National Cash Register, driving the former up more than a point on the day. A standout specialty was Maytag, all classes of which sold into new high ground on gains of 1 to 5 points. American Type Founders, common and preferred, also moved along.

Most utilities remained out of favor. Buying continued in auto stocks, this time including Chrysler and General Motors. The group closed with gains of fractions to a point. U. S. Steel and others in its group were good, as were most other heavy industrials.

COMMITTEE FOR NATION TO STUDY STOCK CONTROL

Investigation of the Fletcher-Rayburn stock exchange regulation bill has been undertaken by the national industrial conference at the instance of the Committee for the Nation, James H. Rand, chairman of the latter body, announced yesterday.

The study will deal primarily with what possible effects enactment would have on general price levels, purchasing power, flow of capital into industry, public and private credit, wealth producing capacity and opportunity for individual iniative.

Chairman Rand said his organization hopes congressional hearings on the bill will continue long enough to examine all implications seemingly involved. If objections voiced by some members of the Committee for the Nation are well founded, he added, interest of brokers whose business is affected directly by the bill become insignificant in comparison with the public's interest, for unnecessary constriction of legitimate credit and stifling of private initiative will react upon the whole recovery program.

SENATE APPROVES INVESTIGATION OF ELECTRIC RATES

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—(AP)—An investigation by the federal power commission of electric rates throughout the country would be authorized under a resolution adopted by the senate today and sent to the house.

The senate approved without debate a resolution by Senator Norris [Rep., Neb.] to direct the power commission to investigate and report on electric rates to residential, rural, commercial, and industrial consumers, charged by private and municipal corporations.

The resolution carries no specific appropriation but would authorize the President to make funds available within his discretion.

JOBS AND WAGES IN ILLINOIS HOLD ABOVE LAST YEAR

Seasonal Drop Fails to Shake Advantage.

Illinois' trade and industry reduced employment and pay rolls seasonally in the month ended Jan. 15 but maintained them high above the volume of January, 1933, according to data released yesterday by the state department of labor.

Employment fell 2.5 per cent and pay rolls 0.8 per cent for 1,768 manufacturing and nonmanufacturing establishments employing 328,738 workers at weekly wages of $6,912,362. In the eleven years beginning with 1923 the average decline in employment for the period was 1.7 per cent, that in pay rolls 3.2 per cent.

Volume Well Above 1933.

Last month's decrease in employment was the fourth consecutive one, that in wage disbursements the third. Despite successive losses the number of wage earners of all reporting industries was 18.6 per cent, and the pay rolls 26.5 per cent in excess of the volumes in January, 1933.

Eleven hundred and five manufacturing establishments reported a decline of 2.2 per cent in employment during the period Dec. 15-Jan. 15 and a gain of less than 0.1 per cent in pay rolls. Margins of 26.2 and 42.1 per cent were maintained over employment and pay rolls, respectively, in January, 1933.

Yearly spreads in employment and wage disbursements for 663 nonmanufacturing concerns were somewhat less, but still substantial, at 7.1 and 7.5 per cent, respectively. Last month's index for employment fell 2.8 and pay rolls 1.9 per cent below the volume in December.

Only One Falls Behind.

Every one of the main manufacturing and nonmanufacturing categories, with the exception of clothing and millinery, maintained the number of wage earners and their total earnings materially above the like period of last year. While employment in clothing and millinery was less last month than a year ago, pay rolls showed to advantage.

Among the five main nonmanufacturing groups retail and wholesale trade and building and construction eut both employment and pay rolls. Conversely the indexes for public utilities, coal mining, and the services [hotels and restaurants, laundering, cleaning, and dyeing] showed improvement.

Weekly earnings of both sexes combined for January, 1934, averaged $21.03 for all reporting industries: $22.74 for men and $14.16 for women. Eleven hundred and twenty-eight concerns employing 200,835 wage earners reported that total actual man-hours worked last month fell off slightly, while average hours worked per employé per week rose from 35.9 in December to 36.1 in January.

PACKERS DENY FIGHTING NRA; CITE PRICE RISE

The Institute of American Meat Packers in refuting yesterday a recent charge of Representative Wearin of Iowa that the industry is not keeping faith with the recovery program, says that pay rolls are 20 per cent above those prevailing on Aug. 1, 1933, and that prices of live stock at 14 to 72 per cent higher than a year ago.

"Cattle prices on Feb. 18, last, averaged $5.48 per hundred pounds, against $4.80 a year earlier," says the institute. "Hogs averaged $4.50, against $3.52; lambs, $9.38, compared with $5.75, and ewes $4.73, against $2.75.

"In addition the hog producer cooperating with the government will receive a cash benefit payment of $1.50 a hundredweight financed through the processing tax."

Grain Exports from U. S. Drop Sharply Last Week

Washington, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Grain exports from the United States last week amounted to 243,000 bushels, against 1,711,000 bushels the previous week and 388,000 bushels in the corresponding week last year.

TEXAS ANSWERS ICKES' FEAR ON 'FLOOD OF OIL'

Austin, Tex., Feb. 20.—(AP)—The Texas railroad commission, state oil regulatory body, said today there would be no "wild outpouring of oil" in Texas, as indicated in a statement by Secretary of the Interior Ickes.

Referring to a ruling of Federal Judge Randolph Bryant that the federal government could not enforce regulatory provisions of the petroleum code against companies which had not signed it and which operated only in intrastate commerce, the commission, in a statement, said:

"Judge Bryant's decision merely reaffirms the constitutional rights of a sovereign state, relating to the purely internal affairs of that sovereign state. Texas is not going to flood any other state with oil. There is no cause for alarm on the part of the industry."

The commission decided today after hearing of oil operators in all fields of the state, to continue the existing production allocations indefinitly.

Plan Stricter U. S. Laws.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 20.—The interior department is preparing legislation seeking to strengthen the power of the petroleum administrative board over interstate and intrastate shipments of "hot" oil, Secretary Ickes, the oil administrator, announced today.
